DURRANT IS IN A CORNER.

Under Severe Examination by the District Attorney He Starts Going to Pieces.

HE CONTRADICTS HIMSELF AND IS BADLY TIED UP.

Flimsy Story of Advice Given Him by a Stranger About Blanche Lamont.

A VIGIL AT THE FERRY.

He Gave Different Reasons as to Why He Was Keeping Guard There.

HIS MEMORY WAS DEFECTIVE.

He Forgot to Tell Those Interested About the Clues He Had Received

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 10.—Theodore Durrant's reputation for truth and veracity went completely to pieces on the witness stand this morning.

Durrant's answers to two or three questions were palpably lies, and he changed his answers to fit the occasions.

Besides he told a story about the disappearance of Blanche Lamont that was so gauzy that everybody wonders how Durrant had the hardihood to think the jury would accept it as a fact.

The pitfall into which Durrant fell was in telling about the afternoon that he spent at the ferry to see if Blanche would not attempt to cross the bay to escape from the city.

Durrant said he had a clew that Miss Lamont would cross the bay that afternoon.

When asked where he got the clew Durrant said he was standing at the corner of Market and Montgomery streets that day when a stranger came up to him and asked him if his name was not Durrant.

The prisoner replied that it was.

The stranger then asked if Durrant was not interested in her disappearance in view of the fact that his name had been connected with the case.

Durrant replied that he was.

The stranger then said: "Watch the ferries this afternoon; that is my advice. She will try to cross the bay."

Although Durrant said he was overjoyed to get a clew to Miss Lamont, in reply to District Attorney Barnes' questions he said he did not ask the man's name, residence, or anything about the source of information he had received.

Neither did he ask for further information on the subject.

He simply watched the man walk toward Dupont street and then Durrant went to a restaurant and ate luncheon.

He then went to the ferry, he says, to see if he could find Blanche.

Four of Durrant's friends saw Durrant at the ferry that afternoon, and by one of them the prosecution expects to prove that Durrant went there not to meet Blanche Lamont, but Minnie Williams.

Aaron Hoge, an old schoolmate of Durrant, testified at the preliminary examination, that Durrant met a woman answering Minnie Williams' description and boarding a Howard street car with her, rode to the Mission.

Durrant testified today that he did not meet any woman at the ferry and that he went from the ferry to the Armory to pack up his blankets preparatory to making the trip to Mount Diablo the next day.

To Frank Soleman, whom he saw at the ferry, Durrant said that he was looking for Blanche Lamont.

To Dodge and Dukes, students at the Medical College, he said he was waiting for members of the Signal Corps, who were coming from Oakland.

When asked today if he told Dodge and Dukes he was tracing a clew to Miss Lamont, Durrant at first replied that he did.

The next moment he realized that he had given the wrong answer and replied he did not.

He tried to reconcile the statements by saying he was looking for Miss Lamont and waiting for the members of the signal corps at the same time.

District Attorney Barnes asked Durrant why he left the ferry at 5 o'clock to make preparations for a pleasure trip if he was so much interested in finding Miss Lamont with whose disappearance his name had been so unpleasantly connected.

Durrant replied that he did not think it necessary to remain at the ferry longer.

The District Attorney then asked if he told any of Blanche's friends of the important clew he received from the stranger.

Durrant replied he had not as he had not had the opportunity.

After vigorous questioning Durrant admitted he attended the Christian Endeavor meeting the same night where he met a number of Miss Lamont's friends.

Among others he met Thomas Vogel who Durrant testified the moment before was more interested in Blanche's disappearance than anybody else except her aunt, Mrs. Noble.

Although he had private conversation with Vogel, Durrant told him nothing about the clew to Miss Lamont's disappearance as he said the subject did not occur to him.

Durrant was asked if after the disappearance of Blanche Lamont he told Herbert Schlageter she had probably been lead astray and gone into a house of ill-fame.

Durrant said he told Schlageter that Miss Lamont might have been led astray.

Barnes asked Durrant what there was about the manner or character of Miss Lamont that induced him to make that remark.

Durrant said he knew nothing against Miss Lamont, but had heard Detective Anthony say that she might have been led astray.

HONOR FOR BRAVE MEN.

President Faure Sends Word to the French Troops at Madagascar.

The Country Is Grateful for the Splendid Services Performed.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

PARIS, Oct. 10.—The minister of war, General Zurlinden, received a dispatch from Mojang today confirming the news of the capture of Antananarivo, the capital of Madagascar, by a French force under the command of General Duchesne.

The official dispatch says that after a brilliant action Antananarivo was occupied September 30th.

The peace negotiations with the Hovas were opened next day and successfully concluded the same evening.

The terms agreed upon were subject to ratification by the French government.

General Metzinger, second in command of the French troops, was appointed Governor of Antananarivo.

President Faure sent the following cable message to General Deuchesne:

"In the name of all France the government congratulates you, your officers and men. Your admirable troops have all deserved well of the country. France thanks you for the services you rendered her and for the great example you have given. You have proved there are no perils or obstacles which can not be removed by method, courage and coolness. You are appointed grand officer of the Legion of Honor. Forward the names without delay of those in your command for rewards and the government will propose to Parliament that a medal be struck for distribution to your troops."

TALENT MATCHED.

Brilliant Counsel Engaged in the Great Merritt Contest.

DOCUMENTARY TESTIMONY.

Evidence Leading Up to the Foundation of the Trust.

EVERY TECHNICALITY WATCHED

A Claim That the Court Has no Jurisdiction Over the Case.

The celebrated case of the president and trustees of Bowdoin College versus Harry P. Merritt et al. was resumed this morning in the United State Circuit Court in San Francisco before Judge Hawley.

There were no spectators, though the space within the bar was well filled with eminent counsel, all of whom are, in some manner, connected with the case.

Among those were Arthur Rogers, representing Henry P. Merritt; Horace W. Philbrook, J. C. Martin and W. A. Moore, representing James P. Merritt; Robert Y. Hayne, with Mr. Wilbur of the legal firm of Blake, Williams and Harrison as associate counsel representing Bowdoin College; Warren Olney, representing Judge John A. Stanly as trustee, Judge Nusbaumer, representing George W. Reed, administrator; George R. B. Hayes, A. Cohen and a number of others.

The morning session was devoted almost exclusively to the introduction of documentary evidence tending to show the disposition of her property by means of the will made by Mrs. Catherine M. Garcelon, the soundness of mind which she enjoyed at the time she disposed of her property, and, in fact, all the steps taken in the probate of the will, the attempts to contest the same, and the sinuous course the matter has taken during the last four years through the courts of this county and the United States Circuit Court of this district. The object of this evidence is to sustain the trust created in the will by which Bowdoin College is to receive considerably over $400,000.

When the noon recess was taken all this documentary evidence had not been introduced.

The documents were presented by Mr. Hayne. They were objected to by Mr. Rodgers, and the objections made, as well as the intimation that the defendants do not admit the jurisdiction of the court in the case, show that the suit will be warmly contested as it progresses.

THE DOCUMENTS.

Mr. Hayne read a copy of a will of Mrs. Garcelon, dated September, 1891, appointing Stephen W. Purrington legatee. The will was admitted in evidence. He then started to read the petition of Stephen W. Purrington and Harry Merritt for the probate of the last will and testament in Alameda county of Mrs. Garcelon.

Arthur Rodgers objected to the reading of the petition on the ground that it is not material. The court allowed an exception and the petition was read and admitted in evidence.

Mr. Hayne then offered the testimony taken in connection with petition and objection was again made by Mr. Rodgers on the ground that it was not material. The court allowed another exception, although the judge stated that he was not quite sure as to the admissibility of the document, so the matter was allowed to go in subject to later examination.

Mr. Hayne then read the testimony of Stephen W. Purrington, in which he showed that Mr. Purrington had found Mrs. Garcelon's will in the Oakland Bank of Savings and had filed it with the clerk of Alameda county. The date of this testimony, which was attested by H. D. Belden, deputy county clerk, was the 1st of February, 1892.

The testimony of Henry P. Merritt was then taken up. The same objection was made to its introduction by Mr. Rodgers, and it was admitted under the same circumstances as had been that of Mr. Purrington. The testimony was in the main the same as that of Mr. Purrington. The attest and filing mark were the same as in the previous case.

The testimony of Isaac Upham brought on the same objections. It was then decided that all papers of the kind now before the court would be admitted subject to the objections already made.

Mr. Upham's testimony showed that he and R. G. Brown had acted as subscribing witnesses to the signing by Mrs. Garcelon of the will of that lady.

The testimony of R. G. Brown was like in form to that of Mr. Upham's and was admitted without reading.

FARNO'S DAMAGE SUIT.

An Unpleasant Episode Grows Out of the Dog Fight.

Mrs. Sanford and Her Husband Will Make a Stubborn Defense.

Mrs. S. C. Sanford will vigorously contest W. E. Farno's suit against her and County Treasurer Sanford to recover $2000 as damages alleged to have been sustained because he was arrested as one of the participants in the recent dog fight at Ike Bottomly's resort in Temescal. Mrs. Sanford was given Farno's name among many others for which warrants were issued. Farno is a milkman and claimed that he was far from the scene delivering milk when the fight and subsequent raid occurred.

The case against him was dismissed. He was not content, however, and commenced a suit for damages, alleging false imprisonment and malicious prosecution.

Mrs. Sanford declares she was guilty of no maliciousness. She says she does not believe Farno has an equitable claim against her. She and her husband have engaged Attorney C. T. Johns to handle their side of the case in the Superior Court, and they propose to make a warm fight.

Farno, however, is equally sure he is in the right. He has retained ex-Mayor Chapman and that is assurance that his side will be presented for all there is in it.

Today a demurrer to the complaint was filed in which technical objections are made. It is claimed the complaint is uncertain and ambiguous and does not recite how Mrs. Sanford was acting maliciously or without probable cause.

LARO TAKES IN SAILS.

He Is Willing That His Wife Should Secure the Divorce.

Judge Ellsworth Surprises Them by Continuing His Decision.

That "The plans of mice and men gang aglee" was illustrated this morning in the Superior Court in the case of Mrs. Lulu Laro and her husband, Edward Laro, who have suits for divorce there pending.

Barber Laro was not anxious to prosecute the case. He had brought suit against his wife shortly after the horse-whipping episode on Broadway in which he cut quite a figure, and he filed through his attorney, Fred Whitney, a very sensational complaint. Mrs. Laro was not to be outdone. She went to Waste & Stetson and told a harrowing tale of domestic troubles. The result was an answer and a cross complaint.

The case was set for trial today. Laro however had tired of his end of the fight and he practically consented to allow the case to go by default. The terms were arranged and the parties litigant made their way to Judge Ellsworth's court today expecting a decree in behalf of Mrs. Laro on the ground of her husband's extreme cruelty.

Judge Ellsworth heard a long story from Mrs Laro. The tenor of it was that her barber husband had frequently struck her while she was in a delicate condition, because she objected to his cycling and leaving her to shift for herself. She narrated incidents which have already appeared in print, regarding his late hours and his habit of using bad language.

She told how she had "shadowed" him to the Piedmont baths on a wheel, while he went there with a woman who she said was not of spotless reputation. She ran the whole category and was succeeded by Joseph Phillips a former roomer with the Laros.

Miss Manie Denham told some stories of how she had seen Laro in company with a woman in a saloon at Seventeenth street and San Pablo avenue. Mrs. Laro also said her husband at the same resort with a female who, when the irate wife burst in upon them, expressed regrets, but admitted she was a loose character. All these and many more incidents were related on the witness stand.

Judge Ellsworth declined, however, to grant the sought for decree. He said he would have to consider the testimony more fully. He therefore continued the case until October 21st. The plans had been laid to allow Mrs. Laro the custody of the baby girl Juanita and a monthly stipend of $7.50 for the child's support. Mrs. Laro was also to resume her maiden name of Lulu E. Redmon, but Judge Ellsworth decided she would have to wait two weeks at least before a decision could be rendered.

HEALTH IS AT STAKE.

Residents of Fruitvale Will Stand No More Nonsense.

Prosecutory Moves Against the Slayers of Deceased Cattle.

Mike Gormley, the free market butcher, who slaughtered diseased cows at Fruitvale, was re-arrested today by Deputy Sheriff Quinlan on a charge of violating a sanitary ordinance. Fruitvale has as to a sanitary district certain laws. One of the prohibits the depositing of the organs of slaughtered cattle without burying that which is cast away. When the three tubercular cows were killed by Gormley the slaughterers left behind them a large portion of the internals of the animals. He will be prosecuted vigorously by some of the residents of Fruitvale who are up in arms against the practice.

Christenson, who was with Gormley, will also be arrested. The latter was locked up in the county jail, as he was unable to furnish bail. Quinlan has captured the third man of the party. He is Gus Blum and is now detained at the county jail. A charge of having diseased meat in his possession also rests against him. The authorities propose to stop the dangerous traffic if possible.

Gormley was convicted in the Police Court this morning.

NOT UNDER CONTROL

District Attorney Snook Has Challenged the Federal Authorities.

A LENGTHY OPINION FILED.

Webster Street Bridge Said to Be in the Hands of the County.

HOW THE LINE IS DRAWN.

Federal Authorities Only in Charge of Unnavigable Drawbridges.

Office of District Attorney,
Oakland, Cal., Oct. 9, 1895.

To the Honorable the Board of Supervisors of the County of Alameda:

Gentlemen:

Two communications dated respectively August 10th and August 15th, 1895, addressed to the Board of Supervisors of the County of Alameda by Colonel G. H. Mendell of the Corps of Engineers, U. S. A., have been referred to me for the purpose of determining what the rights of the County would be in the premises, and in whom the title of the Webster street bridge as now located. It is apparent from the reading of the transcript hereto attached that the Webster street bridge was constructed under a statute which provided that certain commissioners be appointed by the City of Oakland and the Township of Alameda for said purpose, and that subsequently thereto, as will be perceived by a reference to said transcript, the Legislature in 1877 passed an act placing the bridge under the control of the Board of Supervisors of the County of Alameda. That thereafter, by proceedings duly had, a right of way was given to the South Pacific Coast Railroad Company to use said bridge for the purpose of running trains across the same, under the conditions that it would repair the bridge and increase the size of the draw. The report of your committees evidences the fact that the said draw of said bridge was changed and the bridge constructed in accordance with the agreement made with the South Pacific Coast Railroad Company, and has ever since been used by said railroad for the purpose of carrying on its traffic in the city of Oakland.

Upon an examination of said transcript it will also appear that as early as 1852, the Estuary of San Antonio was declared to be a navigable stream by statute enacted by the State Legislature.

There are three cases in which authority is necessary from the Legislature to erect a bridge across a stream.

First: Where the stream is navigable.

Second: Where the State owns the bed of the stream, and

Third: Where the right to take toll is desired.

Impassable obstructions may be authorized by a State either upon tidal or fresh water streams within its limits and navigable to coast vessels, while the power conferred upon Congress to regulate commerce remains dormant and unexercised by legislation upon the subject.

These principles have been passed upon in numerous cases, and have been fully sustained by numerous authorities, and further it has been held that a bridge having a sufficient opening, or being of sufficient height at the usual state of the water, or of ordinary freshets, to permit the passage of any vessel capable of navigating the stream, will not be deemed as interfering with the powers of Congress, even in cases where Congress has regulated navigation upon navigable waters.

In a California case that was appealed to the Supreme Court of the United States it was held that "The American River in California is a navigable water of the United States and as such under the control of the general government in the exercise of its power to regulate foreign and interstate commerce so far as it may be necessary to insure its free navigation" and in the same case it was held (citing a large number of leading authorities upon the subject) "the control of Congress over navigable waters within the States so as to preserve their free navigation under the commercial clause of the constitution, the power of the States within which they lie to authorize the construction of bridges over them until Congress intervenes and supercedes their authority, and the right of private parties to interfere with their construction or continuance, have been fully considered, and we are entirely satisfied with the soundness of the conclusions reached. They recognize the full power of the States to regulate within their limits matter of internal police, which embraces among other things the construction, repair and maintenance of roads and bridges and the establishment of ferries; that the States are more likely to appreciate the importance of these means of internal communication and to provide for their proper management, than a government at a distance, and that as to bridges over navigable streams, their power is subordinate to that of Congress, as an act of the latter body is, by the constitution, made the supreme law of the land; but that until Congress acts on the subject their power is plenary."

Cardwell vs. American River Bridge Co., 113 U. S. 205.

Congress has passed three acts appertaining to the building of bridges and regulating the construction thereof, and vesting in the Secretary of War power, in his judgment, to compel changes in the size of a bridge or in any part thereof.

See Act of Congress August 11th, 1888, and act amendatory thereof September 18th, 1890.

The last mentioned acts were construed in the case of the United States vs. Keokuk and H. Bridge Company, 45 Federal Reporter, 178, United States vs. Reider, 50 Federal Reporter, 108, and United States vs. A. & T. R. R. Co., et al., in which cases it was held that the statute which provided for the vesting of such power is unconstitutional. I can find no other authority touching the subject matter of said act, except Section 5 of an Act of Congress (U. S. Stats. 1893-95, Chap. 299, page 362) passed 1894, regulating the opening of drawbridges and providing that regulations be made by the Secretary of War for same; therefore it would seem from a review of the authorities that the position of the county of Alameda as at present advised, is as follows:

The Webster street bridge was constructed by authority of the State Legislature. That the statutes authorizing the construction was a proper exercise of authority on the part of the State; that there has been no statute passed by the United States Congress which affect or appertain to the government, by Congress, of navigable waters, known as the Estuary of San Antonio, and until some act is passed by Congress affecting the subject matter, the War Department will have no control over said bridge, unless the draw of such bridge is such that it cannot accommodate the vessels navigating the estuary. That any change that are to be made in said bridge must be made with the consent of the Board of Supervisors, and then only made in the construction of the bridge where it now stands.

Respectfully submitted,
CHARLES T. SNOOK,
District Attorney.

CALL IT POLITICS.

City Officials Attack the Motives of Mayor Davie.

The city hall heads of departments now claim that they have discovered a new reason for the attitude of the Mayor in forcing a dollar levy. They say it is for the purpose of showing them up in a bad light at the end of the fiscal year.

A leading official said this morning: "The fixing of a dollar tax levy is a piece of political finesse that has rarely been equaled in this city. At the present time the dollar limit is popular, and a half dollar would be twice as much so. But this tax will not raise enough money even while to run our departments for one quarter, about next March all the funds will be empty and the city of Oakland will be crippled. They will then be charged by the Davie faction with having conducted their departments in the most unsatisfactory manner known for years. This will be true, but whose fault will it be—not ours certainly. We cannot do good work without money. The Mayor has the grip on us, it is true and so long as the veto holds we must be unselfish."

HIS BRAIN CAVE WAY.

In a Fit of Sheer Despondency Justus Held Commits Suicide.

Justus Held, a capitalist who lived at 1666 Telegraph avenue, committed suicide yesterday by jumping into the bay near the Seal Rock house.

For a number of years past he has been suffering with pains in his head and his brain had slightly softened. He had threatened suicide several times before and his wife who knew his despondent condition, kept a close watch over him, but he slipped away from her yesterday and she did not hear of him until notified of the finding of the body.

Held came to Oakland thirty years ago and accumulated a snug fortune in the liquor and cigar business at Fifteenth and San Pablo avenue. Some time ago he sold his business and has since been living on the income from his property.

He leaves a widow and a daughter, who is the wife of a Ventura farmer named Sherwood. Held was born in Germany sixty-two years ago.

SAYS HE OWES NOT.

Dr. John Fearn Contests Mrs. Louise Henderson's Claims.

Dr. John Fearn has filed an answer to the suit of Mrs. Louise B. Henderson to recover $1850 on promissory notes she held as a part of the liabilities of the drug store of Henderson & Graham, which was sold to Fearn. He denies that any notes exist. He claims they have been satisfied and that Mrs. Henderson destroyed them as evidence of any debt due her.

Dr. Fearn also denies that he assumed a liability for any of the notes when he came to Oakland thirty years a list of bills owed by Henderson & Graham which he did assume but Mrs. Henderson's notes were not among them.

She claimed that the notes had been destroyed or lost through carelessness.

POLICE ROUND-UPS.

Mary Smith Again Falls a Victim to the Cup That Inebriates.

Mary Smith, who has so often promised of late to keep away from the flowing bowl, showed up yesterday with a jag as large as the Council fight. She was too sick to come into court this morning and the judge ordered her bail to be fixed at $25 and continued the matter until tomorrow.

George Cavanaugh, a lad arrested for rain jumping, promised to refrain from the practice in the future and the court suspended judgment.

C. H. Mitchell, a "biker" paid $2 for not complying with the bicycling ordinance.

Philip Jansen denied that he disturbed the peace of Mary Burke, and his trial was set for the 12th.

ADJUDGED GUILTY.

The Vendors of Diseased Meat Must Now Pay the Penalty.

F. H. Christen and Mike Gormley were found guilty this morning of bringing into the city unwholesome meats and offering them for sale.

Yesterday they asked that their cases be continued until this morning, claiming that they could produce a witness from San Francisco who would testify that he had bought the meat from them to be used by him as food for his chickens.

Judge Wood granted the request, but the promised witness failed to appear and a further continuance was denied.

TO CARRY THREE LIGHTS.

Cyclists Should Be Like the Ships That Pass in the Night.

Councilman Bassett Introduces Some New Ideas on the Subject.

Councilman Bassett has decided to pose as the bicyclists' friend. He was greatly annoyed by the obedience of the wheelmen to the section of the ordinance recently enforced by Chief Lloyd. Bassett is an ardent wheelman and in addition to the jar upon his sensitive ears, he also had great objection to the amount of labor involved in ringing a cowbell or blowing a fishhorn. Mr. Bassett said today that he is particularly opposed to the blowing of all kinds of horns, especially since he was elected to the Council and was forced to listen to a good deal of that sort of thing about twice a week.

So after a good deal of thought Mr. Bassett decided to hand in an amendment to the ordinance regulating the behavior of bicyclists. He has not much hope that it will be passed, as he knows that seven Councilmen have no great desire to foster anything he fathers, but he says he intends to show the obedience that he is anxious to relieve them of any onerous restrictions, and for this purpose he has framed his amendment. It reads as follows:

"Any person riding a bicycle, tricycle or velocipede through the streets of the city of Oakland shall be required to carry a light in the front of their vehicle."

The old section which Mr. Bassett wants to repeal reads that "the rider of a bicycle, tricycle or velocipede through the streets of Oakland shall, after dark carry a light on the front part of their wheel, and shall, when approaching a street crossing, ring a bell or sound a horn, loud and continuously." Everybody in Oakland knows that the order is enforced and that every citizen wished the obedient wheelmen were in the Mojave desert. Mayor Davie, Councilman Bassett, Councilman Manuel and Councilman Dow were among those who blew their horns loud and continuously, and it is as much to protect them as himself that Mr. Bassett introduced his amendment that will be read at the next meeting of the Council.

"It seems to me," said Mr. Bassett this morning, "that the same rules ought to govern wheelmen as govern ships at sea. For instance, a wheelman or wheelwoman shall have a red light to port, a green light to starboard and a white light astern. Then they should be required to show the proper light when meeting anybody on a crossing. For instance, if there is any danger of my striking Manuel on the port bow I will show my red light and if he wilfully runs up against a danger signal he must not blame me. The same rules would apply in all instances. Then again there would be no danger of a rear end collision if the foremost wheelman had a white light lantern. Several other ideas have suggested themselves to me but I shall not use them if they pass the amendment I have introduced. You see I have framed my amendment on the understanding that the ordinary cyclist is endowed with common sense and knows enough not to wilfully kill anybody. If my amendment should be voted down by the solid seven, why it will show plainly that they desire all manner of restrictions to be placed on bicyclists and in that case I shall introduce an ordinance embodying all the nautical ideas to be found in the latest rules of the road for mariners. Everything else is regulated in Oakland, why not show our authority as Councilmen, to the wheelmen."

Chief Lloyd says the policemen shall have the same orders as formerly regarding the enforcement of the ordinance but that the reason no arrests have been made recently is due to the fact that the ordinance has been generally observed. "I understand that an amendment to the ordinance is in the hands of the Council said the chief today. until it becomes a law, I shall continue to see that the old one is obeyed. Now that the novelty of the things has worn off there seems to be nothing objectionable in the ordinance. Occasionally some young fellow tries to attract attention to himself by overdoing the thing, but now that they have had a good deal of fun they must bear in mind that there is such a thing as disturbing the peace."

Mr. Bassett's ordinance will be read for the first time tomorrow night.

THE POLICE COURT.

Lottery Men Anxious to Have Continuances of Their Cases.

The men found guilty of selling lottery tickets do not seem anxious to receive their sentences. This morning C. F. Marsh asked that his case be continued and Judge Wood put it off until the 16th.

F. H. Christen and Mike Gormley had the continuation of their trial for selling tainted meats postponed until tomorrow. At yesterday's trial the lungs of the cows from which the meat was taken were brought into court and Health Officer Mayon testified that they were from an animal suffering from consumption.

J. W. Kershner was found not guilty of disturbing the peace.

L. D. Connor paid $2 for not carrying the required lamp on his bicycle.

Josie Harper pleaded not guilty to selling liquor without a license and her trial was set for October 22nd.

TAKING EVIDENCE.

The Great Merritt Case Is Started in the United States Court.

The Merritt case came up today in the United States Circuit Court before Judge Hawley. There was a brilliant array of attorneys including W. W. Foote, Judge Lawton, J. C. Martin, A. A. Moore, R. Y. Hayne, George Williams, Warren Olney, Arthur Rodgers, H. W. Philbrook, Emil Nusbaumer and George W. Reed.

Mr. Hayne, representing Bowdoin college, outlined the case, telling of the $500,000 left in trust by Mrs. Garcelon and the compromise with the heirs.

Arthur Rodgers spoke on behalf of H. P. Merritt, contending that the property had not been legally conveyed to the trustees.

Mr. Philbrook, for James Merritt, followed in similar strain and said that the purpose of Judge Stanly was to violate the law of California. He claimed that the trust was a fraud upon the law and upon Mrs. Garcelon.

The trial then began with the introduction of documentary exhibits in behalf of Bowdoin college.

His Wife Complained.

D. M. Needham, a motorman on the Telegraph avenue line, was arrested last night by Detective Shorey upon the complaint of Mrs. Needham, charging her husband with battery. The parties live on Twelfth street near Broadway. Needham pleaded not guilty this morning in the police court and asked that his case be tried by a jury.

Turkey Fearful That Great Britain Will Turn Loose.

The Armenian Affair Is Taking on a Very Serious Aspect.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 8., via Sofia, Bulgaria, Oct. 9.—The blockade of the Armenian churches continues.

All the efforts of the authorities and the Armenian patriarch have failed to persuade the Armenians to return to their houses.

In accordance with the demands of the representatives of the powers, the police authorities have commenced releasing the Armenians imprisoned as a result of the recent rioting.

Two unfortunates allowed to leave Scutbie prison were found in a pitiable condition, suffering from seven or eight terrible wounds.

They have made a statement which has been communicated to the representatives of the powers that the prisoners had not received food or medical treatment for three days before the release.

They also claim the prison is horribly overcrowded and in a shocking state of filthiness.

The streets of Constantinople and the suburbs are still patrolled by police and troops.

Ammunition has been sent to the forts, and from other military movements it would seem the Turks are preparing to defend the passage of the Dardanelles should Great Britain attempt a naval demonstration in these waters.

Much White Metal Is Being Accumulated in London.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—Silver certificates were traded in today at 68⅝@69⅛c the highest prices of the year. The dealings amounted to $15,000.

The higher figures show an advance of 1¼ per cent over yesterday's transactions.

The lowest price of the year was 60c, on January 10th.

The previous high point was 68¼c, on April 1st.

The present advance of silver bullion both here and in London is due to the accumulation of metal at the last mentioned center, preparatory to another issue of bonds by the Chinese government in settlement of the indemnity to Japan.

For months London has been accumulating silver.

The production in the United States has not materially increased, while that of Mexico has fallen off as usual during the rainy season.

CHARGED WITH BURGLARY.

One Opdyke Arrested and the Other Being Run Down.

The police arrested William Opdyke last night upon suspicion of being implicated in the burglary of the house of Benedict De Lucchi, at 1360 Thirteenth street in which about $800 was taken.

Officer Hamerton has been in San Francisco all day looking for Frank Opdyke, who is also supposed to have been mixed up in the affair. People in the neighborhood of the De Lucchi residence claim that they saw the Opdyke boys and a youth named Greg about the premises on the afternoon the money was taken.

A USEFUL LIFE ENDED.

Robert Aitken Passes Quietly Away in Amador County.

Word was received here today of the death in Jackson, Amador county, yesterday, of Robert Aitken in the 71st year of his age. The deceased was one of the best known men in that part of the State where he had resided for the past twenty-five years. He was also well known in Oakland where some relatives and members of his family reside. He served the people of Amador county in a faithful manner both as supervisor and school trustee. The deceased has a son in Lick observatory and another in one of the leading pharmacies on Broadway in this city. He was the uncle of Mrs. Henry Sohst of this city.

AFTER A RECEIVER.

Edgar Parker Seeks an Explanation From H. B. Muir.

Edgar D. Parker has petitioned the Superior Court to issue a citation directing H. B. Muir to show cause why he has not paid over $2500 to Parker as the receipts from the sale of lumber from lands in Mendocino county of which Muir was receiver by appointment of the Superior Court of that county. Parker claims the property under a judgment which he says Muir refuses to recognize.

Hymen in Demand.

Justice Clift was rushed in the marriage department today. This morning C. H. Dutton, aged 33, and Katie Colbes, aged 33; J. M. Dinisen, aged 32, and Mary A. Murphy, aged 21; Henry Herman Herring, aged 38, and Lizzie Eyssen, aged 26, all came from San Francisco to promise in pairs that they would love, honor and obey each other. Hardly had the morning's work been completed when Willie Agee, aged 26, of Berkeley, stood the judge off to make him, the Berkeley boy, and Miss Bessie Campbell, of Oakland, aged 18, one.

The Dog Fighters.

William Kennedy, the sport found guilty of attending the dog fight, asked today that passing of sentence on him be continued and Judge Clift set it over until the 16th.

Blake Emmett, who was to be tried today, forfeited his bail of $25.

Upon the request of Mrs. O. M. Sanford the case against John Murphy was dismissed.

THE CHOLERA DYING OUT.

Two Whites and Sixty-Six Natives Have Died in Honolulu.

It Is Believed That Poisoned Fish Caused the Disease to Start.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 9.—The steamer Australia from Honolulu under date of Oct. 2nd brings the news that in the past fortnight only two cases of cholera have developed.

The record to date is eighty-seven cases.

Of that number sixty-eight died.

Only two whites succumbed to the disease.

The natives made the work of the physicians harder by refusing to report the cholera cases until the victims were dead or dying.

The board of health finally made a house to house visitation and inspection, after which the city was thoroughly cleaned.

Since then there have been only two cases and the danger is considered passing.

The cause of cholera on the islands is attributed to poisoned fish.

The majority of the cases were taken from houses bordering on the stream from which the fish were taken and eaten by natives.

The two whites who died attended a native feast and ate raw fish.

The natives circulated a story that the native cholera patients were buried alive.

Frank Godfrey, a white, the suspected author of the story, was tarred and feathered.

Godfrey appealed to the United States Minister.

Minister Frank Hatch is expected to leave for Washington in November to relieve William R. Castle as Hawaiian minister.

EXPOSED BY THE PRESS.

Pay-Roll Stuffers Are Placed Under Arrest at Buffalo.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Oct. 9.—Three men have been arrested charged with embezzling large amounts of money from the city by padding the pay rolls of the street bureau with dummy names.

The prisoners are H. D. Hart, cashier of the Department of Public Works, J. M. Danahy, deputy superintendent of streets, and Joseph Burke, formerly inspector of streets, and now a saloon keeper.

The warrants were sworn out by the Mayor's private secretary on information laid before him by G. F. Matthews, proprietor of the Express.

THE BISHOPS.

A Clever Speech Results in a Big Victory for Atlanta.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 9.—The Episcopal House of Deputies today amended the report of the committee recommending that the next convention be held in Boston by substituting Atlanta.

The result was brought about by a clever speech by Rev. A. W. Knight in favor of Atlanta.

It is doubtful if the Bishops will concur in this selection.

The House of Bishops adopted the recommendation of its committee ordering the division of the missionary jurisdiction of Wyoming and Idaho into two districts, the present bishop to continue in charge of both.

THREATENED THE QUEEN.

Turbulent Condition of Affairs at the Corean Capital.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

YOKOHAMA, Oct. 9.—A dispatch received today from Seoul, the capital of Corea, announces that order has been restored and the Japanese troops are now guarding the palace.

The cause of this action upon the part of the Japanese commander at Seoul was that the Aai Ron Kin, the King's father and leader of the anti-reform party, entered the palace at the head of an armed force threatening the queen's life.

Although no definite statement on the subject is made, it is believed the Queen is still alive.

A CIGARETTE DID IT.

Valuable Buildings Destroyed by Fire at Kansas City.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 9.—A fire, which started from a lighted cigarette this morning in a three story brick building at Fourth and Walnut street, occupied principally by the Theater Comique, completely destroyed the structure.

A. E. Kennedy, of the insurance patrol, brother-in-law of Chief Hale, was crushed by falling walls and cannot live.

The loss is about $25,000.

MAKING FIRST BID.

Why the Fabiola Ladies Have Announced the May Fete.

The ladies of the Fabiola Hospital Association do not intend to begin immediately to make arrangements for their Mayday fete, as has been mentioned. Their intention, in announcing at this time that they propose to give a festival is to warrant them in laying claim, in a certain manner, to about the same date as they had last year for their entertainment, and thus prevent others from arranging for a display at the same time.

The ladies of San Jose intend to hold a fete in May also, and it is expected, now that the Fabiola ladies are already in the field, those of San Jose will select another date later in the month, and thus prevent the two shows from coming into close competition.

Success Achieved by Dr. Hascall in This City.

TESTIMONIAL.

Cancer removed by Dr. C. A. Hascall, 12 Telegraph avenue, this city.

I wish to tell the public that Dr. Hascall has cured me of a spider cancer I suffered with it for nearly two years. It was on my face and he removed it in six days without using any knife and it was all healed up in 18 days, hardly leaving a scar. I want to recommend him and his method to all who are suffering from this terrible disease.

WELCOME RELIEF.

Wonderful Effects of a Brief Treatment by Dr. Wulff.

Oakland, September 17, 1895.

To Whom It May Concern: I called on Dr. J. M. Wulff at the Galindo hotel today at 2:30 P. M., suffering from intense pain from rheumatism in my hips, left leg and left foot and hardly able to walk. The doctor explained his treatment and I tried same right then and there and now at 4 o'clock I feel that I am relieved of the pain and I can walk. I am satisfied that by using the electric appliance which the doctor furnishes I will get cured. I have had the rheumatism about four months, have been at the springs and it did me no good. I have taken all kinds of medicine prescribed by physicians but found no relief.

I can be seen at my place of business by anyone who is desirous of knowing about Dr. Wulff's treatment.

Very truly,
M. SPIES,
250 Park avenue, East Oakland.

Dr. J. M. Wulff, treats rheumatism, lumbago, nervous headache, in fact all nervous diseases, without medicine.

Berkeley, Cal., Aug. 11, 1895.

J. M. Wulff, Oakland: Dear Sir: I believe that your Endless Chain Battery will work wonders for rheumatism. It is applied immediately to the part affected and it looks to me like a practical and scientific method of applying electricity to the various diseases of the nervous system.

Respectfully yours,
ALBERT FOUCH, M. D.

INTERESTING TO SUFFERERS.

Case of Mr. Henry Schrag, Proprietor Club Stables, Fourteenth and Webster Streets.

OAKLAND, Sept. 14th, 1895.

Six years ago I was taken suddenly ill with a lame back and consulted Dr. Mayer, Dr. Simond, Dr. Williams, Dr. Leo Newmark and Dr. J. W. Robertson, all of San Francisco, but their treatment did not benefit me any.

I then went to the Byron Hot Springs, remained there six weeks and still no relief.

After thus having doctored for six long years I tried, as a last resort, an electric chain invented by Dr. J. M. Wulff, and now, after having used the same since August 8th, I feel that I finally found a remedy that has so far done me that much good that I can walk straight again and attend to my business, which I have not been able to do for the last two years, and I have not the slightest doubt that by conscientiously following the doctor's instructions I will ultimately get entirely cured. The relief I have had so far is far beyond what I ever expected.

I know and feel that the doctor has done wonders for me.

Very truly,
HENRY SCHRAG.

Upon the wish of Mr. Henry Schrag we, the undersigned, testify that the above statement is in every respect the true facts.

Dr. J. M. Wulff, Pacific Ocean House, Santa Cruz—Dear Sir: Having been afflicted with rheumatism and neuralgia for a number of years, and having consulted physicians as well as spent money for so-called rheumatic cures without deriving any benefit, I still being a sufferer, read your advertisement in the daily papers, and with a great deal of hesitancy called on you, expecting to leave you satisfied that there was nothing in your rheumatic cure; but it came otherwise. You persuaded me to give your cure a trial, and now, after having used the same but three days, I wish to say to you that my rheumatism has very nearly disappeared, and my neuralgia is on the way of leaving me.

I feel easier in every respect than I have for years, and I am satisfied that your cure is the only one that can in so short a space of time prove its merits; and I predict for you a great future with your Rheumatic Cure. I am thankful for the good I have derived from same so far, and am perfectly satisfied that by following your instructions and using your appliance conscientiously, I will within a very short time be entirely cured of these dread of afflictions. I wish you all possible success, and am yours,

Very respectfully,
MRS. S. L. BOWMAN.

The following letter from Humphrey B. Pilkington, Esq., of Loma Alta, was written the day after Dr. Wulff saw the gentleman for the first time:

Loma Alta, Cal., April 30, 1895.

Pacific Ocean House, Santa Cruz—Dear Sir: I followed your instructions last night and slept soundly from 10 to 3—the best night by far that I have had—and got up feeling stronger than I have before; so well, in fact, that I thought if I continued to improve I should be able to come to town, as you suggested I should. But I have not felt as well this afternoon. I think it is partly the weather and partly because I had the chain around my waist and hip this morning, and it seemed to send the pain from there to my lower leg. I have the chain around my leg (whole length, as you put it) now, and feel easier; have but little pain, but don't think it wise to go out. Feel certain, though, that there is virtue in the battery. I will write to you again, and will get into town as soon as I can.

Hopefully,
HUMPHREY B. PILKINGTON.

IT WARPS THE FINGERS.

A Rheumatic Disease That Especially Hits at Women.

It Is Accompanied by Great Pain and Remedies Are Scarce.

The relation between the various parts of the human body has been very often compared with the arrangement of a complex piece of machinery. A most striking likeness between the two is found in the manner in which the joints are constructed, if the word "constructed" may be used with regard to the body. A machine depends for its efficiency upon the ease with which the different parts play upon one another. The greatest enemy to a smoothly running engine is friction. Some persons have gone so far as to say that, were it not for friction, the problem of perpetual motion would cause them no trouble.

In order to overcome the resistance offered by friction in machinery, the joints are kept well oiled. The constant rubbing of one part on another generates heat, and this heat consumes the oil. If the oil is allowed to give out, the parts will begin to creep and grow stiff, and the ultimate result will be a clogging, or immovable, of the joint.

The joints of the human body, like those of a machine, are provided with a lubricating substance, which performs the same office as the oil. This substance is called synovial fluid, from two Greek words meaning "with" and "egge," and the name has been adopted from a supposed resemblance to the white of an egg. It consists of water, holding in solution mucin, albumen, fat and inorganic salts. Mucin or mucine, is the chief component of mucus, which lines the bronchial tubes and becomes disagreeably prominent when you get a bad cold. Albumen is a very peculiar substance, found everywhere in nature. It is especially abundant in blood, muscles and bones. It exists in its purest form in the white of an egg. Fat consists of two similar substances, olein and stearine, the former constituting the oily and the latter the solid part. Inorganic salts are substances which do not decay after death.

All of these mucin, when dissolved in the water which is present in the joint, make a very fine oil. Without this synovia, or human lubricating oil, all the joints of the body would be stiff. How much we owe to it may be realized if you think for a moment of the large number of joints in the human frame and how often they are put to use. If you wiggle a toe, move a finger, turn your head, close your jaw or perform any one of a dozen similar acts, you are calling into play this oily substance, which learned men are pleased to term "synovia."

If, now, this oil should give out or become diseased or refuse to perform its function, the result will be the same as in the case of a machine which has been neglected. The joint will become sore and stiff and finally will refuse to act. But in addition to this, the disease which has already dried up the oil will often cause the adjacent bones to become distorted, deformed and swollen. The patient suffers great pain and in many cases it is impossible to afford relief.

The accompanying diagrams are not what might be called beautiful or pleasant, but they are interesting and instructive. They show very well the fearful havoc that can be wrought by this malady, and how the hand, which is naturally beautiful, may be distorted as to become hideous.

Figure 1, on the left, shows the right hand of a girl 16 years of age, five years after she had been attacked by the disease known as rheumatoid arthritis, which, in all of its manifestations, is very much like pain, every day rheumatism, though the physicians declare that it is different.

On the right hand of figure No. 1 are two fingers of the same patient, one showing a side view of the first finger of the left hand, and the other a back view of the third finger of the right hand.

In figure No. 2, on the left, is represented the left hand of a young woman 25 years of age, two years after the disease had made its appearance. The original size of the fingers may be determined from an examination of the tips, which have not suffered an enthat the wrist is badly swollen, largement. It will also be observed.

On the right of the same picture is the right hand of a woman 39 years of age, three years after the attack of arthritis. The wrist is much affected and the hand perfectly immovable in the position in which you see it.

In figure No. 2 there is represented what the doctors call terminal phalanges, but which here, for the sake of clearness, will be called finger tips. The first two sets illustrate the progress of the disease in a woman between the ages of 55 and 59. At the bottom there are shown two fingers of a woman 65 years old. It will be noted that the extreme segment of one finger turns abruptly to the right, while in another pair of fingers in this figure the extreme segments turn in the other direction. There is apparently no law to govern the ramification of the segments after the joints have become affected by the disease.

In figure No. 4 there are shown two fingers on the hand of a woman 60 years of age who was suffering from gout. On the right are two fingers of another woman, about 60 years of age, showing a sort of double swelling of the part just above the finger nail. This is common in rheumatoid arthritis.

One of the striking features of this disease is that it often attacks a victim without apparent cause. Young and old, weak and strong are all subject to its ravages, and, more remarkable still, it does not seem to be hereditary. Physicians who have made the subject a specialty have found that women are especially susceptible to it. Out of 67 cases that came to the attention of one physician, 18 were men and 47 women. In 32 of these there was a "family history" of diseases of the joints—namely, gout, 9; rheumatoid arthritis, 6; rheumatic fever, 5, and rheumatism, 12.

It has been suggested that the reason the disease attacks women especially is that the female constitution is naturally more delicate and nervous, two conditins which make it unusually

THURSDAY..... OCTOBER 10, 1895

Governor Renfrew, of Oklahoma in his report to the Secretary of the Interior, makes a good showing for that territory. He says that there are about 275,000 people now living in Oklahoma who are distinctively American, thrifty, industrious and enterprising, peaceful and law-abiding. The desperado who occupies so much of the attention of the press, the Governor says, is as much of a curiosity to the Oklahoman as to his Eastern neighbor. The taxable property of the territory is about $39,275,189, an increase of about $20,000,000 during the year. The banking capital is $749,000. The school population is 77,770. There is already a university, normal school and agricultural college.

Mrs. Langtry has made a formal demand on the Union Bank of London for the sum of $200,000, the value of her jewels which she deposited with the bank and which were taken out on a forged order. As the bank was not a bailee for hire and was therefore not obliged to use more than ordinary precaution, can Mrs. Langtry enforce her claim in the courts? But no matter. She will get two hundred thousand dollars' worth of advertising and that will make the account good. Indeed, it is a fair inference that she would prefer that much advertising to all her lost jewels. The loss and the divorce case will keep the woman before the world for some time. There are some jewels, once lost, that are never recovered.

Increase of Neurasthenia.

An Eastern physician who is recognized as a good authority in nervous disease, affirms that neurasthenia in its various forms is rapidly increasing in this country, and especially in cities, and if it is not prevented there will be a great increase of insane hospitals. "The demand for hypnotics is increasing, we are giving more medicines intended to affect the nervous system, and a large trade is done in the wines of cocoa and kola, and the preparations of phosphorus. Many use alcohol to keep up on, and naturally when this fictitious strength is gone they collapse. City women have nervous exhaustion and physical exhaustion because they overdo in the matter of entertaining and being entertained; because they, like their husbands, are expending nervous energy to excess and not giving the nervous system rest and the muscular system exercise."

This medical authority approves of bicycling, calisthenics and gymnastics as good medicine for the nerves. The tendency to outdoor life is becoming stronger every year. The gymnasium is now an appurtenance of every well conducted school. Walking, so much in vogue in England, is finding more favor in this country with young women. The story about an increase of nervous diseases in this country is subject to constant renewal. Neurasthenia is as old as humanity. It probably began with Eve when she went out of Eden, and her daughters ever since have been more or less afflicted in that way. It is one of the most convenient complaints in the world, because, like charity, it can be made to cover a multitude of sins.

Restoration of Old Wayside Inns.

The Baltimore Sun notes that among other changes brought about by the bicycle is the restoration of the wayside inn, which disappeared from this country and England with the stage coaches. "In England it is said that this has already taken place. A newspaper correspondent writes that on the splendid road from Stratford to Coventry, which is an ideal road for cycling, the wayside inns appeal for the patronage of the wheelmen by signs offering them special accommodations. Women, he says, appear on wheels on this road almost as frequently as men, but seldom in the French masquerade of divided skirts or breeches." He adds that a great many American tourists make their holiday journeys through England on wheels, avoiding railway expenses and ambitious hotels, and lodging comfortably at the village inns. This not only saves expense, but gives the tourist an opportunity to learn something about the country and the people, which is impossible when he rushes through on express trains and lives at the great hotels, where most of the people he sees are foreigners like himself."

The stage coach in all the older States maintained the village inn at every considerable place. It was a good country tavern where the wayfarer had the best at moderate prices. If he wanted to stay a week or fortnight he found a most comfortable home. These wayside inns seem to have been better maintained in England than in this country. The bicycle lays a good foundation for the support of the wayside inn by securing good roads. These will increase travel, and that will increase the custom of these inns, so that it is probable many of them will be quite equal to those of half a century ago. The good road and the good inn will have a powerful influence in drawing people to the country and for the increase of rural tastes.

Falsehoods About Hawaii.

Whenever some renegade who has been forced to leave Hawaii can get a hearing in the newspapers he makes short work with that little Republic. The latest story comes from Chicago, and of course finds a place in the Call, and do all stories which are hostile to the present administration of Hawaii. These stories were formerly concocted in San Francisco and were always traced to some one who had been forced to quit the islands. But one of these stories now will hardly buy a glass of whisky. They are still held to be good enough to telegraph over the country.

As to the Japanese in Hawaii, they have made no disturbance, and there is no prospect that they will make any. They went there as laborers and as long as they can find anything to do they will probably work there peaceably. The sugar planters have been constantly importing foreign laborers. They began with the Chinese. When these had filled their contracts they refused to labor any longer on the plantations, because they could do better elsewhere. The Japanese have adopted to some extent a similar policy. They will work for themselves whenever they get an opportunity. The natives are no longer the source from which laborers can be drawn to any extent. Some of these foreign laborers occasionally indulge in turbulent talk, and there the affair would end if its importance were not magnified by renegades at a distance.

Then there is the old story set afloat again that public revenue is failing because taxes cannot be collected. But the Dole government is not distressed for money. Its financial credit has been good at all times, taxes are paid without any serious default. For a government that has been lied about as much as Hawaii by refugees and revolutists, it seems to have wonderful vitality. This staying power of course disappoints all its enemies.

Good and Bad Architecture.

Dr. Cole has done a good work in securing lots for the affiliated colleges in San Francisco and is doing another good work in securing free building granite in Folsom. More is the pity, therefore, that he should advocate a public building fashioned after the State House at Sacramento. That is a mere copy of something like a hundred public buildings that have been erected in the United States. It is the conventional plan which has been used until it is now a back number.

There is probably not a good architect in the State who would recommend the State House as a model for an educational building. Nor is it likely that if another capitol building were to be erected at Sacramento it would be at all like the present one. Classical architecture never tolerated a bulbous dome, that excrescence that is stuck on the roof of so many court houses in this State, and which so often delights the heart of the rural politician. It is the dome and the pillars that make the show, and in modern buildings are a sham.

If a dozen of the best architects in San Francisco were asked to produce the exteriors on paper of what they considered appropriate, it is not probable that one of them would have so much as a suggestion of the exterior of the capitol building. However suitable it may be for the public uses to which it is devoted, it is wholly unsuitable for the exterior of any edifice devoted to public or private education. It would be a great pity if a monstrosity of a public edifice were erected for the affiliated colleges. If that is attempted some long arm should reach out and rake in the plans for a bonfire.

"Paper the House."

Some years ago when a question was raised whether a certain performance would draw an audience in this city, the chief promoter said, "Well, we will paper the house," meaning, of course, that enough free tickets could be sent out to secure an audience. It is an old dodge and it serves for many a sharp turn even now.

There have been a number of "promoters" in the field to make paper railroads go. The man from Chicago dropped down here, looked over the field, and wanted to build a railroad from Oakland to Stockton. He could paper the road, and that was all if citizens here would lay down a quarter of a million he would proceed to business. Now there had just been a circus in this city, or two of them, which took away about $10,000. Since that time citizens have not been able to raise an equal amount for the Wilmerding school. If another circus would come along and donate the proceeds we might get the school.

Then another man came along who had a magnificent scheme. He had papered a railroad through Montana, Southern Oregon and Northern California right down to Oakland. There would be millions in it. It finally dawned upon the minds of sundry citizens that this was only a modified form of the old dodge of "papering the house." These paper railroads never materialize. When the next man comes along there will be no use for his paper scheme and no necessity for two or three columns of misleading stuff in the newspapers by way of giving his device a good send-off.

That is a singular incident involving the death of Elliot A. Rogers, instructor of chemistry at Harvard University. He had dismissed his class and had turned towards an adjoining room.

"A glass beaker containing some chemical was in his hand, and in the other was a piece of paper, on which, as subsequently appeared, was written: 'It is as it should be.' Before the members of the class had all passed through the door Instructor Rogers uttered a groan and sank to the floor. His students rushed to his side and found him dead.

"The tragedy is a dense mystery. None of the students knew what chemical was in the glass beaker that he held in his hand when he closed the lecture. Nobody knows the significance of the words on the piece of paper which he held in the other hand. His friends scout the idea of suicide, and assert that the vapor arising from the unknown chemical must have affected his heart."

Prof. Rogers had been experimenting with cyanide of potassium and other chemicals. The theory is that the fumes of these affected the action of the heart and caused instant death. The other theory is that he used the most potent purposely for suicide.

ABSOLUTELY PURE

The cost of college education for women at several of the leading institutions exclusively for the education of the sex is here collated:

At Vassar the charge for tuition in all regular studies, board and washing of a dozen pieces a week is $400 a year. If a student is ill and visits the resident physician the charge is twenty-five cents a visit. When the physician pays the visit the charge is 50 cents. When a student is confined to the infirmary the charge is $1.50 a day for medical attendance, medicine, nurse's services and the carrying of meals to the room. Text books, stationery and the like are extra.

At Smith College the charges to those who live in the college houses are about the same as at Vassar. Four hundred dollars pays for board, lodging and tuition. The student brings her own towels and pays for the materials used in the laboratories. Those who desire, however, may obtain board in private families in Northampton at prices varying from $4 to $9 a week. A student may, therefore, obtain board for a term of thirty-six weeks at about $150. There are also a few scholarships to assist promising pupils.

At Bryn Mawr the charges vary with the accommodations. A student may obtain board, lodging and tuition for $375 or she may spend $600. No supplies are brought from home and the students do not take care of their own rooms.

Radcliffe charges the highest tuition fee. Its students pay $200 a year for regular instruction in addition to special laboratory fees. They board in Cambridge and may spend much or little, as their purses and tastes dictate. There are four scholarships and two prizes offered.

At the Baltimore Woman's College the charges for students who do not board at the college are $125 a year for tuition, and this includes all fees. Those who live in the college pay $375 for tuition, board, laundry work and the services of a professional nurse. At Wellesley the charges are about the same. At Mills College the charges are about the same as at Wellesley. The curriculum for the college is about that of the Eastern institutions. There are a number of scholarships, but these are confined to the seminary course.

These are the good things that the Emperor of Russia will do if his life is not cut short by the nihilists. He will complete the great trans-Siberian railroad from his capital to the Pacific, a distance of not less than 6000 miles. He will connect the Black Sea with the Baltic by a ship canal about 1000 miles long. He has already officially promulgated the plan of this great work.

Its point of departure is to be at Riga, and its course, so far as possible, that of the Dwina, the Beresina and the Drieper, terminating at Kherson. Its minimum depth is to be 30 feet, its bottom width 100 feet, with a surface breadth of twice as much, while its length is estimated at 1,000 miles. The work will take, it is asserted, five years to complete, and will entail a cost of 200,000,000 rubles. The canal will be furnished with electric lights and at the regulation rate of seven miles an hour day and night, about six days will be required to traverse it. The main object of this gigantic waterway is strategic; the next object is commercial. It will enable the Russian wheat dealers to send their grain to the European markets at much less than the present cost of transporation, and will further increase competition with this country in the wheat markets of Europe.

NOTES AND EXCERPTS.

The New York newspapers take pains to announce to the public that Miss Vanderbilt has given to her fiance the Duke of Marlborough, a locket with a "tender sentiment" inscribed therein. A full description of the locket is given, and even the "tender sentiment" is quoted as follows: 'Accept thou this, my heart, with all my love, though this be small." Evidently the Marlborough-Vanderbilt betrothal is destined to furnish us poor, unenlightened Americans many object lessons as to how those things are done among the smart English set. A commonplace American would think twice before announcing to the public through the medium of the newspapers the love sentiment inscribed on his sweetheart's gift. If we wish to be English we must change our ideas of chivalry.—Exchange.

The most extravagant instance of literary relic worship on record is said to be that of a well known Englishman who constantly wears, in a small locket attached to a chain around the neck, a portion of the charred skull of Shelley.

It is not generally known that the late match between the Duke of Marlborough and Miss Consuelo Vanderbilt was brought about in a great measure by the former Duchess of Marlborough, now Lady William Beresford. The stepmother took a great fancy to the boy, and when it was a question whether he would be able to get through Cambridge and go to Trinity, it was the then Duchess who advanced the money necessary for him to do it in a way consistent with his position. It was the Duchess, also, who brought the young people together on many occasions. As the late Duke carried very heavy life insurance policies, which he turned over to the Duchess she has been fully indemnified for the heavy outlay she made upon Blenheim, but the young Duke has never forgotten her kindness, nor has Mrs. Vanderbilt ceased to regard her with the warmest affection.—Philadelphia Times.

Mrs. Diaz will represent her husband personally at the Atlanta Exposition, as the Mexican law forbids the President leaving that country during his term of office.

Two illustrious women who celebrate this year the 75th anniversary of their birth are Florence Nightingale and Jean Ingelow.

It is rather shocking to learn that John Burroughs, the naturalist, who is a great lover of birds, finds himself compelled to shoot orioles that invade his vineyard near Kingston-on-the Hudson. A small crop of orioles, he says, will destroy a ton of grapes.

The vegetarian restaurant which was started in New York last winter and for a few months attracted considerable attention, has been closed, the patronage not being sufficient to pay expenses, says the New York Sun. It made very few converts to vegetarianism, though for a time there were many promising recruits. The novelty of the thing usually wore off in a few days, and the new disciple returned to his fleshly diet with an appetite whetted by his short abstinence. The regular customers of the place were noticeable for their sallow complexions, and most of them had the appearance of being poorly nourished. They could hardly be expected to make converts to their mode of living by posing as living examples of the effect of a diet which excluded all forms of animal food.

A very pregnant piece of news is to the effect that President Faure of France will be escorted to Copenhagen in the spring by a French squadron. He will visit the King and Queen of Denmark and will then go to St. Petersburg. He will attend the coronation ceremonies of Czar Nicholas II at Moscow, returning by sea to France and visiting the Swedish and Dutch sovereigns en route. While in Russia he will be lodged in the Czar's palaces.

ADVERTISEMENTS.

A CHALLENGE

To the Contra Costa Water Company, Oakland:

Some time ago I had occasion to make a microscopical analysis of the water furnished to the city of Oakland by your company, coming from Lakes Temescal and Chabot.

At your instance I am informed this analysis has been questioned and my reputation placed in a doubtful position.

In order that I may prove to your satisfaction and to that of the general public of the city of Oakland, the absolute correctness of my conclusions that the water supplied by your compauy IS UNFIT FOR HUMAN CONSUMPTION, I now make the following proposition:

I will meet any expert appointed by you and proceed to Lakes Temescal and Chabot, where we will procure samples of water from each lake, under the usual precautions taken relative to any analysis under dispute. Having obtained the samples, we will proceed to some proper place in the city of Oakland, fitted up as a laboratory, to be selected by your expert and myself—your expert to provide the necessary material for his investigation, and I will do likewise; both investigations to be conducted simulataneously and in the presence of each other. And daily upon leaving the operating room we will seal it up with the dual seals of the experts and place a watchman in charge, that there may be no opportunity for fraud or chicanery by anybody.

The expense of these investigations to be mutual, each side to pay their own expert, and any extra expenses to be divided. I will undertake to establish without cavil the absolute correctness of my previous analysis of the waters from Lakes Temescal and Chabot, whereby it was proven without the reason of any doubt to unbiased people that SAID WATERS FROM LAKES TEMESCAL AND CHABOT ARE ABSOLUTELY UNWHOLESOME, UNHEALTHY AND UNFIT FOR HUMAN CONSUMPTION.

In event of your refusing to accept or consider this challenge I shall make a proposition to the authorities of Oakland to name a committee, that I may establish to it the correctness of my previous conclusions regarding the unfitness for human consumption of the water which comes from either Lake Temescal or Chabot.

Respectfully,
THOMAS BOWHILL,

FRATERNAL NEWS

Good Prospects for Organizing a Parlor of Native Daughters.

GENERAL INTEREST ASOUSED.

District Deputies Are to Be Urged to Examine the Field.

GOSSIP OF THE LODGE ROOMS.

Satisfactory Conditions Exist in All the Leading Societies.

The past week in fraternal circles has been noted for the amount of changes in the general laws of several fraternal orders which have come to the front.

It has also been marked by the attention which has been directed to the fact that Oakland has no parlor of Native Daughters.

Native Daughters Aroused.

Nothing that has been published in the fraternal columns of the newspapers of this city of recent date, has attracted so much attention in fraternal circles as the article of a week ago in The Tribune on the fact that there is no parlor of Native Daughters in this city.

The young ladies talked the matter over and investigated what it was necessary to do in order to sustain the reputation for patriotism of the daughters of the State.

Native Sons looked troubled and one of them said: "It's a shame that we have not the ladies enlisted with us. It is our fault, though. It certainly is most remarkable that Oakland, with all her schools and colleges, her singing and orchestral societies, her lyceums and her interminable list of organizations in which young, intelligent and pretty women are the mainstay, is yet without a parlor of Native Daughters."

Everybody seemed anxious to do something, but what appeared surprising was nobody seemed exactly to know what to do, until the article attracted the attention of the bright and energetic young men of Athens parlor, the baby parlor organization of the N. S. G. W.

This young parlor intends to make social life one of its leading characteristics and its members know that social life without native daughters to make it pleasant, would be simply like a frame without a picture.

It did not take them long to realize what to do. Accordingly at their meeting last Friday night they took right hold of the subject and adopted resolutions declaring the absolute necessity of a Native Daughters' parlor in this city, pledging their aid to any daughters who might feel disposed to join such an organization, and directing that the facts of the case be placed before the grand officers, N. S. G. W., with the request that the necessary steps be taken to establish a parlor of daughters here as soon as possible.

The resolutions in question have already appeared in these columns and have been generally discussed and commended. The substance of them has been published all over the State, and as a result, some of the comments are now finding their way to this city. From Amador county comes the information, which is intended expressly for the young ladies of this city, that a new Native Daughters' parlor has just been established there, making five parlors altogether in that county.

Then comes the following which is taken from the Alameda Encinal: "Remarks the Napa Journal: 'Strange as it may seem, there is not a single Parlor of Native Daughters in Oakland, although there are four Parlors of Native Sons. But a number of young ladies is now making efforts to organize one, and with the large amount of material to draw upon it seems impossible for the movement to fail.' Alameda, in this respect, is away ahead of Oakland, her Native Daughters' Parlor being No. 18, established in 1889, and still flourishing; and now there is talk of instituting another parlor. Hurrah for Alameda's daughters!"

This condition of affairs however, it is expected, will soon be remedied, because, before long, the grand officers will want to know what the district deputies are doing in having unworked a field which promises to yield such an abundant harvest.

Native Sons.

There are twenty-one parlors N. S. G. W. in San Francisco. All of them, with the exception of six, will have meeting places in the new building of the order in that city.

Order of Eastern Star.

The grand chapter of California will meet in Los Angeles on Tuesday next. On that evening, the delegates will be entertained by the members of the order in that city.

The grand chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, (colored) closed its session in Chico late last week. It was the thirteenth session of the kind held in this State. It drew forth a large attendance of delegates and, in the election of officers, Oakland was remembered by the selection of Mrs. M. E. King as Grand Ruth and Miss Rose A. Sagg as Grand Esther. The next grand chapter will be held in Sacramento.

Masonic.

The Grand Lodge of Free and Accepted Masons of this State is in session in San Francisco. At yesterday's meeting reports of grand officers were read. The election of officers will take place tomorrow.

Degree of Honor.

At the meeting of Ivy Lodge, No. 4 Degree of Honor, A. O. U. W., last Monday evening, the hall was crowded from door to door with the largest number of members that has assembled in the lodge room for some time.

Chief of Honor Mrs. Marks expedited the business meeting in order to give all time to enjoy the literary feast and the banquet provided for them, the occasion being the regular monthly social.

The following committees were chosen: To visit the sick, Sisters Preston, Richmond and Parkinson; special attractions, Sisters Mitchell, Bradley and Garrison.

The committee on curtain having procured the long-talked-of curtain, was discharged with thanks.

Brother Wood kindly consented to place the curtain in position as soon as possible.

Brother Isaacs of the dramatic committee stated that the production of the farce entitled "Forbidden Fruits," written by Mrs. Donaldson, which is to be presented next Wednesday evening at Elite hall, by Ivy Lodge Dramatic Corps, will eclipse anything of the kind ever presented by any amateur company in Oakland. After the Brother had concluded his remarks he was overwhelmed with demands for tickets for the show.

Sister Donaldson and Brother Ingler also spoke upon the efficiency and remarkable talent displayed by the different members of the dramatic company.

Past Chief of Honor Mrs. Wood, chairman of the tableau committee, reported progress.

As it had been announced that the visiting delegation from Oak Leaf Lodge, No. 35, A. O. U. W., was in waiting in the anteroom, the Chief of Honor proceeded to close the lodge.

The social which followed was one of the most enjoyable affairs ever given by Ivy Lodge. The programme was as follows:

Recitation, "The Station Agent's Story," Sister Donaldson, which was given with great pathos; recitation, "Grandma's Beau," Miss Lizzie Geekie, which was so entertainingly rendered, the little Miss had to respond to an encore; song, "Jpm had to respond to an encore; song, "Sweet Alice Ben Bolt," by District Deputy Grand Chief of Honor Mrs. Cogan, which was rendered with artistic sweetness and was loudly encored, the lady responding with the pretty ditty, "Kiss Papa Now, Goodbye;" recitation, "Mrs. Mulligan's Receipt for Cake Making," Miss Mamie Parkinson, which was the elocutionary gem of the evening; in response to an encore the young lady reciting "Maid Marion;" reading, "Bobby O'Brien's Toothache," by Lady of Honor Mrs. Oakes, which was given with appropriate brogue, exciting loud laughter; remarks on "Women," by Grand Recorder D. S. Hirshberg, which were very entertaining, considerable laughter being caused by the brother's allusion to Brother Dunton's Trilby feet which he guaranteed were number fourteen. Brother Hall gave a parody on "Mare Anthony's Oration," which was extremely humorous. Past Master Charles Dunton upon being called for made the most humorous speech ever delivered before Ivy Lodge. He retaliated with compound interest upon Brother Hirshberg's witticism at his expense. Eloquent remarks were also made by Past Chief of Honor Mrs. A. A. Wood, Sister Nixon of Silver Star Lodge, Temescal, Sister Richman of Mistletoe Lodge, Alvarado, Brothers Harris, Cogan, Ingler, McAllister, Watkinson and Hale.

Brother Isaacs upon being called to make a speech stated that he was to take an Italian character in the play to be presented next week and he was saving himself for the occasion. In fact, he was in training for the event with a hand organ and one of Schellhaas' monkeys.

After the literary portion of the social was concluded, all adjourned to the banquet hall where justice was done to the viands spread for their delectation.

Great praise was accorded Sisters Atkinson, Brown and Parkinson, the committee on entertainment, for the splendid programme presented by them.

After the social was over the general committee on the anniversary celebration met and appointed the several committees required for the affair.

Ancient Order United Workmen.

The proceedings of the late Grand lodge session, which was held in Chicago, have arrived in convenient form and have been distributed among the lodges. The present rituals will be surrendered about the 15th inst., to the grand recorder when the new rituals will be furnished to the various lodges.

Pacific Lodge, No. 7, meets this evening at Syndicate Hall, 561 Thirteenth street. Sojourning members of the order are invited to attend.

In the last issue of the Pacific States Watchman, Past Grand Master Workman J. W. Ward of this city presents an able article on "Average Age," which was submitted to the Supreme Lodge relief board by Past Supreme Master Workman Warne Wilson of Detroit, Mich. Brother Ward offers facts and figures and good arguments to show that the fears entertained by Brother Wilson are not apt to be realized as the order shows an average increase in membership of over 10 per cent, while its death rate is lower now than it was twenty years ago. The article in The Watchman should be carefully read by every member of the order.

At its last meeting Pacific Lodge No. 7, voted to debate the question, "Resolved That it is for the best interests of the A. O. U. W. to admit women to the Order." Past Grand Chief of Honor Mrs. M. J. Stewart has been invited to take the affirmative side of the question and Past Grand Master Workman J. W. Ward has accepted the invitation to present the negative side. The debate will take place at an open meeting to be held sometime next month (probably the first Thursday evening). This is a question of great importance and should be thoroughly understood by every member of the order as it came up at the last session of the Supreme Lodge and was referred to a committee of which D. S. Hirshberg of this city is chairman. It will again come up for consideration at the next session of the Supreme Lodge which will be held at Atlanta, Ga., next June. It is for the purpose of bringing out the arguments to be made on both sides and giving the members of the order in this city a chance to hear them that this meeting will be held by Pacific Lodge and all members of the order, including the Degree of Honor, are invited to be present and take part.

ANNIVERSARY COMMITTEE.

The committee from the several A. O. U. W. lodges, to make arrangements for the formal celebration of the 27th anniversary of the founding of the order, which will take place on the 28th inst., now meets every Monday night. It formerly met on Wednesday night. The change has been made owing to the fact that the committee has recently been increased by an addition of lady members from Ivy, Silver Star, and Dawn of Hope lodges, Degree of Honor. These ladies are not less enthusiastic than the members of the male lodges in their desire to make the entertainment a grand success.

The proposed entertainment will be given in the First Congregational church. Speeches will be delivered by Robert Ferral and Samuel Shortridge. There will be other literary and musical features. The order has now a membership of 350,000 in the United States, Canada and British Columbia.

Independent Foresters.

The High Court, Independent Order of Foresters is in session in Riverside. It assembled on last Tuesday and the delegates were warmly welcomed by the mayor of the city. There are about 300 delegates in attendance.

Supreme Vice Chief Ranger Allen of Flint, Michigan, is among the distinguished members of the order present.

Catholic Ladies' Aid Society.

The usual meeting of the C. L. A. S. will take place this evening, at W. M. I. hall, 1058 Broadway, when all members are requested to be present, as the nomination of officers for the ensuing year will take place.

Good Templars.

Among the officers elected at the late grand lodge of Good Templars were Dr. A. S. Halsey of Oakland as grand treasurer.

Odd Fellows.

Brigadier General J. F. Crossett has issued orders relating to the programme of the competitive drill of Canton Patriarchs Militant of Stockton, which will take place on the 17th inst. It is expected that four cantons will take part in the drill. There will also be witnessed the ceremony of conferring the decoration of chivalry. This is given because of meritorious service and, in this instance, the recipient will be Xavier Mefret.

A decision that has just come to hand from the sovereign grand lodge will be found interesting to local lodges. It establishes the fact that, no matter what may be the financial condition of a member at the time of his death, wealthy or penniless, the lodge to which he belongs must pay, as a death benefit, the amount named in its by-laws. A member of Yuba lodge in Marysville died. He was a man of means, his lodge refused to pay the death benefit on the grounds that the relatives were not dependent upon the benefit. The grand lodge sustained the subordinate lodge while, upon appeal to the sovereign grand lodge, the lower court of the order was reversed.

Knights of Pythias.

Grand Chancellor Samuels K. of P., is again on the road making visits to lodges in the southern part of the State. Last Friday evening he called on Golden City lodge, No. 63, of San Francisco, and was hospitably received. The unwritten work was exemplified and addresses were delivered by Mr. Samuels, Grand Keeper of Records Schaffer and others.

Foresters of America.

A number of changes have been made in the general laws of the Foresters of America. Among them are the following: A secretary of one court must give an accurate account of the standing of a member of that court when asked so to do by the secretary of another court. A "test" word has been substituted for the general traveling pass word. This test word will be changed annually. Hereafter the supreme secretary must reside in the same city as the supreme chief ranger. In the feature of the membership known as "social membership" only those who are over 50 years of age or who are unable to pass the physical examination required by the rules are eligible. Hereafter honorary membership will not be conferred upon non-members of the order.

All charges against members must be presented within six months after the alleged offense has become known to the complainant. Subordinate courts may advance two weeks' benefit fees on traveling cards. In the event that the court from which the cards come do not reimburse the contributing court, the amount becomes a charge upon the grand court. A system of transfer cards has been adopted by means of which a member of one court may by the payment of a nominal fee, join another court.

Many of these are radical changes and members will do well to acquaint themselves with the new order of things.

The local lodges will receive a circular letter in a few days notifying them of the numbers by which they will hereafter be designated.

Under the new system each court will be numbered in each jurisdiction, according to its age, the oldest court in the State, Robin Hood of San Francisco, being designated Court No. 1, whereas its former number was 553.

Improved Order Red Men.

The Improved Order of Red Men has shown considerable improvement during the past year, as is evidenced by the figures promulgated at the late grand council. During the past year, 22,610 palefaces were adopted. Orders paid in $1,000,000 while in relief of members and burial of the dead was expended $508,779. The great council refused to reduce the age limit to 20 years. The proposition to render ineligible to membership people who deal in intoxicating liquors went over under the rules.

The degree of Pocahontas has experienced an increase of 4600 members during the year. It has now a membership of 27,000.

Sons of St. George.

The usual weekly meeting of Albion lodge, No. 206, was held last Wednesday, the 9th inst., at their hall on Thirteenth street, near Broadway. One new member being initiated.

The committee on socials, reported that they, in conjunction with a committee from the Daughters of St. George had made arrangements for an entertainment and dance, to be held on Wednesday, October 30th. Full particulars will be given in the future.

There are quite a number of members on the sick list at the present time and a warrant was ordered drawn on the trustees to meet the extra expenses incurred thereby. Notwithstanding the temporary drain on the treasury, the funds of the above lodge are in a much better condition than a majority of the lodges in California, there being over $1000 in bank; and the lodge still holds the palm of owning more per capita than any other lodge in California.

Under good and welfare several songs were given by Messrs. Trow, Oakes, Leach, Booth, etc., etc., which brought to a close a very harmonious evening.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Michael Amreal Is Slowly Recovering From His Injuries.

The Ferry El Capitan May Not Go Into Commission Again.

WEST OAKLAND, Oct 9.—Michael Amreal, the 12-year-old boy who was cruelly assaulted by John Frates with a pitchfork at Third and Center streets Monday, is recovering from his injuries and all fears of blood poisoning setting in have disappeared. The prongs of the weapon penetrated deeply into the child's body and at first serious results were feared by the physicians. The cause of the assault was due to a fight between young Amreal and one of Frates' boys. Frates' son was said to be getting the worst of the encounter and the enraged father hurled a pitchfork at Amreal and the sharp tines caught him in the back.

THE SITTING WALTZ

Here is the way they propose to do things up north:

It is proposed to introduce a new feature in the ball room this season. It is the sitting waltz. The only difference to the old style will be you sit instead of dancing. The man's right arm is around the girl's waist, while his left hand holds her right. Her left hand is placed lovingly upon his shoulder, and all you have to do is to listen to the music. Now, that is something like it! It is a nuisance to have to gallop a mile or two to get a little hug or two. A room full of people sitting around on sofas hugging to music is more to our notion. If its originator succeeds in popularizing his "sitting waltz," his name will certainly be emblazoned in letters of gold on the heights of fame.—Nevada City Tribune.

IMPENDING ITS PROGRESS.

Vandercook's Line Somewhat Set Back by the Appeal.

Surveys, However, Will Continue and Everything Put in Shape.

An appeal has been taken to the Supreme court from the decision of the Superior court of this county over the granting of a franchise for an electric railway from this city to Livermore, which was granted some time ago to E. P. Vandercook by the Supervisors.

The appeal is based upon the fact, as alleged, that the lower court should have granted at the instance of the petitioners a writ of mandate compelling the Supervisors to award the franchise to Arthur Thomson.

When the application for a franchise was pending before the Supervisors there were only two bidders, E. P. Vandercook and Arthur Thomson. Vandercook offered for the franchise $25 in cash, a certain percentage of the gross earnings of the road five years after it went into operation, together with a certain number of electric lights along the route and electric power to be used for various purposes at the county infirmary.

The bid of Thomson was for a certain amount of cash and a certain percentage of the gross earnings of the road, which the Supervisors did not consider so advantageous an offer as that of Vandercook.

When Mr. Thomson found that his bid was not in it with Vandercook's he offered a supplemental and verbal bid, which the Supervisors refused to consider on the ground that it had not been presented sealed and in response to the call published in the papers. The Supervisors held that to accept Thomson's latest bid would be to sell the franchise at auction, which they held the law did not authorize.

On the other hand Mr. Thomson contended that he was permitted to offer another bid and that it was the highest bid and none other that the Supervisors should accept.

When the matter was taken to the Superior court the judge decided in favor of the Supervisors.

E. P. Vandercook was seen this morning and seemed to be disappointed over the appeal.

He claimed that the question could not be passed on by the Supreme court for some months, and that the effect of the uncertainty which an appeal necessarily created would be to annoy his company, which has made all due haste to build its line into Livermore and beyond. Meanwhile, however, he said the company would continue in its surveys and the work of securing right of way, so as to be ready to take immediate action when a favorable decision should be handed down by the Supreme court.

When tired and thirsty, for rest, a nice bit of lunch and a cool drink, go to Earl & Martin's wine rooms, 467 10th st., bet. Broadway and Washington.

MINERS IN CONFERENCE.

The Alameda Association Is In First Class Condition.

Resolutions Approving the Actions Regarding Mineral Lands.

The Alameda County Miners' Association met in the Council Chamber last night. Vice-President E. H. Benjamin presided. The officers of last year were re-elected as follows: F. Chappellet, president, Edward H. Benjamin vice-president, and C. B. Rutherford, secretary.

Thomas Jeffreys, W. R. Thomas, Grant J. Taggart, W. C. Ralston and J. J. Newsom were appointed a nominating committee to select delegates to the State miners' convention to be held in San Francisco October 14th and 15th at Pioneer hall.

The following were reported favorably upon and were declared elected: J. Miller, A. A. Wood, J. M. Wright, J. Samuel B. Christy, A. T. Merriam, J. Newsom, J. L. Lyon, T. W. Jeffreys, F. C. Phelps, John B. Eldridge, E. C. Richey, Grant J. Taggart, W. R. Thomas, E. H. Benjamin, Geo. W. Baker, Mack Webber, T. L. Mael , Geo. Goodman, J. L. Mayon and J. J. Brown.

The alternates elected are: Du Ba Smith, J. M. Taylor, E. F. Aiken, Geo. Cul, Richard McSorley and C. B. Rutherford.

W. P. Miller, J. L. Lyon, F. M. Phelps and John B. Eldridge were elected members of the association.

The following resolution was unanimously adopted:

Whereas, the aims and objects of the California Miners Association are in the direction of the legitimate development of the mineral resources of the State and the retention of the mineral lands for the prospectors and miners for whom they were intended by the government as opposed to other claimants from whom they were expressly reserved, and

Whereas, the Association, by its firm but conservative course in defending the mineral industry of California has inspired and retains the confidence of the public, irrespective of occupation, which is largely due to the personal standing, influence and actions of the present officers; therefore be it

Resolved, That the Alameda County Miners' Association endorses the course and actions of the executive, legislative and protection of mineral lands committees of the State association during the past year, and its delegates are hereby instructed to urge a renomination of the present efficient officers, especially the president and secretary and members of the standing committees, in order that no change of policy or course of procedure may possibly occur.

OLIVE OLIVER'S SUCCESS.

An Oakland Girl Who Has Made a Hit in the East.

The New York World of last Sunday contained the following:

The theatrical season has brought prominently forward a most promising young actress in Miss Olive Oliver, whose work in support of the Hollands at the Garrick Theater is proof of her superior quality. Miss Oliver was born in Carson City, Nev., but was brought up at Oakland, Cal., where she was graduated from the High School in June, 1888. When but 18 years old she made her debut as Queen Gertrude to the Hamlet of Daniel E. Bandmann, with whom she remained until May, 1890, playing all the heavy roles in his extensive repertoire.

Miss Oliver then played a season with Frederick Warde and in 1892 she made a hit in "The House on the Marsh." Subsequently she appeared in "Ye Earlie Trouble" and "The Crust of Society." This season she has taken the parts of Zoora in "A Man With a Past," and Senora Lolla Caprices in "A Social Highwayman."

Tall, graceful and of uncommon beauty, Miss Oliver is an attractive woman. She is an expert fencer and attributes her health as well as much of her grace and litheness to her skill with the foils. Last winter she taught fencing at the Professional Woman's League.

AMUSEMENTS.

Dixey's Monologue — "The Fire Patrol" at the Oakland.

Henry E. Dixey will appear next Monday evening at the Macdonough Theater in his famous monologue entertainment which has delighted thousands. Dixey's name has been before the theatrical world for years and his popularity is almost unprecedented. He will present many of the most attractive character bits in his repertoire, which is very extensive. His remarkable imitations of well-known personages of the stage and the world in general are among the best. Supporting Mr. Dixey is a vaudeville company of high grade. The sale of seats commences today and indications all point to a very large demand. Dixey will be here for only one night, and therefore theater goers will have but this opportunity to witness his inimitable entertainment.

THE OAKLAND.

"The Fire Patrol" is playing to splendid business this week at the Oakland theater. The realism of the drama is heightened by the accessories of a mechanical nature and the real horses and wagon used in the play which is sensational and striking throughout. From the very first the strong dramatic points of the play attract attention, and the thrilling tableaux result in a host of curtain calls.

SEEKING THE SHORTAGE.

Outram's Accounts Are Being Handled by an Expert.

The directors of the Mountain View Cemetery Association met in executive session last night to check over the books of the defaulting secretary. The shortage thus far amounts to about $8800, and this the directors think will be increased about $500 more.

The case is in the hands of the Surety Company, who are out about $4000 by the defalcation. They will undoubtedly prosecute, as all of the directors feel that Outram should be punished.

Will P. Melvin, who has been assistant secretary, was elected to Outram's position and the matter of employing an assistant was left over for a month.

The stuffed calico cats made of print cloth stamped with the picture of a tabby and stuffed with cotton into quite a lifelike counterfeit of the animal, which were a common toy with children a few years ago, have been put to a novel use lately in Lincoln county, Me. The farmers have fastened up the calico cats among the branches of their fruit trees and it is said they most effectually scare away predatory birds. It would seem the idea could be extended into the making of life-like stuffed calico huntsmen for use as scarecrows in cornfields and melon patches.

BATHERS AND PICKLES.

The Ordinance and Judiciary Committee Holds a Session.

Columbia Club Swimmers Not Yet Restricted Regarding Tights.

The swimmers at the Columbia Boat Club will swim the season out in the vest pocket suits if the ordinances regulating swimming is not acted upon before long. Last night it was called up at the meeting of the Ordinance Committee.

"Do you want to press this?" was asked of Towle, the originator of the ordinance.

"Of course I do," he replied. "I understand, however, that the boys want to be heard, and if there is no objection I will pass the matter over until the next meeting."

The other members did not seem to be so very particular, and the boys were given another week to dress as they please while enjoying their Sunday dip.

Towle's opposition to petit bathing suits is apparently waning, but in its place is growing a large and robust aversion to pickle factories. He had two ordinances on the question last night. One made it a misdemeanor to make pickles outside the southwestern portion of the city bounded by Third and Peralta streets. The other made it unlawful to store too many pickles outside the same district.

Mott objected to the ordinances as he did not want to turn his ward into a pickle factory, but Towle said that there was one there now and he thought they could stand more. The committee was getting into a pickle themselves when someone suggested sinking out the word Peralta, thereby giving other wards an opportunity to enjoy the odors which float around a pickle establishment. This was satisfactory to all, and with the alteration the ordinance was recommended.

JUMPED THE TRACK.

Two Passengers Injured on the Trestle Glen Line.

A Trestle Glen car jumped the track yesterday afternoon at the curve at Whipple and Chicago avenues. Miss Lizzie Madden, a music teacher living on Twenty-fourth street and New Broadway, was thrown against the inside of the car and received some bruises about the face and head and was rendered senseless by the blow.

Deputy Constable Gilmartin, who was also a passenger, was thrown against the seat and had his knee somewhat injured.

AS OTHERS SEE US.

Robbing in any sense you please to put it is a grave offense; but when it comes to robbing the dead which Secretary Outram, of the Mountain View Cemetery Association is virtually accused of, language fails to express one's contempt for the perpetrator. Worst of all, this young man, who is but 27 years of age, leaves a wife and two children to mourn his fall from honest manhood.—Alameda Encinal.

By ordinance passed September 21st, Oakland has forbidden the keeping of a nickel-in-the-slot machine. Thus the law cruelly interferes with man's ingenuous methods for capturing the stray five cent pieces.—Vallejo Chronicle.

In San Francisco they are seeking legal means to prevent the high tax levy. In Oakland the Mayor will exercise his veto. In Alameda the taxpayers strenuously protest. But the effort in each case promises to be of little avail. This era of high taxation in a season of unparalleled depression may arouse the property-owning public to a more acute sense of their responsibilities and duties and keep them from going a-fishing on election day, hereafter. Apathy in this respect is really what is the matter, and the remedy is readily applied.—Alameda Argus.

Assessor Dalton hardly needed to deny the newspaper report that he desired and was about to acquire an Alameda journal to champion his views and defend his acts as a public officer. The proposition was not reasonable on its face. Besides, Assessor Dalton seems to be making very creditable headway, with nearly all the newspapers against him and without a journalistic champion.—Alameda Argus.

WARLIKE WRANGLES.

Chesterfieldian Advice Is Necessary for the Council.

VERY STRONG LANGUAGE USED.

Members Accused of Toying Recklessly With the Truth.

BASSETT GETS VERY RILED.

Brosnahan Throws Down the Gauntlet to Would Be Fighters.

What is your pleasure gentlemen?" smilingly inquired Clerk Mott as he first mechanically rapped and then called the session to order the Council.

Hilton reported favoring the transfer of $100 which was the only thing on the table and it was passed.

Tompkins asked Buckland that 5 cents of the 10 cents appropriated to the street light fund be returned to the sewer fund and the city reduced to 5 cents and making the half cent cents.

Brosnahan objected to this. He have taken into consideration Mayor's message. He said he did not think we will pass the motion. He has carefully gone over the figures and thinks that 5 cents is too light for the sewer. At the same time we have contracted for the lights and will ask all that the present rate will provide for the 10 cents. The fund will be short $8,000 if however we can show him that 9½ cents will be sufficient I am sure he will be willing to sign an ordinance fixing the rate at 9½ cents but I do not think it advisable to change his figures without first consulting him as he may refuse to sign it and our time will have been lost.

Towle seconded Buckland's motion. In doing so he said truth thought the people whom he represented would rather see 1 less lights and have the schools kept open for the full school year.

It is very foolish said Bassett for us to try to change this ordinance. The Mayor has figured out just what the cost of maintaining the schools will be and what the street lighting will amount to. We don't know what he will do with the ordinance if it contains the proposed amendment but we do know what he will do if it goes to him as it is.

I am not the Mayor's lackey said Towle and when it comes to the point that I can't conscientiously carry out my own ideas in this Council I am ready to resign.

Nobody said anything about conscientiously carrying out ideas said Bassett and when it was said—

Dr. Buckland here interrupted Bassett by calling to the question and Old Pard was mad. I don't propose to be choked off when I'm talking by you Buckland or any one else he said as he jumped angrily to his feet. I've been jumped on long enough I have the right to be heard in this matter and I will be heard. I am not a lackey to the Mayor and the man who says so and so forth did his eyes from Towle to Mott is a liar.

Stop that shouted Mott as he knocked on the desk for order. We will have none of that talk here.

I stop when I get good and ready continued Bassett. I won't be shut off. You or any of your kind. After making the remarks you did last night in Council our duty is to call him to order. I have said that I think the Mayor will veto the ordinance if we change it and I continue to say that I don't think it best to do any thing until we see him at least.

Bassett rose in a pacific manner and smiling, unlike the laughing start of the councilmen this time, he said and I for one think it is time they were stopped. I am no fighter but I am always in the fighting line. Mr. Bassett was perfectly right when he questioned was called. He has a right to be treated as a gentleman. The calling for the question on him at that time was unintentional and was by no means intended to insult him personally. I myself protest against this little fuss. I still hope this fuss will end in nothing. I for one am willing to withdraw anything that may have been said that may be construed into an insult. Just look at the fun we have had over this ordinance and I hope as well as I do one shall oppose my views.

Nelson seemed to have anything more to say and Buckland's motion was put. Buckland, Towle and Tompkins voted aye and Bassett, Hilton and Mott nay. The ayes outnumbered by the ayes of Buckland and Mott.

Nothing further being proposed the matter was left with the committee to the Council that if the Council is pass to print this chart be added.

FOR WORKING WOMEN.

A Philanthropical Club Is Started by Mrs Cheek.

Through the efforts of Mrs. M. A. Cheek a club for working girls has been organized in Oakland. On Tuesday evening about fifteen young women employed in various offices and dry goods stores in this city assembled at Mrs. Cheek's residence on Eighth street in response to invitations to be present at the first meeting organized. Its aims is for the mutual improvement of its members who will be exclusively young women who are dependent upon their own exertions for their maintenance. It is modeled after clubs in Chicago and Boston which have proved to be of great benefit to working girls and women.

Meetings will be held on the second and fourth Tuesdays of each month at the residence of Mrs. Cheek each one of which will be devoted to some social form of entertainment. Current news topics followed by discussion will occupy one evening and a lecture upon Eglesby by a prominent physician a musical evening etc. have been planned.

Mrs. Cheek the founder of the new society is the widow of Senator Dr. Marion Cheek one of the chief councilors of State in the kingdom of Siam. She has for many years devoted herself to the cause of philanthropy and is particularly well adapted to this line of work.

The club was virtually started last year when Mrs. Cheek invited working girls to her home one evening each week to spend a few pleasant hours but it has now been placed on a sound basis and will doubtly prove a source of much good to its members.

The U. S. Gov't Reports show Royal Baking Powder superior to all others.

DAVIE IS WAVERING.

He Thinks Dr. Buckland's Idea Better Than His Own.

A Possibility Now That the Mayor May Not Press the Dollar Limit.

"I begin now to think I have made a mistake in regard to the dollar tax" said Mayor Davie this morning. "I had a burning desire to make at this time but I am not so pig-headed as not to admit so to change my mind when I find that I have made a mistake.

DURRANT IS IN A CORNER.

Under Severe Examination by the District Attorney He Starts Going to Pieces.

HE CONTRADICTS HIMSELF AND IS BADLY TIED UP.

Flimsy Story of Advice Given Him by a Stranger About Blanche Lamont.

A VIGIL AT THE FERRY.

He Gave Different Reasons as to Why He Was Keeping Guard There.

HIS MEMORY WAS DEFECTIVE.

He Forgot to Tell Those Interested About the Clues He Had Received.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 10.—Theodore Durrant's reputation for truth and veracity went completely to pieces on the witness stand this morning.

Durrant's answers to two or three questions were palpably lies, and he changed his answers to fit the occasions.

Besides he told a story about the disappearance of Blanche Lamont that was so gauzy that everybody wonders how Durrant had the hardihood to think the jury would accept it as a fact.

The pitfall into which Durrant fell was in telling about the afternoon that he spent at the ferry to see if Blanche would not attempt to cross the bay to escape from the city.

Durrant said he had a clew that Miss Lamont would cross the bay that afternoon.

When asked where he got the clew Durrant said he was standing at the corner of Market and Montgomery streets that day when a stranger came up to him and asked him if his name was not Durrant.

The prisoner replied that it was.

The stranger then asked if Durrant was not interested in her disappearance in view of the fact that his name had been connected with the case.

Durrant replied that he was.

The stranger then said: "Watch the ferries this afternoon; that is my advice. She will try to cross the bay."

Although Durrant said he was overjoyed to get a clew to Miss Lamont, in reply to District Attorney Barnes' questions he said he did not ask the man's name, residence, or anything about the source of information he had received.

Neither did he ask for further information on the subject.

He simply watched the man walk toward Dupont street and then Durrant went to a restaurant and ate luncheon.

He then went to the ferry, he says, to see if he could find Blanche.

Four of Durrant's friends saw Durrant at the ferry that afternoon, and by one of them the prosecution expects to prove that Durrant went there not to meet Blanche Lamont, but Minnie Williams.

Aaron Hoge, an old schoolmate of Durrant, testified at the preliminary examination, that Durrant met a woman answering Minnie Williams' description and boarding a Howard street car with her, rode to the Mission.

Durrant testified today that he did not meet any woman at the ferry and that he went from the ferry to the Armory to pack up his blankets preparatory to making the trip to Mount Diablo the next day.

To Frank Sademan, whom he saw at the ferry, Durrant said that he was looking for Blanche Lamont.

To Dodge and Dukes, students at the Medical College, he said he was waiting for members of the Signal Corps, who were coming from Oakland.

When asked today if he told Dodge and Dukes he was tracing a clew to Miss Lamont, Durrant at first replied that he did.

The next moment he realized that he had given the wrong answer and replied he did not.

He tried to reconcile the statements by saying he was looking for Miss Lamont and waiting for the members of the signal corps at the same time.

District Attorney Barnes asked Durrant why he left the ferry at 5 o'clock to make preparations for a pleasure trip if he was so much interested in finding Miss Lamont with whose disappearance his name had been so unpleasantly connected.

Durrant replied that he did not think it necessary to remain at the ferry longer.

The District Attorney then asked if he told any of Blanche's friends of the important clew he received from the stranger.

Durrant replied he had not as he had not had the opportunity.

After vigorous questioning Durrant admitted he attended the Christian Endeavor meeting the same night where he met a number of Miss Lamont's friends.

Among others he met Thomas Vogel who Durrant testified the moment before was more interested in Blanche's disappearance than anybody else except her aunt, Mrs. Noble.

Although he had private conversation with Vogel, Durrant told him nothing about the clew to Miss Lamont's disappearance as he said the subject did not occur to him.

Durrant was asked if after the disappearance of Blanche Lamont he told Herbert Schlagter she had probably been led astray and gone into a house of ill-fame.

Durrant said he told Schlagter that Miss Lamont might have been led astray.

Barnes asked Durrant what there was about the manner or character of Miss Lamont that induced him to make that remark.

Durrant said he knew nothing against Miss Lamont, but had heard Detective Anthony say that she might have been led astray.

HONOR FOR BRAVE MEN.

President Faure Sends Word to the French Troops at Madagascar.

The Country Is Grateful for the Splendid Services Performed.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

PARIS, Oct. 10.—The minister of war, General Zurlinden, received a dispatch from Mojang today confirming the news of the capture of Antananarivo, the capital of Madagascar, by a French force under the command of General Duchesne.

The official dispatch says that after a brilliant action Antananarivo was occupied September 30th.

The peace negotiations with the Hovas were opened next day and successfully concluded the same evening.

The terms agreed upon were subject to ratification by the French government.

General Metzinger, second in command of the French troops, was appointed Governor of Antananarivo.

President Faure sent the following cable message to General Deuchesne:

"In the name of all France the government congratulates you, your officers and men. Your admirable troops have all deserved well of the country. France thanks you for the services you rendered her and for the great example you have given. You have proved there are no perils or obstacles which can not be removed by method, courage and coolness. You are appointed grand officer of the Legion of Honor. Forward the names without delay of those in your command for rewards and the government will propose to Parliament that a medal be struck for distribution to your troops."

A Bad Fall.

Fred Leonard, a painter residing at 1001 Webster street, while working on the house of Mr. Ray, on Vernon Heights, today fell from the scaffolding, a height of about twenty-five feet. He was taken to the receiving hospital, where he was treated for some bruises about the face and hands occasioned by the fall.

DOCUMENTARY TESTIMONY.

Evidence Leading Up to the Foundation of the Trust.

EVERY TECHNICALITY WATCHED

A Claim That the Court Has no Jurisdiction Over the Case.

The celebrated case of the president and trustees of Bowdoin College versus Harry P. Merritt et al. was resumed this morning in the United States Circuit Court in San Francisco before Judge Hawley.

There were no spectators, though the space within the bar was well filled with eminent counsel, all of whom are, in some manner, connected with the case.

Among these were Arthur Rogers, representing Henry P. Merritt; Horace W. Philbrook, J. C. Martin and A. A. Moore, representing James P. Merritt; Robert Y. Hayne, with Mr. Williams of the legal firm of Blake, Williams and Harrison as associate counsel representing Bowdoin College; Warren Olney, representing Judge John A. Stanly as trustee; Judge Nusbaumer, representing George W. Reed, administrator, George B. B. Hayes, A. Cohen and a number of others.

The morning session was devoted almost exclusively to the introduction of documentary evidence tending to show the disposition of her property by means of the will made by Mrs. Catherine M. Garcelon, the soundness of mind which she enjoyed at the time she disposed of her property, and, in fact, all the steps taken in the probate of the will, the attempts to contest the same, and he sinuous course the matter has taken during the last four years through the courts of this county and the United States Circuit Court of this district. The object of this evidence is to sustain the trust created in the will by which Bowdoin College is to receive considerably over $400,000.

When the noon recess was taken all this documentary evidence had not been introduced.

The documents were presented by Mr. Hayne. They were objected to by Mr. Rodgers, and the objections made, as well as the intimation that the defendants do not admit the jurisdiction of the court in the case, show that the suit will be warmly contested as it progresses.

THE DOCUMENTS.

Mr. Hayne read a copy of a will of Mrs. Garcelon, dated September, 1891, appointing Stephen W. Purrington legatee. The will was admitted in evidence. He then started to read the petition of Stephen W. Purrington and Harry Merritt for the probate of the last will and testament in Alameda county of Mrs. Garcelon.

Arthur Rodgers objected to the reading of the petition on the ground that it is not material. The court allowed an exception and the petition was read and admitted in evidence.

Mr. Hayne then offered the testimony taken in connection with petition and objection was again made by Mr. Rodgers on the ground that it was not material. The court allowed another exception, although the judge stated that he was not quite sure as to the admissibility of the document, so the matter was allowed to go in subject to later examination.

Mr. Hayne then read the testimony of Stephen W. Purrington, in which he showed that Mr. Purrington had found Mrs. Garcelon's will in the Oakland Bank of Savings and had filed it with the clerk of Alameda county. The date of this testimony, which was attested by H. D. Belden deputy county clerk, was the 1st of February, 1892.

The testimony of Henry P. Merritt was then taken up. The same objection was made to its introduction by Mr. Rodgers, and it was admitted under the same circumstances as had been that of Mr. Purrington. The testimony was in the main the same as that of Mr. Purrington. The attest and filing mark were the same as in the previous case.

The testimony of Isaac Upham brought on the same objections. It was then decided that all papers of the kind now before the court would be admitted subject to the objections already made.

Mr. Upham's testimony showed that he and R. G. Brown had acted as subscribing witnesses to the signing by Mrs. Garcelon of the will of that lady.

The testimony of R. G. Brown was like in form to that of Mr. Upham's and was admitted without reading.

FARNO'S DAMAGE SUIT.

An Unpleasant Episode Grows Out of the Dog Fight.

Mrs. Sanford and Her Husband Will Make a Stubborn Defense.

Mrs. S. C. Sanford will vigorously contest W. E. Farno's suit against her and County Treasurer Sanford to recover $2000 as damages alleged to have been sustained because he was arrested as one of the participants in the recent dog fight at Ike Bottomly's resort in Temescal. Mrs. Sanford was given Farno's name among many others for which warrants were issued. Farno is a milkman and claimed that he was far from the scene delivering milk when the fight and subsequent raid occurred.

The case against him was dismissed. He was not content, however, and commenced a suit for damages, alleging false imprisonment and malicious prosecution.

Mrs. Sanford declares she was guilty of no maliciousness. She says she does not believe Farno has an equitable claim against her. She and her husband have engaged Attorney C. T. Johns to handle their side of the case in the Superior Court, and they propose to make a warm fight.

Farno, however, is equally sure he is in the right. He has retained ex-Mayor Chapman and that is assurance that his side will be presented for all there is in it.

Today a demurrer to the complaint was filed in which technical objections are made. It is claimed the complaint is uncertain and ambiguous and does not recite how Mrs. Sanford was acting maliciously or without probable cause.

LARO TAKES IN SAILS.

He Is Willing That His Wife Should Secure the Divorce.

Judge Ellsworth Surprises Them by Continuing His Decision.

That "The plans of mice and men aft gang agley" was illustrated this morning in the Superior Court in the case of Mrs. Lulu Laro and her husband, Edward Laro, who have suits for divorce there pending.

Barber Laro was not anxious to prosecute the case. He had brought suit against his wife shortly after the horse-whipping episode on Broadway in which he cut quite a figure, and he filed through his attorney, Fred Whitney, a very sensational complaint. Mrs. Laro was not to be outdone. She went to Waste & Stetson and told a harrowing tale of domestic troubles. The result was an answer and a cross complaint.

The case was set for trial today. Laro, however, had tired of his end of the fight and he practically consented to allow the case to go by default. The terms were arranged and the parties litigant made their way to Judge Ellsworth's court today, expecting a decree in behalf of Mrs. Laro on the ground of her husband's extreme cruelty.

Judge Ellsworth heard a long story from Mrs. Laro. The tenor of it was that her barber husband had frequently struck her while she was in a delicate condition because she objected to his cycling and leaving her to shift for herself. She narrated incidents which have already appeared in print, regarding his late hours and his habit of using bad language.

She told how she had "shadowed" him to the Piedmont baths on a wheel, while he went there with a woman who she said was not of spotless reputation. She ran the whole category and was succeeded by Joseph Phillips, a former roomer with the Laros.

Miss Mamie Denham told some stories of how she had seen Laro in company with a woman in a saloon at Seventeenth street and San Pablo avenue. Mrs. Laro also said her husband at the same resort with a female who, when the irate wife burst in upon them, expressed regrets, but admitted she was a loose character. All these and many more incidents were related on the witness stand.

Judge Ellsworth declined, however, to grant the sought for decree. He said he would have to consider the testimony more fully. He therefore continued the case until October 21st. The plans had been laid to allow Mrs. Laro the custody of the baby girl Juanita and a monthly stipend of $7.50 for the child's support. Mrs. Laro was also to resume her maiden name of Lulu F. Redmon, but Judge Ellsworth decided she would have to wait two weeks at least before a decision could be rendered.

Residents of Fruitvale Will Stand No More Nonsense.

Prosecutory Moves Against the Slayers of Deceased Cattle.

Mike Gormley, the free market butcher, who slaughtered diseased cows at Fruitvale, was re-arrested today by Deputy Sheriff Quinlan on a charge of violating a sanitary ordinance. Fruitvale has as to a sanitary district certain laws. One of the prohibits the depositing of the organs of slaughtered cattle without burying that which is cast away. When the three tubercular cows were killed by Gormley the slaughterers left behind them a large portion of the internals of the animals. He will be prosecuted vigorously by some of the residents of Fruitvale who are up in arms against the practice.

Christenson, who was with Gormley, will also be arrested. The latter was locked up in the county jail, as he was unable to furnish bail. Quinlan has captured the third man of the party. He is Gus Blum and is now detained at the county jail. A charge of having diseased meat in his possession also rests against him. The authorities propose to stop the dangerous traffic if possible.

Gormley was convicted in the Police Court this morning.

District Attorney Snook Has Challenged the Federal Authorities.

A LENGTHY OPINION FILED.

Webster Street Bridge Said to Be in the Hands of the County.

HOW THE LINE IS DRAWN.

Federal Authorities Only in Charge of Unnavigable Drawbridges.

Office of District Attorney,
Oakland, Cal., Oct. 9, 1895.

To the Honorable the Board of Supervisors of the County of Alameda:

Gentlemen:

Two communications dated respectively August 6th and August 15th, 1895, addressed to the Board of Supervisors of the County of Alameda by Colonel G. H. Mendell of the Corps of Engineers, U. S. A., have been referred to me for the purpose of determining what the rights of the County would be in the premises, and in whom the title of the Webster street bridge is now vested. It is apparent from the reading of the transcript hereto attached that the Webster street bridge was constructed under a statute which provided that certain commissioners be appointed by the City of Oakland and the Township of Alameda for said purpose, and that subsequently thereto, as will be perceived by a reference to said transcript, the Legislature in 1877 passed an act placing the bridge under the control of the Board of Supervisors of the County of Alameda. That thereafter, by proceedings duly had, a right of way was given to the South Pacific Coast Railroad Company to use said bridge for the purpose of running trains across the same, under the conditions that it would repair the bridge and increase the size of the draw. The report of your committees evidences the fact that the said draw of said bridge was changed and the bridge constructed in accordance with the agreement made with the South Pacific Coast Railroad Company, and has ever since been used by said railroad for the purpose of carrying on its traffic in the city of Oakland.

Upon an examination of said transcript it will also appear that as early as 1852, the Estuary of San Antonio was declared to be a navigable stream by statute enacted by the State Legislature.

There are three cases in which authority is necessary from the Legislature to erect a bridge across a stream.

First: Where the stream is navigable.

Second: Where the State owns the bed of the stream; and

Third. Where the right to take toll is desired.

Impassable obstructions may be authorized by a State either upon tidal or fresh water streams within its limits and navigable to coast vessels, while the power conferred upon Congress to regulate commerce remains dormant and unexercised by legislation upon the subject.

These principles have been passed upon in numerous cases, and have been fully sustained by numerous authorities, and further it has been held that a bridge having a sufficient opening, or being of sufficient height at the usual state of the water, or of ordinary freshets, to permit the passage of any vessel capable of navigating the stream, will not be deemed as interfering with the powers of Congress, even in cases where Congress has regulated navigation upon navigable waters.

In a California case that was appealed to the Supreme Court of the United States it was held that "The American river in California is a navigable water of the United States, and as such under the control of the general government in the exercise of its power to regulate foreign and interstate commerce so far as it may be necessary to insure its free navigation," and in the same case it was held (citing a large number of leading authorities upon the subject) "the control of Congress over navigable waters within the States so as to preserve their free navigation under the commercial clause of the constitution, the power of the States within which they lie to authorize the construction of bridges over them until Congress intervenes and supercedes their authority, and the right of private parties to interfere with their construction or continuance, have been fully considered, and we are entirely satisfied with the soundness of the conclusions reached. They recognize the full power of the States to regulate within their limit matter of internal police, which embraces among other things the construction, repair and maintenance of roads and bridges and the establishment of ferries; that the States are more likely to appreciate the importance of those means of internal communication, and to provide for their proper management, than a government at a distance; and that as to bridges over navigable streams, their power is subordinate to that of Congress, as an act of the latter body is, by the constitution, made the the supreme law of the land; but that until Congress acts on the subject their power is plenary."

Cardwell vs. American River Bridge Co., 113 U. S. 205.

Congress has passed three acts appertaining to the building of bridges and regulating the construction thereof, and vesting in the Secretary of War power, in his judgment, to compel changes in the size of a bridge or in any part thereof.

See Act of Congress August 11th, 1888, and act amendatory thereof September 18th, 1890.

The last mentioned acts were construed in the case of the United States vs. Keokuk and H. Bridge Company, 45 Federal Reporter, 178, United States vs. Reidor, 50 Federal Reporter, 106, and United States vs. A. & T. R. R. Co., et al., in which cases it was held that the statute which provided for the vesting of such power is unconstitutional. I can find no other authority touching the subject matter of said act, except Section 5 of an Act of Congress (U. S. Stats., 1893-95, Chap. 299, page 362) passed 1894, regulating the opening of drawbridges and providing that regulations be made by the Secretary of War for same; therefore it would seem from a review of the authorities that the position of the county of Alameda as at present advised, is as follows:

The Webster street bridge was constructed by authority of the State Legislature. That the statutes authorizing the construction was a proper exercise of authority on the part of the State; that there has been no statute passed by the United States Congress which affect or appertain to the government, by Congress, or navigable waters, known as the Estuary of San Antonio, and until some act is passed by Congress affecting the subject matter, the War Department will have no control over said bridge, unless the draw of such bridge is such that it cannot accommodate vessels navigating the estuary. That any changes that are to be made in said bridge must be made with the consent of the Board of Supervisors, and then only made in the construction of the bridge where it now stands.

Respectfully submitted,
CHARLES E. SNOOK,
District Attorney.

CALL IT POLITICS.

City Officials Attack the Motives of Mayor Davie.

The city hall heads of departments now claim that they have discovered a new reason for the attitude of the Mayor in forcing a dollar levy. They say it is for the purpose of showing them up in a bad light at the end of the fiscal year.

A leading official said this morning: "The fixing of a dollar tax levy is a piece of political finesse that has rarely been equaled in this city. At the present time the dollar fruit is singular, and a half dollar would be twice as much so. But this tax will not raise enough money on which to run our departments. In consequence, about next March all the funds will be empty and the city officials will be crippled. They will then be charged by the Davie faction with having conducted their department in the most unsatisfactory manner known for years. This will be true, but whose fault will it be—not ours certainly. We cannot do good work without money. The Mayor has the whip on us, it is true, and so long as the veto holds, we must be sacrificed."

HIS BRAIN CAVE WAY.

In a Fit of Sheer Despondency Justus Held Commits Suicide.

Justus Held, a capitalist who lived at 1606 Telegraph avenue, committed suicide yesterday by jumping into the bay near the Seal Rock house.

For a number of years past he has been suffering with pains in his head and his brain had slightly softened. He had threatened suicide several times before and his wife who knew his despondent condition, kept a close watch over him, but he slipped away from her yesterday and she did not hear of him until notified of the finding of the body.

Held came to Oakland thirty years ago and accumulated a snug fortune in the liquor and cigar business at Fifteenth and San Pablo avenue. Some time ago he sold his business and has since been living on the income from his property.

He leaves a widow and a daughter, who is the wife of a Ventura farmer named Sherwood. Held was born in Germany sixty-two years ago.

Dr. John Fearn Contests Mrs. Louise Henderson's Claims.

Dr. John Fearn has filed an answer to the suit of Mrs. Louise B. Henderson to recover $1850 on promissory notes she held as a part of the liabilities of the drug store of Henderson & Graham, which was sold to Fearn. He denies that any notes exist. He claims they have been satisfied and that Mrs. Henderson destroyed them as evidence of any debt due her.

Dr. Fearn also denies that he assumed a liability for any of the notes when he came to Oakland thirty years a list of bills owed by Henderson & Graham which he did assume, but Mrs. Henderson's notes were not among them.

She claimed that the notes had been destroyed or lost through carelessness.

Mary Smith Again Falls a Victim to the Cup That Inebriates.

Mary Smith, who has so often promised of late to keep away from the flowing bowl, showed up yesterday with a jag as large as the Council fight. She was too sick to come into court this morning and the judge ordered her ball to be fixed at $25 and continued the matter until tomorrow.

George Cavanaugh, a lad arrested for train jumping, promised to refrain from the practice in the future and the court suspended judgment.

C. H. Mitchell, a "Biker" paid $2 for not complying with the bicycling ordinance.

Phillip Jansen denied that he disturbed the peace of Mary Burke, and his trial was set for the 12th.

The Vendors of Diseased Meat Must Now Pay the Penalty.

F. H. Christen and Mike Gormley were found guilty this morning of bringing into the city unwholesome meats and offering them for sale.

Yesterday they asked that their cases be continued until this morning, claiming that they could produce a witness from San Francisco who would testify that he had bought the meat from them to be used by him as food for his chickens.

Judge Wood granted the request, but the promised witness failed to appear and a further continuance was denied.

DURRANT IS IN A CORNER.

Under Severe Examination by the District Attorney He Starts Going to Pieces.

HE CONTRADICTS HIMSELF AND IS BADLY TIED UP.

Flimsy Story of Advice Given Him by a Stranger About Blanche Lamont.

A VIGIL AT THE FERRY.

He Gave Different Reasons as to Why He Was Keeping Guard There.

HIS MEMORY WAS DEFECTIVE.

He Forgot to Tell Those Interested About the Clues He Had Received.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 10.—Theodore Durrant's reputation for truth and veracity went completely to pieces on the witness stand this morning.

Durrant's answers to two or three questions were palpably lies, and he changed his answers to fit the occasions.

Besides he told a story about the disappearance of Blanche Lamont that was so gauzy that everybody wonders how Durrant had the hardihood to think the jury would accept it as a fact.

The pitfall into which Durrant fell was in telling about the afternoon that he spent at the ferry to see if Blanche would not attempt to cross the bay to escape from the city.

Durrant said he had a clew that Miss Lamont would cross the bay that afternoon.

When asked where he got the clew Durrant said he was standing at the corner of Market and Montgomery streets that day when a stranger came up to him and asked him if his name was not Durrant.

The prisoner replied that it was.

The stranger then asked if Durrant was not interested in her disappearance in view of the fact that his name had been connected with the case.

Durrant replied that he was.

The stranger then said: "Watch the ferries this afternoon; that is my advice. She will try to cross the bay."

Although Durrant said he was overjoyed to get a clew to Miss Lamont, in reply to District Attorney Barnes' questions he said he did not ask the man's name, residence, or anything about the source of information he had received.

Neither did he ask for further information on the subject.

He simply watched the man walk toward Dupont street and then Durrant went to a restaurant and ate luncheon.

He then went to the ferry, he says, to see if he could find Blanche.

Four of Durrant's friends saw Durrant at the ferry that afternoon, and by one of them the prosecution expects to prove that Durrant went there not to meet Blanche Lamont, but Minnie Williams.

Aaron Hoge, an old schoolmate of Durrant, testified at the preliminary examination, that Durrant met a woman answering Minnie Williams' description and boarding a Howard street car with her, rode to the Mission.

Durrant testified today that he did not meet any woman at the ferry and that he went from the ferry to the Armory to pack up his blankets preparatory to making the trip to Mount Diablo the next day.

To Frank Sademan, whom he saw at the ferry, Durrant said that he was looking for Blanche Lamont.

To Dodge and Dukes, students at the Medical College, he said he was waiting for members of the Signal Corps ,who were coming from Oakland.

When asked today if he told Dodge and Dukes he was tracing a clew to Miss Lamont, Durrant at first replied that he did.

The next moment he realized that he had given the wrong answer and replied he did not.

He tried to reconcile the statements by saying he was looking for Miss Lamont and waiting for the members of the signal corps at the same time.

District Attorney Barnes asked Durrant why he left the ferry at 5 o'clock to make preparations for a pleasure trip if he was so much interested in finding Miss Lamont with whose disappearance his name had been so unpleasantly connected.

Durrant replied that he did not think it necessary to remain at the ferry longer.

The District Attorney then asked if he told any of Blanche's friends of the important clew he received from the stranger.

Durrant replied he had not as he had not had the opportunity.

After vigorous questioning Durrant admitted he attended the Christian Endeavor meeting the same night where he met a number of Miss Lamont's friends.

Among others he met Thomas Vogel who Durrant testified the moment before was more interested in Blanche's disappearance than anybody else except her aunt, Mrs. Noble.

Although he had private conversation with Vogel, Durrant told him nothing about the clew to Miss Lamont's disappearance as he said the subject did not occur to him.

Durrant was asked if after the disappearance of Blanche Lamont he told Herbert Schlagter she had probably been ead astray and gone into a house of illname.

Durrant said he told Schlagter that Miss Lamont might have been led astray.

Barnes asked Durrant what there was about the manner or character of Miss Lamont that induced him to make that remark.

Durrant said he knew nothing against Miss Lamont, but had heard Detective Anthony say that she might have been led astray.

President Faure Sends Word to the French Troops at Madagascar.

The Country Is Grateful for the Splendid Services Performed.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

PARIS, Oct. 10.—The minister of war, General Zurlinden, received a dispatch from Mojang today confirming the news of the capture of Antananarivo, the capital of Madagascar, by a French force under the command of General Duchesne.

The official dispatch says that after a brilliant action Antananarivo was occupied September 30th.

The peace negotiations with the Hovas were opened next day and successfully concluded the same evening.

The terms agreed upon were subject to ratification by the French government.

General Metzinger, second in command of the French troops, was appointed Governor of Antananarivo.

President Faure sent the following cable message to General Deuchesne:

"In the name of all France the government congratulates you, your officers and men. Your admirable troops have all deserved well of the country. France thanks you for the services you rendered her and for the great example you have given. You have proved there are no perils or obstacles which can not be removed by method, courage and coolness. You are appointed grand officer of the Legion of Honor. Forward the names without delay of those in your command for rewards and the government will propose to Parliament that a medal be struck for distribution to your troops."

The tenor of it was that her barber husband had frequently struck her while she was in a delicate condition, because she objected to his cycling and leaving her to shift for herself. She narrated incidents which have already appeared in print, regarding his late hours and his habit of using bad language.

She told how she had "shadowed" him to the Piedmont baths on a wheel, while he went there with a woman who she said was not of spotless reputation. She ran the whole category and was succeeded by Joseph Phillips, a former roomer with the Laros.

Miss Mamie Denham told some stories of how she had seen Laro in company with a woman in a saloon at Seventeenth street and San Pablo avenue. Mrs. Laro also said her husband at the same resort with a female who, when the irate wife burst in upon them, expressed regrets, but admitted she was a loose character. All these and many more incidents were related on the witness stand.

Judge Ellsworth declined, however, to grant the sought for decree. He said he would have to consider the testimony more fully. He therefore continued the case until October 21st. The plans had been laid to allow Mrs. Laro the custody of the baby girl Juanita and a monthly stipend of $7.50 for the child's support. Mrs. Laro was also to resume her maiden name of Lulu F. Redmon, but Judge Ellsworth decided she would have to wait two weeks at least before a decision could be rendered.

Residents of Fruitvale Will Stand No More Nonsense.

Prosecutory Moves Against the Slayers of Deceased Cattle.

Mike Gormley, the free market butcher, who slaughtered diseased cows at Fruitvale, was re-arrested today by Deputy Sheriff Quinlan on a charge of violating a sanitary ordinance. Fruitvale has as to a sanitary district certain laws. One of the prohibits the depositing of the organs of slaughtered cattle without burying that which is cast away. When the three tubercular cows were killed by Gormley the slaughterers left behind them a large portion of the internals of the animals. He will be prosecuted vigorously by some of the residents of Fruitvale who are up in arms against the practice.

Christenson, who was with Gormley, will also be arrested. The latter was locked up in the county jail, as he was unable to furnish bail. Quinlan has captured the third man of the party. He is Gus Blum and is now detained at the county jail. A charge of having diseased meat in his possession also rests against him. The authorities propose to stop the dangerous traffic if possible.

Gormley was convicted in the Police Court this morning.

NOT UNDER CONTROL

District Attorney Snook Has Challenged the Federal Authorities.

A LENGTHY OPINION FILED.

Webster Street Bridge Said to Be in the Hands of the County.

HOW THE LINE IS DRAWN.

Federal Authorities Only in Charge of Unnavigable Drawbridges.

Office of District Attorney,
Oakland, Cal., Oct. 9, 1895.

To the Honorable the Board of Supervisors of the County of Alameda:
Gentlemen:

Two communications dated respectively August 6th and August 15th, 1895, addressed to the Board of Supervisors of the County of Alameda by Colonel G. H. Mendel of the Corps of Engineers, U. S. A., have been referred to me for the purpose of determining what the rights of the County would be in the premises, and in whom the title of the Webster street bridge is now vested. It is apparent from the reading of the transcript hereto attached that the Webster street bridge was constructed under a statute which provided that certain commissioners be appointed by the City of Oakland and the Township of Alameda for said purpose, and that subsequently thereto, as will be perceived by a reference to said transcript, the Legislature in 1877 passed an act placing the bridge under the control of the Board of Supervisors of the County of Alameda. That thereafter, by proceedings duly had, a right of way was given to the South Pacific Coast Railroad Company to use said bridge for the purpose of running trains across the same, under the conditions that it would repair the bridge and increase the size of the draw. The report of your committees evidences the fact that the said draw of said bridge was changed and the bridge constructed in accordance with the agreement made with the South Pacific Coast Railroad Company, and has ever since been used by said railroad for the purpose of carrying on its traffic in the city of Oakland.

Upon an examination of said transcript it will also appear that as early as 1852, the Estuary of San Antonio was declared to be a navigable stream by statute enacted by the State Legislature.

There are three cases in which authority is necessary from the Legislature to erect a bridge across a stream.

First: Where the stream is navigable.

Second: Where the State owns the bed of the stream; and

Third: Where the right to take toll is desired.

Impassable obstructions may be authorized by a State either upon tidal or fresh water streams within its limits and navigable to coast vessels, while the power conferred upon Congress to regulate commerce remains dormant and unexercised by legislation upon the subject.

These principles have been passed upon in numerous cases, and have been fully sustained by numerous authorities, and further it has been held that a bridge having a sufficient opening, or being of sufficient height at the usual state of the water, or of ordinary freshets, to permit the passage of any vessel capable of navigating the stream, will not be deemed as interfering with the powers of Congress, even in cases where Congress has regulated navigation upon navigable waters.

In a California case that was appealed to the Supreme Court of the United States it was held that "The American river in California is a navigable water of the United States, and as such under the control of the general government in the exercise of its power to regulate foreign and interstate commerce so far as it may be necessary to insure its free navigation," and in the same case it was held (citing a large number of leading authorities upon the subject) "the control of Congress over navigable waters within the States so as to preserve their free navigation under the commercial clause of the constitution, the power of the States within which they lie to authorize the construction of bridges over them until Congress intervenes and supercedes their authority, and the right of private parties to interfere with their construction or continuance, have been fully considered, and we are entirely satisfied with the soundness of the conclusions reached. They recognize the full power of the States to regulate within their limit matter of internal police, which embraces among other things the construction, repair and maintenance of roads and bridges and the establishment of ferries; that the States are more likely to appreciate the importance of these means of internal communication, and to provide for their proper management, than a government at a distance; and that as to bridges over navigable streams, their power is subordinate to that of Congress, as an act of the latter body is, by the constitution, made the the supreme law of the land; but that until Congress acts on the subject their power is plenary."

Cardwell vs. American River Bridge Co., 113 U. S. 205.

Congress has passed three acts appertaining to the building of bridges and regulating the construction thereof, and vesting in the Secretary of War power, in his judgment, to compel changes in the size of a bridge or in any part thereof.

See Act of Congress August 11th, 1888, and act amendatory thereof September 18th, 1890.

The last mentioned acts were construed in the case of the United States vs. Keokuk and H. Bridge Company, 45 Federal Reporter, 178, United States vs. Reidor, 50 Federal Reporter, 106, and United States vs. A. & T. R. R. Co., et al., in which cases it was held that the statute which provided for the vesting of such power is unconstitutional. I can find no other authority touching the subject matter of said act, except Section 5 of an Act of Congress (U. S. Stats. 1893-95, Chap. 299, page 362) passed 1894, regulating the opening of drawbridges and providing that regulations be made by the Secretary of War for same; therefore it would seem from a review of the authorities that the position of the county of Alameda as at present advised, is as follows:

The Webster street bridge was constructed by authority of the State Legislature. That the statutes authorizing the construction was a proper exercise of authority on the part of the State; that there has been no statute passed by the United States Congress which affect or appertain to the government, by Congress, or navigable waters, known as the Estuary of San Antonio, and until some act is passed by Congress affecting the subject matter, the War Department will have no control over said bridge, unless the draw of such bridge is such that it cannot accommodate vessels navigating the estuary. That any changes that are to be made in said bridge must be made with the consent of the Board of Supervisors, and then only made in the construction of the bridge where it now stands.

Respectfully submitted,
CHARLES E. SNOOK,
District Attorney.

CALL IT POLITICS.

City Officials Attack the Motives of Mayor Davie.

The city hall heads of departments now claim that they have discovered a new reason for the attitude of the Mayor in forcing a dollar levy. They say it is for the purpose of showing them up in a bad light at the end of the fiscal year.

A leading official said this morning: "The fixing of a dollar tax levy is a piece of political finesse that has rarely been equaled in this city. At the present time the dollar limit is popular, and a half dollar would be be twice as much so. But this tax will not raise enough money on which to run our departments. In consequence, about next March al the funds will be empty and the city officials will be crippled. They will then be charged by the Davie faction with having conducted their departments in the most unsatisfactory manner known for years. This will be true, but whose fault will it be—not ours, certainly. We cannot do good work without money. The Mayor has the grip on us, it is true, and so long as the veto holds, we must be sacrificed."

HIS BRAIN CAVE WAY.

In a Fit of Sheer Despondency Justus Held Commits Suicide.

Justus Held, a capitalist who lived at 1666 Telegraph avenue, committed suicide yesterday by jumping into the bay near the Seal Rock house.

For a number of years past he has been suffering with pains in his head and his brain had slightly softened. He had threatened suicide several times before and his wife who knew his despondent condition, kept a close watch over him, but he slipped away from her yesterday and she did not hear of him until notified of the finding of the body.

Held came to Oakland thirty years ago and accumulated a snug fortune in the liquor and cigar business at Fifteenth and San Pablo avenue. Some time ago he sold his business and has since been living on the income from his property.

He leaves a widow and a daughter, who is the wife of a Ventura farmer named Sherwood. Held was born in Germany sixty-two years ago.

SAYS HE OWES NOT.

Dr. John Fearn Contests Mrs. Louise Henderson's Claims.

Dr. John Fearn has filed an answer to the suit of Mrs. Louise B. Henderson to recover $1850 on promissory notes she held as a part of the liabilities of the drug store of Henderson & Graham, which was sold to Fearn. He denies that any notes exist. He claims they have been satisfied and that Mrs. Henderson destroyed them as evidence of any debt due her.

Dr. Fearn also denies that he assumed a liability for any of the notes when He came to Oakland thirty years a list of bills owed by Henderson & Graham which he did assume, but Mrs. Henderson's notes were not among them.

She claimed that the notes had been destroyed or lost through carelessness.

POLICE ROUND-UPS.

Mary Smith Again Falls a Victim to the Cup That Inebriates.

Mary Smith, who has so often promised of late to keep away from the flowing bowl, showed up yesterday with a jag as large as the Council fight. She was too sick to come into court this morning and the judge ordered her ball to be fixed at $25 and continued the matter until tomorrow.

George Cavanaugh, a lad arrested for train jumping, promised to refrain from the practice in the future and the court suspended judgment.

C. H. Mitchell, a "biker" paid $2 for not complying with the bicycling ordinance.

Phillip Jansen denied that he disturbed the peace of Mary Burke, and his trial was set for the 12th.

ADJUDGED GUILTY.

The Vendors of Diseased Meat Must Now Pay the Penalty.

F. H. Christen and Mike Gormley were found guilty this morning of bringing into the city unwholesome meats and offering them for sale.

Yesterday they asked that their cases be continued until this morning, claiming that they could produce a witness from San Francisco who would testify that he had bought the meat from them to be used by him as food for his chickens.

Judge Wood granted the request, but the promised witness failed to appear and a further continuance was denied.

TO CARRY THREE LIGHTS.

Cyclists Should Be Like the Ships That Pass in the Night.

Councilman Bassett Introduces Some New Ideas on the Subject.

Councilman Bassett has decided to pose as the bicyclists' friend. He was greatly annoyed by the obedience of the wheelmen to the section of the ordinance recently enforced by Chief Lloyd. Bassett is an ardent wheelman, and in addition to the jar upon his sensitive ears, he also had great objection to the amount of labor involved in ringing a cowbell or blowing a fishhorn. Mr. Bassett said today that he is particularly opposed to the blowing of all kinds of horns, especially since he was elected to the Council and was forced to listen to a good deal of that sort of thing about twice a week.

So after a good deal of thought Mr. Bassett decided to hand in an amendment to the ordinance regulating the behavior of bicyclists. He has not much hope that it will be passed, as he knows that seven Councilmen have no great desire to foster anything he fathers, but he says he intends to show the wheelmen that he is anxious to relieve them of any onerous restrictions, and for this purpose he has framed his amendment. It reads as follows:

"Any person riding a bicycle, tricycle or velocipede through the streets of the city of Oakland shall be required to carry a light in the front of their vehicle."

The old section which Mr. Bassett wants to repeal reads that "the rider of a bicycle, tricycle or velocipede through the streets of Oakland shall, after dark, carry a light on the front part of their wheel, and shall, when approaching a street crossing, ring a bell or sound a horn, loud and continuously." Everybody in Oakland knows that the order is enforced and that every citizen wished the obediegt wheelmen were in the Mojave desert. Mayor Davie, Councilman Bassett, Councilman Manuel and Councilman Dow were among those who blew their horns loud and continuously," and it is as much to protect them as himself that Mr. Bassett introduced his amendment that will be read at the next meeting of the Council.

"It seems to me," said Mr. Bassett this morning, "that the same rules ought to govern wheelmen as govern ships at sea. For instance, a wheelman or wheelwoman shall have a red light to port, a green light to starboard and a white light astern. Then they should be required to show the proper light when meeting anybody on a crossing. For instance, if there is any danger of my striking Manuel on the port bow I will show my red light and if he wilfully runs up against a danger signal he must not blame me. The same rules would apply in all instances. Then again there would be no danger of a rear end collision if the foremost wheelman had a white light lantern. Several other ideas have suggested themselves to me but I shall not use them if they pass the amendment I have introduced. You see I have framed my amendment on the understanding that the ordinary cyclist is endowed with common sense and knows enough not to wilfully kill anybody. If my amendment should be voted down by the solid seven, why it will show plainly that they desire all manner of restrictions to be placed on bicyclists and in that case I shall introduce an ordinance embodying all the nautical ideas to be found in the latest rules of the road for mariners. Everything else is regulated in Oakland, why not show our authority as Councilmen, to the wheelmen."

Chief Lloyd says the policemen shall have the same orders as formerly regarding the enforcement of the ordinance, but that the reason no arrests have been made recently is due to the fact that the ordinance has been generally observed. "I understand that an amendment to the ordinance is in the hands of the Council said the chief today, 'until it becomes a law, I shall continue to see that the old one is obeyed. Now that the novelty of the things has worn off there seems to be nothing objectionable in the ordinance. Occasionally some young fellow tries to attract attention to himself by overdoing the thing, but now that they have had a good deal of fun they must bear in mind that there is such a thing as disturbing the peace."

Mr. Bassett's ordinance will be read for the first time tomorrow night.

THE POLICE COURT.

Lottery Men Anxious to Have Continuances of Their Cases.

The men found guilty of selling lottery tickets do not seem anxious to receive their sentences. This morning C. F. Marsh asked that his case be continued and Judge Wood put it off until the 16th.

F. H. Christen and Mike Gormley had the continuation of their trial for selling tainted meats postponed until tomorrow. At yesterday's trial the lungs of the cows from which the meat was taken were brought into court and Health Officer Mayon testified that they were from an animal suffering from consumption.

J. W. Kershner was found not guilty of disturbing the peace.

L. D. Connor paid $2 for not carrying the required lamp on his bicycle.

Josie Harper pleaded not guilty to selling liquor without a license and her trial was set for October 22nd.

TAKING EVIDENCE.

The Great Merritt Case Is Started in the United States Court.

The Merritt case came up today in the United States Circuit Court before Judge Hawley. There was a brilliant array of attorneys including W. W. Foote, Judge Lawton, J. C. Martin, A. A. Moore, R. Y. Hayne, George Williams, Warren Olney, Arthur Rodgers, H. W. Philbrook, Emil Nusbaumer and George W. Reed.

Mr. Hayne, representing Bowdoin college, outlined the case, telling of the $500,000 left in trust by Mrs. Garcelon and the compromise with the heirs.

Arthur Rodgers spoke on behalf of H. P. Merritt, contending that the property had not been legally conveyed to the trustees.

Mr. Philbrook, for James Merritt, followed in similar strain and said that the purpose of Judge Stanly was to violate the law of California. He claimed that the trust was a fraud upon the law and upon Mrs. Garcelon.

The trial then began with the introduction of documentary exhibits in behalf of Bowdoin college.

His Wife Complained.

D. M. Needham, a motorman on the Telegraph avenue line, was arrested last night by Detective Shorey upon the complaint of Mrs. Needham, charging her husband with battery. The parties live on Twelfth street near Broadway. Needham pleaded not guilty this morning in the police court and asked that his case be tried by a jury.

WAR MAY BE PROCLAIMED.

Turkey Fearful That Great Britain Will Turn Loose.

The Armenian Affair Is Taking on a Very Serious Aspect.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 8., via Sofia, Bulgaria, Oct. 9.—The blockade of the Armenian churches continues.

All the efforts of the authorities and the Armenian patriarch have failed to persuade the Armenians to return to their houses.

In accordance with the demands of the representatives of the powers, the police authorities have commenced releasing the Armenians imprisoned as a result of the recent rioting.

Two unfortunates allowed to leave Sapthie prison were found in a pitiable condition, suffering from seven or eight terrible wounds.

They have made a statement which has been communicated to the representatives of the powers that the prisoners had not received food or medical treatment for three day before the release.

They also claim the prison is horribly overcrowded and in a shocking state of filthiness.

The streets of Constantinople and the suburbs are still patrolled by police and troops.

Ammunition has been sent to the forts, and from other military movements it would seem the Turks are preparing to defend the passage of the Dardanelles should Great Britain attempt a naval demonstration in those waters.

SILVER IS HIGHER.

Much White Metal Is Being Accumulated in London.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—Silver certificates were traded in today at 68¾@69½c, the highest prices of the year. The dealings amounted to $15,000.

The higher figures show an advance of 1¼ per cent over yesterday's transactions.

The lowest price of the year was 60c, on January 10th.

The previous high point was 68¼c, on April 1st.

The present advance of silver bullion both here and in London is due to the accumulation of metal at the last mentioned center, preparatory to another issue of bonds by the Chinese government in settlement of the indemnity to Japan.

For months London has been accumulating silver.

The production in the United States has not materially increased, while that of Mexico has fallen off as usual during the rainy season.

CHARGED WITH BURGLARY.

One Opdyke Arrested and the Other Being Run Down.

The police arrested William Opdyke last night upon suspicion of being implicated in the burglary of the house of Benedict De Lucchi, at 1360 Thirteenth street in which about $800 was taken.

Officer Hamerton has been in San Francisco all day looking for Frank Opdyke, who is also supposed to have been mixed up in the affair. People in the neighborhood of the De Lucchi residence claim that they saw the Opdyke boys and a youth named Grey about the premises on the afternoon the money was taken.

THE CHOLERA DYING OUT.

Two Whites and Sixty-Six Natives Have Died in Honolulu.

It Is Believed That Poisoned Fish Caused the Disease to Start.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 9.—The steamer Australia from Honolulu under date of Oct. 2nd brings the news that in the past fortnight only two cases of cholera have developed.

The record to date is eighty-seven cases.

Of that number sixty-eight died.

Only two whites succumbed to the disease.

The natives made the work of the physicians harder by refusing to report the cholera cases until the victims were dead or dying.

The board of health finally made a house to house visitation and inspection, after which the city was thoroughly cleaned.

Since then there have been only two cases and the danger is considered passing.

The cause of cholera on the islands is attributed to poisoned fish.

The majority of the cases were taken from houses bordering on the stream from which the fish were taken and eaten by natives.

The two whites who died attended a native feast and ate raw fish.

The natives circulated a story that the native cholera patients were buried alive.

Frank Godfrey, a white, the suspected author of the story, was tarred and feathered.

Godfrey appealed to the United States Minister.

Minister Frank Hatch is expected to leave for Washington in November to relieve William R. Castle as Hawaiian minister.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 9.—The Episcopal House of Deputies today amended the report of the committee recommending that the next convention be held in Boston by substituting Atlanta.

The result was brought about by a clever speech by Rev. A. W. Knight in favor of Atlanta.

It is doubtful if the bishops will concur in this selection.

The House of Bishops adopted the recommendation of its committee ordering the division of the missionary jurisdiction of Wyoming and Idaho into two districts, the present bishop to continue in charge of both.

Turbulent Condition of Affairs at the Corean Capital.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

YOKOHAMA, Oct. 9.—A dispatch received today from Seoul, the capital of Corea, announces that order has been restored and the Japanese troops are now guarding the palace.

The cause of this action upon the part of the Japanese commander at Seoul was that the Aai Ron Kin, the King's father and leader of the anti-reform party, entered the palace at the head of an armed force threatening the queen's life.

Although no definite statement on the subject is made, it is believed the Queen is still alive.

MAKING FIRST BID.

Why the Fabiola Ladies Have Announced the May Fete.

The ladies of the Fabiola Hospital Association do not intend to begin immediately to make arrangements for their Mayday fete, as has been mentioned. Their intention, in announcing at this time that they propose to give a festival is to warrant them in laying claim, in a certain manner, to about the same date as they had last year for their entertainment, and thus prevent others from arranging for a display at the same time.

The ladies of San Jose intend to hold a fete in May also, and it is expected, now that the Fabiola ladies are already in the field, those of San Jose will select another date later in the month, and thus prevent the two shows from coming into close competition.

TO CARRY THREE LIGHTS.

Cyclists Should Be Like the Ships That Pass in the Night.

Councilman Bassett Introduces Some New Ideas on the Subject.

Councilman Bassett has decided to pose as the bicyclists' friend. He was greatly annoyed by the obedience of the wheelmen to the section of the ordinance recently enforced by Chief Lloyd. Bassett is an ardent wheelman and in addition to the jar upon his sensitive ears, he also had great objection to the amount of labor involved in ringing a cowbell or blowing a fishhorn. Mr Bassett said today that he is particularly opposed to the blowing of all kinds of horns, especially since he was elected to the Council and was forced to listen to a good deal of that sort of thing about twice a week

So after a good deal of thought Mr. Bassett decided to hand in an amendment to the ordinance regulating the behavior of bicyclists He has not much hope that it will be passed, as he knows that seven Councilmen have no great desire to foster anything he favors, but he says he intends to show the wheelmen that he is anxious to relieve them of any onerous restrictions and for this purpose he has framed his amendment. It reads as follows:

"Any person riding a bicycle, tricycle or velocipede through the streets of the city of Oakland shall be required to carry a light in the front of their vehicle."

The old section which Mr. Bassett wants to repeal reads that 'the rider of a bicycle, tricycle or velocipede through the streets of Oakland shall after dark carry a light on the front part of their wheel, and shall when approaching a street crossing ring a bell or sound a horn, loud and continuously." Everybody in Oakland knows that the order is enforced and that every citizen wished the obedient wheelmen were in the Mojave desert. Mayor Davie, Councilman Bassett, Councilman Manuel and Councilman Dow were among those who blew their horns loud and continuously,' and it is as much to protect them as himself that Mr. Bassett introduced his amendment that will be read at the next meeting of the Council.

"It seems to me" said Mr Bassett this morning, "that the same rules ought to govern wheelmen as govern ships at sea. For instance, a wheelman or wheelwoman shall have a red light to port, a green light to starboard and a white light astern. Then they should be required to show the proper light when meeting anybody on a crossing. For instance if there is any danger of my striking Manuel on the port bow I will show my red light and if he wilfully runs up against a danger signal he must not blame me. The same rules would apply in all instances. Then again there would be no danger of a rear end collision if the foremost wheelman had a white light lantern. Several other ideas have suggested themselves to me but I shall not use them if they pass the amendment I have introduced. You see I have framed my amendment on the understanding that the ordinary cyclist is endowed with common sense and knows enough not to wilfully kill anybody. If my amendment should be voted down by the solid seven, why it will show plainly that they desire all manner of restrictions to be placed on bicyclists and in that case I shall introduce an ordinance embodying all the nautical ideas to be found in the latest rules of the road for mariners Everything else is regulated in Oakland, why not show our authority as Councilmen, to the wheelmen."

Chief Lloyd says the policemen shall have the same orders as formerly regarding the enforcement of the ordinance, but that the reason no arrests have been made recently is due to the fact that the ordinance has been generally observed. "I understand that an amendment to the ordinance is in the hands of the Council said the chief today, 'until it becomes a law, I shall continue to see that the old one is obeyed. Now that the novelty of the things has worn off there seems to be nothing objectionable in the ordinance Occasionally some young fellow tries to attract attention to himself by overdoing the thing, but now that they have had a good deal of fun they must bear in mind that there is such a thing as disturbing the peace."

Mr. Bassett's ordinance will be read for the first time tomorrow night

THE POLICE COURT.

Lottery Men Anxious to Have Continuances of Their Cases.

The men found guilty of selling lottery tickets do not seem anxious to receive their sentences. This morning C. P. Marsh asked that his case be continued and Judge Wood put it off until the 16th.

F. H. Christen and Mike Gormley had the continuation of their trial for selling tainted meats postponed until tomorrow. At yesterday's trial the lungs of the cows from which the meat was taken were brought into court and Health Officer Mayon testified that they were from an animal suffering from consumption.

J. W. Kershner was found not guilty of disturbing the peace

L. D. Connor paid $2 for not carrying the required lamp on his bicycle

Josie Harper pleaded not guilty to selling liquor without a license and her trial was set for October 22nd.

TAKING EVIDENCE.

The Great Merritt Case Is Started in the United States Court.

The Merritt case came up today in the United States Circuit Court before Judge Hawley. There was a brilliant array of attorneys including W. W. Foote, Judge Lawton, J. C. Martin, A. A. Moore, R. Y. Hayne, George Williams, Warren Olney, Arthur Rodgers, H. W. Philbrook, Emil Nusbaumer and George W. Reed.

Mr. Hayne, representing Bowdoin college, outlined the case, telling of the $500,000 left in trust by Mrs. Garcelon and the compromise with the heirs.

Arthur Rodgers spoke on behalf of H. P. Merritt, contending that the property had not been legally conveyed to the trustees.

Mr. Philbrook for James Merritt, followed in similar strain and said that the purpose of Judge Stanly was to violate the law of California. He claimed that the trust was a fraud upon the law and upon Mrs. Garcelon.

The trial then began with the introduction of documentary exhibits in behalf of Bowdoin college.

His Wife Complained.

D. M. Needham, a motorman on the Telegraph avenue line, was arrested last night by Detective Shorey upon the complaint of Mrs. Needham, charging her husband with battery. The parties live on Twelfth street near Broadway. Needham pleaded not guilty this morning in the police court and asked that his case be tried by a jury.

Turkey Fearful That Great Britain Will Turn Loose.

The Armenian Affair Is Taking on a Very Serious Aspect.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 8., via Sofia, Bulgaria, Oct. 9.—The blockade of the Armenian churches continues.

All the efforts of the authorities and the Armenian patriarch have failed to persuade the Armenians to return to their houses.

In accordance with the demands of the representatives of the powers, the police authorities have commenced releasing the Armenians imprisoned as a result of the recent rioting.

Two unfortunates allowed to leave Sapthie prison were found in a pitiable condition, suffering from seven or eight terrible wounds

They have made a statement which has been communicated to the representatives of the powers that the prisoners had not received food or medical treatment for three days before the release

They also claim the prison is horribly overcrowded and in a shocking state of filthiness

The streets of Constantinople and the suburbs are still patrolled by police and troops

Ammunition has been sent to the forts, and from other military movements it would seem the Turks are preparing to defend the passage of the Dardanelles should Great Britain attempt a naval demonstration in these waters

SILVER IS HIGHER.

Much White Metal Is Being Accumulated in London.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

NEW YORK, Oct 9—Silver certificates were traded in today at 68⅝@69⅛c the highest prices of the year. The dealings amounted to $45,000

The higher figures show an advance of 1¼ per cent over yesterday's transactions.

The lowest price of the year was 60c, on January 10th.

The previous high point was 68⅛c, on April 1st

The present advance of silver bullion both here and in London is due to the accumulation of metal at the last mentioned center, preparatory to another issue of bonds by the Chinese government in settlement of the indemnity to Japan.

For months London has been accumulating silver.

The production in the United States has not materially increased, while that of Mexico has fallen off as usual during the rainy season.

CHARGED WITH BURGLARY.

One Opdyke Arrested and the Other Being Run Down.

The police arrested William Opdyke last night upon suspicion of being implicated in the burglary of the house of Benedict De Lucchi, at 1360 Thirteenth street in which about $800 was taken

Officer Hamerton has been in San Francisco all day looking for Frank Opdyke, who is also supposed to have been mixed up in the affair. People in the neighborhood of the De Lucchi residence claim that they saw the Opdyke boys and a youth named Greg about the premises on the afternoon the money was taken.

A USEFUL LIFE ENDED.

Robert Aitken Passes Quietly Away in Amador County.

Word was received here today of the death in Jackson, Amador county, yesterday, of Robert Aitken in the 71st year of his age. The deceased was one of the best known men in that part of the State where he had resided for the past twenty-five years. He was also well known in Oakland where some relatives and members of his family reside. He served the people of Amador county in a faithful manner both as supervisor and school trustee. The deceased has a son in Lick observatory and another in one of the leading pharmacies on Broadway in this city. He was the uncle of Mrs. Henry Sobst of this city

Edgar D Parker has petitioned the Superior Court to issue a citation directing H. B. Muir to show cause why he has not paid over $2500 to Parker as the receipts from the sale of lumber from lands in Mendocino county of which Muir was receiver by appointment of the Superior Court of that county. Parker claims the property under a judgment which he says Muir refuses to recognize.

Hymen in Demand.

Justice Clift was rushed in the marriage department today. This morning C. H. Dutton, aged 33, and Katie Colbes, aged 33; J. M. Dinisen, aged 32, and Mary A. Murphy, aged 21, Henry Herman Herring, aged 38, and Lizzie Eyssen, aged 26, all came from San Francisco to promise in pairs that they would love, honor and obey each other. Hardly had the morning's work been completed when Willie Agee, aged 26, of Berkeley, stood the judge off to make him, the Berkeley boy, and Miss Bessie Campbell, of Oakland, aged 18, one.

The Dog Fighters.

William Kennedy the sport found guilty of attending the dog fight, asked today that passing of sentence on him be continued and Judge Clift set it over until the 16th.

Blake Emmett, who was to be tried today, forfeited his bail of $25.

Upon the request of Mrs. O. M. Sanford the case against John Murphy was dismissed.

THE CHOLERA DYING OUT.

Two Whites and Sixty-Six Natives Have Died in Honolulu.

It Is Believed That Poisoned Fish Caused the Disease to Start.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 9.—The steamer Australia from Honolulu under date of Oct. 2nd brings the news that in the past fortnight only two cases of cholera have developed.

The record to date is eighty-seven cases.

Of that number sixty-eight died.

Only two whites succumbed to the disease.

The natives made the work of the physicians harder by refusing to report the cholera cases until the victims were dead or dying

The board of health finally made a house to house visitation and inspection, after which the city was thoroughly cleared.

Since then there have been only two cases and the danger is considered passing.

The cause of cholera on the Islands is attributed to poisoned fish.

The majority of the cases were taken from houses bordering on the stream from which the fish were taken and eaten by natives

The two whites who died attended a native feast and ate raw fish.

The natives circulated a story that the native cholera patients were buried alive

Frank Godfrey, a white, the suspected author of the story, was tarred and feathered

Godfrey appealed to the United States Minister.

Minister Frank Hatch is expected to leave for Washington in November to relieve William R Castle as Hawaiian minister.

EXPOSED BY THE PRESS.

Pay-Roll Stuffers Are Placed Under Arrest at Buffalo.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Oct 9—Three men have been arrested charged with embezzling large amounts of money from the city by padding the pay rolls of the street bureau with dummy names.

The prisoners are H. D. Hert, cashier of the Department of Public Works, J. M. Danahy, deputy superintendent of streets, and Joseph Burke, formerly inspector of streets, and now a saloon keeper

The warrants were sworn out by the Mayor's private secretary on information laid before him by G. J. Matthews, proprietor of the Express.

THE BISHOPS.

A Clever Speech Results in a Big Victory for Atlanta.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 9.—The Episcopal House of Deputies today amended the report of the committee recommending that the next convention be held in Boston by substituting Atlanta.

The result was brought about by a clever speech by Rev A. W. Knight in favor of Atlanta

It is doubtful if the bishops will concur in this selection.

The House of Bishops adopted the recommendation of its committee ordering the division of the missionary jurisdiction of Wyoming and Idaho into two districts, the present bishop to continue in charge of both.

THREATENED THE QUEEN.

Turbulent Condition of Affairs at the Corean Capital.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

YOKOHAMA, Oct. 9.—A dispatch received today from Seoul, the capital of Corea, announces that order has been restored and the Japanese troops are now guarding the palace

The cause of this action upon the part of the Japanese commander at Seoul was that the Tai Ron Kin, the King's father and leader of the anti-reform party, entered the palace at the head of an armed force threatening the queen's life.

Although no definite statement on the subject is made, it is believed the Queen is still alive.

MAKING FIRST BID.

Why the Fabiola Ladies Have Announced the May Fete.

The ladies of the Fabiola Hospital Association do not intend to begin immediately to make arrangements for their Mayday fete, as has been mentioned. Their intention, in announcing at this time that they propose to give a festival is to warrant them in laying claim, in a certain manner, to about the same date as they had last year for their entertainment, and thus prevent others from arranging for a display at the same time.

The ladies of San Jose intend to hold a fete in May also, and it is expected, now that the Fabiola ladies are already in the field, those of San Jose will select another date later in the month, and thus prevent the two shows from coming into close competition.

WELCOME RELIEF.

Wonderful Effects of a Brief Treatment by Dr. Wulff.

Oakland, September 17, 1895.

To Whom It May Concern: I called on Dr. J. M. Wulff at the Galindo hotel today at 2:30 P. M., suffering from intense pain from rheumatism in my hips, left leg and left foot and hardly able to walk. The doctor explained his treatment and I tried same right then and there and now at 4 o'clock I feel that I am relieved of the pain and I can walk. I am satisfied that by using the electric appliance which the doctor furnishes I will get cured. I have had the rheumatism about four months, have been at the springs and it did me no good. I have taken all kinds of medicine prescribed by physicians but found no relief.

I can be seen at my place of business by anyone who is desirous of knowing about Dr. Wulff's treatment.

Very truly,
M. SPIES,
250 Park avenue, East Oakland.

Dr. J. M. Wulff, treats rheumatism, lumbago, nervous headache, in fact all nervous diseases, without medicine.

Office hours: 10 to 12 A. M., 2 to 4 P. M., 6 to 7 P. M.

Berkeley, Cal., Aug 11, 1895.

J. M. Wulff, Oakland: Dear Sir: I believe that your Endless Chain Battery will work wonders for rheumatism. It is applied immediately to the part affected and it looks to me like a practical and scientific method of applying electricity to the various diseases of the nervous system.

Respectfully yours,
ALBERT FOUCH, M. D.

INTERESTING TO SUFFERERS.

Case of Mr. Henry Schrag, Proprietor Club Stables, Fourteenth and Webster Streets.

OAKLAND, Sept 14th, 1895.

Six years ago I was taken suddenly ill with a lame back and consulted Dr. Mayer, Dr. Simond, Dr. Williams, Dr. Leo Newmark and Dr. J. W. Robertson, all of San Francisco, but their treatment did not benefit me any.

I then went to the Byron Hot Springs, remained there six weeks and still no relief.

After thus having doctored for six long years I tried, as a last resort, an electric chain invented by Dr. J. M. Wulff, and now, after having used the same since August 8th, I feel that I finally found a remedy that has so far done me that much good that I can walk straight again and attend to my business, which I have not been able to do for the last two years, and I have not the slightest doubt that by conscientiously following the doctor's instructions I will ultimately get entirely cured. The relief I have had so far is far beyond what I ever expected.

I know and feel that the doctor has done wonders for me.

Very truly,
HENRY SCHRAG.

Upon the wish of Mr. Henry Schrag we, the undersigned, testify that the above statement is in every respect the true facts.

Dr J. M. Wulff, Pacific Ocean House, Santa Cruz—Dear Sir. Having been afflicted with rheumatism and neuralgia for a number of years, and having consulted physicians as well as spent money for so-called rheumatic cures without deriving any benefit, I still being a sufferer, read your advertisement in the daily papers, and with a great deal of hesitancy called on you, expecting to be very well satisfied that there was nothing in your rheumatic cure; but it came otherwise. You persuaded me to give your cure a trial, and now, after having used the same but three days, I wish to say to you that my rheumatism has very nearly disappeared, and my neuralgia is on the way of leaving me.

I feel easier in every respect than I have for years, and I am satisfied that your cure is the only one that can in so short a space of time prove its merits; and I predict for you a great future with your Rheumatic Cure. I am thankful for the good I have derived from same so far, and am perfectly satisfied that by following your instructions and using your appliance conscientiously, I will within a very short time be entirely cured of those dreadful afflictions. I wish you all possible success, and am yours,

Very respectfully,
MRS. S. L. BOWMAN.

Loma Alta, Cal., April 30, 1895.

Pacific Ocean House, Santa Cruz—Dear Sir: I followed your instructions last night and slept soundly from 10 to 3—the best night by far that I have had—and got up feeling stronger than I have before; so well, in fact, that I thought if I continued to improve I should be able to come to town, as you suggested I should. But I have not felt as well this afternoon. I think it is partly the weather and partly because I had the chain around my waist and hip this morning, and it seemed to send the pain from there to my lower leg. I have the chain around my leg (whole length, as you put it) now, and feel easier; have but little pain, but don't think it wise to go out. Feel certain, though, that there is virtue in the battery. I will write to you again, and will get into town as soon as I can.

Hopefully,
HUMPHREY B. PILKINGTON.

A Dream!

She passed me by, I knew not then the cause,
Her looks gave certainly no time to pause,
I watched her, only this and nothing more;
She entered Lehnhardt's Famous Candy Store.

IT WARPS THE FINGERS.

A Rheumatic Disease That Especially Hits at Women.

It Is Accompanied by Great Pain and Remedies Are Scarce.

The relation between the various parts of the human body has been very often compared with the arrangement of a complex piece of machinery. A most striking likeness between the two is found in the manner in which the joints are constructed, if the word "constructed" may be used with regard to the body. A machine depends for its efficiency upon the ease with which the different parts play upon one another. The greatest enemy to a smoothly running engine is friction. Some persons have gone so far as to say that, were it not for friction, the problem of perpetual motion would cause them no trouble.

In order to overcome the resistance offered by friction in machinery, the joints are kept well oiled. The constant rubbing of one part on another generates heat, and this heat consumes the oil. If the oil is allowed to give out, the parts will begin to rasp and grow stiff, and the ultimate result will be a clogging, or immovability, of the joint.

The joints of the human body, like those of a machine, are provided with a lubricating substance, which performs the same office as the oil. This substance is called synovial fluid, from two Greek words meaning "with" and "eggs," and the name has been adopted from a supposed resemblance to the white of an egg. It consists of water, holding in solution mucin, albumen, fat and inorganic salts. Mucin or mucine, is the chief component of mucus, which lines the bronchial tubes and becomes disagreeably prominent when you get a bad cold. Albumen is a very peculiar substance, found everywhere in nature. It is especially abundant in blood, muscles and bones. It exists in its purest form in the white of an egg. Fat consists of two similar substances, olein and stearine, the former constituting the oily and the latter the solid part. Inorganic salts are substances which do not decay after death.

All of these parts, when dissolved in the water which is present in the joint, make a very fine oil. Without this synovia, or human lubricating oil, all the joints of the body would be stiff. How much we owe to it may be realized if you think for a moment of the large number of joints in the human frame and how often they are put to use. If you wiggle a toe, move a finger, turn your head, close your jaw or perform any one of a dozen similar acts, you are calling into play this oggy substance, which learned men are pleased to term "synovia."

If, now, this oil should give out or become diseased or refuse to perform its function, the result will be the same as in the case of a machine which has been neglected. The joint will become sore and stiff and finally will refuse to act. But in addition to this, the disease which has already dried up the oil will often cause the adjacent bones to become distorted, deformed and swollen. The patient suffers great pain and in many cases it is impossible to afford relief.

The accompanying diagrams are not what might be called beautiful or pleasant, but they are interesting and instructive. They show very well the fearful havoc that can be wrought by this malady, and how the hand, which is naturally beautiful, may be distorted as to become hideous.

Figure 1, on the left, shows the right hand of a girl 16 years of age, five years after she had been attacked by the disease known as rheumatoid arthritis, which, in all of its manifestations, is very much like plain, every day rheumatism, though the physicians declare that it is different.

On the right hand of figure No. 1 are two fingers of the same patient, one showing a side view of the first finger of the left hand, and the other a back view of the third finger of the right hand.

In figure No. 2, on the left, is represented the left hand of a young woman 25 years of age, two years after the disease had made its appearance. The original size of the fingers may be determined from an examination of the tips, which have not suffered an outthat the wrist is badly swollen.

On the right of the same picture is the right hand of a woman 49 years of age, three years after the attack of arthritis. The wrist is much affected and the hand perfectly immovable in the position in which you see it.

In figure No. 3 there is represented what the doctors call terminal phalanges, but which here, for the sake of clearness, will be called finger tips. The first two sets illustrate the progress of the disease in a woman between the ages of 35 and 50. At the bottom there are shown two fingers of a woman 65 years old. It will be noted that the extreme segment of one finger turns abruptly to the right, while in another pair of fingers in this figure the extreme segments turn in the other direction. There is apparently no law to govern the ramification of the segments after the joints have become affected by the disease.

In figure No. 4 there are shown two fingers on the hand of a woman 60 years of age who was suffering from gout. On the right are two fingers of another woman about 60 years of age, showing a sort of double swelling of the joint just above the finger nail. This is common in rheumatoid arthritis.

One of the striking features of this disease is that it often attacks a victim without apparent cause. Young and old, weak and strong, are all subject to its ravages, and, more remarkable still, it does not seem to be hereditary. Physicians who have made the subject a specialty have found that women are especially susceptible to it. Out of 65 cases that came to the attention of one physician, 18 were men and 47 women. In 32 of these there was a "family history" of diseases of the joints—namely, gout, 9; rheumatoid arthritis, 6; rheumatic fever, 5, and rheumatism, 12.

It has been suggested that the reason the disease attacks women especially is that the female constitution is naturally more delicate and nervous, two conditins which make it unusually

WELCOME RELIEF.

Wonderful Effects of a Brief Treatment by Dr. Wulff.

Oakland, September 17, 1895.

To Whom It May Concern: I called on Dr. J. M. Wulff at the Galindo hotel today at 2:30 P. M., suffering from intense pain from rheumatism in my hips, left leg and left foot and hardly able to walk. The doctor explained his treatment and I tried same right then and there and now at 4 o'clock I feel that I am relieved of the pain and I can walk. I am satisfied that by using the electric appliance which the doctor furnishes I will get cured. I have had the rheumatism about four months, have been at the springs and it did me no good. I have taken all kinds of medicine prescribed by physicians but found no relief.

I can be seen at my place of business by anyone who is desirous of knowing about Dr. Wulff's treatment.

Very truly,
M. SPIES,
250 Park avenue, East Oakland.

Dr. J. M. Wulff, treats rheumatism, lumbago, nervous headache, in fact all nervous diseases, without medicine.

Offices Galindo Hotel, Oakland.

Office hours: 10 to 12 A. M., 2 to 4 P. M., 6 to 7 P. M.

Berkeley, Cal., Aug. 11, 1895.

J. M. Wulff, Oakland: Dear Sir: I believe that your Endless Chain Battery will work wonders for rheumatism. It is applied immediately to the part affected and it looks to me like a practical and scientific method of applying electricity to the various diseases of the nervous system.

Respectfully yours,
ALBERT FOUCH, M. D.

INTERESTING TO SUFFERERS.

Case of Mr. Henry Schrag, Proprietor Club Stables, Fourteenth and Webster Streets.

OAKLAND, Sept. 14th, 1895.

Six years ago I was taken suddenly ill with a lame back and consulted Dr. Mayer, Dr. Simond, Dr. Williams, Dr. Leo Newmark and Dr. J. W. Robertson, all of San Francisco, but their treatment did not benefit me any.

I then went to the Byron Hot Springs, remained there six weeks and still no relief.

After thus having doctored for six long years I tried, as a last resort, an electric chain invented by Dr. J. M. Wulff, and now, after having used the same since August 8th, I feel that I finally found a remedy that has so far done me that much good that I can walk straight again and attend to my business, which I have not been able to do for the last two years, and I have not the slightest doubt that by conscientiously following the doctor's instructions I will ultimately get entirely cured. The relief I have had so far is far beyond what I ever expected.

I know and feel that the doctor has done wonders for me.

Very truly,
HENRY SCHRAG.

Upon the wish of Mr. Henry Schrag we, the undersigned, testify that the above statement is in every respect the true facts.

J. M. TORREY,

Dr. J. M. Wulff, Pacific Ocean House, Santa Cruz—Dear Sir: Having been afflicted with rheumatism and neuralgia for a number of years, and having consulted physicians as well as spent money for so-called rheumatic cures without deriving any benefit, I still being a sufferer, read your advertisement in the daily papers, and with a great deal of hesitancy called on you, expecting to leave you satisfied that there was nothing in your rheumatic cure; but it came otherwise. You persuaded me to give your cure a trial, and now, after having used the same but three days, I wish to say to you that my rheumatism has very nearly disappeared, and my neuralgia is on the way of leaving me.

I feel easier in every respect than I have for years, and I am satisfied that your cure is the only one that can in so short a space of time prove its merits; and I predict for you a great future with your Rheumatic Cure. I am thankful for the good I have derived from same so far, and am perfectly satisfied that by following your instructions and using your appliance conscientiously, I will within a very short time be entirely cured of these dreadful afflictions. I wish you all possible success, and am yours,

Very respectfully,
MRS. S. L. BOWMAN.

Loma Alta, Cal., April 30, 1895.

Pacific Ocean House, Santa Cruz—Dear Sir: I followed your instructions last night and slept soundly from 10 to 3—the best night by far that I have had—and got up feeling stronger than I have before; so well, in fact, that I thought if I continued to improve I should be able to come to town, as you suggested I should. But I have not felt as well this afternoon. I think it is partly the weather and partly because I had the chain around my waist and hip this morning, and it seemed to send the pain from there to my lower leg. I have the chain around my leg (whole length, as you put it) now, and feel easier; have but little pain, but don't think it wise to go out. Feel certain, though, that there is virtue in the battery. I will write to you again, and will get into town as soon as I can,

Hopefully,
HUMPHREY B. PILKINGTON,

A Dream!

She passed me by, I knew not then the cause,
Her looks gave certainly no time to pause,
I watched her, only this and nothing more;
She entered Lehnhardt's Famous Candy Store.

A Rheumatic Disease That Especially Hits at Women.

It Is Accompanied by Great Pain and Remedies Are Scarce.

The relation between the various parts of the human body has been very often compared with the arrangement of a complex piece of machinery. A most striking likeness between the two is found in the manner in which the joints are constructed. If the word "constructed" may be used with regard to the body. A machine depends for its efficiency upon the ease with which the different parts play upon one another. The greatest enemy to a smoothly running engine is friction. Some persons have gone so far as to say that, were it not for friction, the problem of perpetual motion would cause them no trouble.

In order to overcome the resistance offered by friction in machinery, the joints are kept well oiled. The constant rubbing of one part on another generates heat, and this heat consumes the oil. If the oil is allowed to give out, the parts will begin to rasp and grow stiff, and the ultimate result will be a clogging, or inaction, of the joint.

The joints of the human body, like those of a machine, are provided with a lubricating substance, which performs the same office as the oil. This substance is called synovial fluid, from two Greek words meaning "with", and "eggs," and the name has been adopted from a supposed resemblance to the white of an egg. It consists of water, holding in solution mucin, albumen, fat and inorganic salts. Mucin or mucine, is the chief component of mucus, which lines the bronchial tubes and becomes disagreeably prominent when you get a bad cold. Albumen is a very peculiar substance, found everywhere in nature. It is especially abundant in blood, muscles and bones. It exists in its purest form in the white of an egg. Fat consists of two similar substances, olein and stearine, the former constituting the oily and the latter the solid part. Inorganic salts are substances which do not decay after death.

All of these parts, when dissolved in the water which is present in the joint, make a very fine oil. Without this synovia, or human lubricating oil, all the joints of the body would be stiff. How much we owe to it may be realized if you think for a moment of the large number of joints in the human frame and how often they are put to use. If you wiggle a toe, move a finger, turn your head, close your jaw or perform any one of a dozen similar acts, you are calling into play this oily substance, which learned men are pleased to term "synovia."

If, now, this oil should give out or become diseased or refuse to perform its function, the result will be the same as in the case of a machine which has been neglected. The joint will become sore and stiff and finally will refuse to act. But in addition to this, the disease which has already dried up the oil will often cause the adjacent bones to become distorted, deformed and swollen. The patient suffers great pain and in many cases it is impossible to afford relief.

The accompanying diagrams are not what might be called beautiful or pleasant, but they are interesting and instructive. They show very well the fearful havoc that can be wrought by this malady, and how the hand, which is naturally beautiful, may be distorted as to become hideous.

Figure 1, on the left, shows the right hand of a girl 16 years of age, five years after she had been attacked by the disease known as rheumatoid arthritis, which, in all of its manifestations, is very much like plain, every day rheumatism, though the physicians declare that it is different.

On the right hand of figure No. 1 are two fingers of the same patient, one showing a side view of the first finger of the left hand, and the other a back view of the third finger of the right hand.

In figure No. 2, on the left, is represented the left hand of a young woman 25 years of age, two years after the disease had made its appearance. The original size of the fingers may be determined from an examination of the tips, which have not suffered an enthat the wrist is badly swollen.

On the right of the same picture is the right hand of a woman 49 years of age, three years after the attack of arthritis. The wrist is much affected and the hand perfectly immovable in the position in which you see it.

In figure No. 2 there is represented what the doctors call terminal phalanges, but which here, for the sake of clearness, will be called finger tips. The first two sets illustrate the progress of the disease in a woman between the ages of 55 and 59. At the bottom there are shown two fingers of a woman 65 years od. It will be noted that the extreme segment of one finger turns abruptly to the right, while in another pair of fingers in this figure the extreme segments turn in the other direction. There si apparently no law to govern the ramification of the segments after the joints have become affected by the disease.

In figure No. 4 there are shown two fingers on the hand of a woman 60 years of age who was suffering from gout. On the right are two fingers of an other woman about 60 years of age, showing a sort of double swelling of the part just above the finger nail. This is common in rheumatoid arthritis.

One of the striking features of this disease is that it often attacks a victim without apparent cause. Young and old, weak and strong, are all subject to its ravages, and, more remarkable still, it does not seem to be hereditary. Physicians who have made the subject a specialty have found that women are especially susceptible to it. Out of 65 cases that came to the attention of one physician, 18 were men and 47 women. In 33 of these there was a "family history" of diseases of the joints—namely, gout, 9; rheumatoid arthritis, 6; rheumatic fever, 5, and rheumatism, 13.

It has been suggested that the reason the disease attacks women especially is that the female constitution is naturally more delicate and nervous, two conditins which make it unusually

THURSDAY.....OCTOBER 10, 1895

Governor Renfrew, of Oklahoma in his report to the Secretary of the Interior, makes a good showing for that territory. He says that there are about 275,000 people now living in Oklahoma who are distinctively American, thrifty, industrious and enterprising, peaceful and law-abiding. The desperado who occupies so much of the attention of the press, the Governor says, is as much of a curiosity to the Oklahoman as to his Eastern neighbor. The taxable property of the territory is about $39,275,189, an increase of about $20,000,000 during the year. The banking capital is $546,000. The school population is 77,770. There is already a university, normal school and agricultural college.

Mrs. Langtry has made a formal demand on the Union Bank of London for the sum of $200,000, the value of her jewels which she deposited with the bank and which were taken out on a forged order. As the bank was not a bailee for hire and was therefore not obliged to use more than ordinary precaution, can Mrs. Langtry enforce her claim in the courts? But no matter. She will get two hundred thousand dollars' worth of advertising and that will make the account good. Indeed, it is a fair inference that she would prefer that much advertising to all her lost jewels. The loss and the divorce case will keep the woman before the world for some time. There are some jewels, once lost, that are never recovered.

Increase of Nourasthenia.

An Eastern physician who is recognized as a good authority in nervous disease, affirms that neurasthenia in its various forms is rapidly increasing in this country, and especially in cities, and if it is not prevented there will be a great increase of insane hospitals. "The demand for hypnotics is increasing, we are giving more medicines intended to affect the nervous system, and a large trade is done in the wines of cocoa and kola, and the preparations of phosphorus. Many use alcohol to keep up on, and naturally when this fictitious strength is gone they collapse. City women have nervous exhaustion and physical exhaustion because they overdo in the matter of entertaining and being entertained; because they, like their husbands, are expending nervous energy to excess and 'not giving the' nervous system rest and the muscular system exercise."

This medical authority approves of bicycling, calisthenics and gymnastics as good medicine for the nerves. The tendency to outdoor life is becoming stronger every year. The gymnasium is now an appurtenance of every well conducted school. Walking, so much in vogue in England, is finding more favor in this country with young women. The story about an increase of nervous diseases in this country is subject to constant renewal. Neurasthenia is as old as humanity. It probably began with Eve when she went out of Eden, and her daughters ever since have been more or less afflicted in that way. It is one of the most convenient complaints in the world, because, like charity, it can be made to cover a multitude of sins.

Restoration of Old Wayside Inns.

The Baltimore Sun notes that among other changes brought about by the bicycle is the restoration of the wayside inn, which disappeared from this country and England with the stage coaches. "In England it is said that this has already taken place. A newspaper correspondent writes that on the splendid road from Stratford to Coventry, which is an ideal road for cycling, the wayside inns appeal for the patronage of the wheelmen by signs offering them special accommodations. Women, he says, appear on wheels on this road almost as frequently as men, but seldom in the French masquerade of divided skirts or breeches." He adds that a great many American tourists make their holiday journeys through England on wheels, avoiding railway expenses and ambitious hotels, and lodging comfortably at the village inns. This not only saves expense, but gives the tourist an opportunity to learn something about the country and the people, which is impossible when he rushes through on express trains and lives at the great hotels, where most of the people he sees are foreigners like himself."

The stage coach in all the older States maintained the village inn at every considerable place. It was a good country tavern where the wayfarer had the best at moderate prices. If he wanted to stay a week or fortnight he found a most comfortable home. These wayside inns seem to have been better maintained in England than in this country. The bicycle lays a good foundation for the support of the wayside inn by securing good roads. These will increase travel, and that will increase the custom of these inns, so that it is probable many of them will be quite equal to those of half a century ago. The good road and the good inn will have a powerful influence in drawing people to the country and for the increase of rural tastes.

Falsehoods About Hawaii.

Whenever some renegade who has been forced to leave Hawaii can get a hearing in the newspapers he makes short work with that little Republic. The latest story comes from Chicago, and of course finds a place in the Call, as do all stories which are hostile to the present administration of Hawaii. These stories were formerly concocted in San Francisco and were always traced to some one who had been forced to quit the Islands. But one of these stories now will hardly buy a glass of whisky. They are still held to be good enough to telegraph over the country.

As to the Japanese in Hawaii, they have made no disturbance, and there is no prospect that they will make any. They went there as laborers, and as long as they can find anything to do they will probably work there peacefully. The sugar planters have been constantly importing foreign laborers. They began with the Chinese. When these had filled their contracts they refused to labor any longer on the plantations, because they could do better elsewhere. The Japanese have adopted to some extent a similar policy. They will work for themselves whenever they get an opportunity. The natives are no longer the source from which laborers can be drawn to any extent. Some of these foreign laborers occasionally indulge in turbulent talk, and there the affair would end if its importance were not magnified by renegades at a distance.

Then there is the old story set afloat again that public revenue is failing because taxes cannot be collected. But the Dole government is not distressed for money. Its financial credit has been good at all times, taxes are paid without any serious default. For a government that has been lied about as much as Hawaii by refugees and royalists, it seems to have wonderful vitality. This staying power of course disappoints all its enemies.

Good and Bad Architecture.

Dr. Cole has done a good work in securing lots for the affiliated colleges in San Francisco and is doing another good work in securing free building granite in Folsom. More is the pity, therefore, that he should advocate a public building fashioned after the State House at Sacramento. That is a tame copy of something like a hundred public buildings that have been erected in the United States. It is the conventional plan which has been used until it is now a back number.

There is probably not a good architect in the State who would recommend the State House as a model for an educational building. Nor is it likely that if another capitol building were to be erected at Sacramento it would be at all like the present one. Classical architecture never tolerated a bulbous dome, that excrescence that is stuck on the roof of so many court houses in this State, and which so often delights the heart of the rural politician. It is the dome and the pillars that make the show, and in modern buildings are a sham.

If a dozen of the best architects in San Francisco were asked to produce the exteriors on paper of what they considered appropriate, it is not probable that one of them would have so much as a suggestion of the exterior of the capitol building. However suitable it may be for the public uses to which it is devoted, it is wholly unsuitable for the exterior of any edifice devoted to public or private education. It would be a great pity if a monstrosity of a public edifice were erected for the affiliated colleges. If that is attempted some long arm should reach out and rake in the plans for a bonfire.

"Paper the House."

Some years ago when a question was raised whether a certain performance would draw an audience in this city, the chief promoter said, "Well, we will paper the house," meaning, of course, that enough free tickets could be sent out to secure an audience. It is an old dodge and it serves for many a sharp turn even now.

There have been a number of "promoters" in the field to make paper railroads go. The man from Chicago dropped down here, looked over the field, and wanted to build a railroad from Oakland to Stockton. He could paper the road, and that was all. If citizens here would lay down a quarter of a million he would proceed to business. Now there had just been a circus in this city, or two of them, which took away about $10,000. Since that time citizens have not been able to raise an equal amount for the Wilmerding school. If another circus would come along and donate the proceeds we might get the school.

Then another man came along who had a magnificent scheme. He had papered a railroad through Montana, Southern Oregon and Northern California right down to Oakland. There would be millions in it. It finally dawned upon the minds of sundry citizens that this was only a modified form of the old dodge of "papering the house." These paper railroads never materialize. When the next man comes along there will be no use for his paper scheme and no necessity for two or three columns of misleading stuff in the newspapers by way of giving his device a good send-off.

That is a singular incident involving the death of Elliot A. Rogers, instructor of chemistry at Harvard University. He had dismissed his class and had turned towards an adjoining room.

"A glass beaker containing some chemical was in his hand, and in the other was a piece of paper, on which, as subsequently appeared, was written: 'It is as it should be.' Before the members of the class had all passed through the door Instructor Rogers uttered a groan and sank to the floor. His students rushed to his side and found him dead.

"The tragedy is a dense mystery. None of the students knew what chemical was in the glass beaker that he held in his hand when he closed the lecture. Nobody knows the significance of the words on the piece of paper which he held in the other hand. His friends scout the idea of suicide, and assert that the vapor arising from the unknown chemical must have affected his heart."

Prof. Rogers had been experimenting with cyanide of potassium and other chemicals. The theory is that the fumes of these affected the action of the heart and caused instant death. The other theory is that he used the most potent purposely for suicide

The cost of college education for women at several of the leading institutions exclusively for the education of the sex is here collated:

At Vassar the charge for tuition in all regular studies, board and washing of a dozen pieces a week is $460 a year. If a student is ill and visits the resident physician the charge is twenty-five cents a visit. When the physician pays the visit the charge is 50 cents. When a student is confined to the infirmary the charge is $1.50 a day for medical attendance, medicine, nurse's services and the carrying of meals to the room. Text books, stationery and the like are extra.

At Smith College the charges to those who live in the college houses are about the same as at Vassar. Four hundred dollars pays for board, lodging and tuition. The student brings her own towels and pays for the materials used in the laboratories. Those who desire, however, may obtain board in private families in Northampton at prices varying from $4 to $9 a week. A student may, therefore, obtain board for a term of thirty-six weeks at about $150. There are also a few scholarships to assist promising pupils.

At Bryn Mawr the charges vary with the accommodations. A student may obtain board, lodging and tuition for $375 or she may spend $600. No supplies are brought from home and the students do not take care of their own rooms.

Radcliffe charges the highest tuition fee. Its students pay $200 a year for regular instruction in addition to special laboratory fees. They board in Cambridge and may spend much or little, as their purses and tastes dictate. There are four scholarships and two prizes offered.

At the Baltimore Woman's College the charges for students who do not board at the college are $125 a year for tuition, and this includes all fees. Those who live in the college pay $375 for tuition, board, laundry work and the services of a professional nurse. At Wellesley the charges are about the same.

At Mills College the charges are about the same as at Wellesley. The curriculum for the college is about that of the Eastern institutions. There are a number of scholarships, but these are confined to the seminary course.

These are the good things that the Emperor of Russia will do if his life is not cut short by the nihilists. He will complete the great trans-Siberian railroad from his capital to the Pacific, a distance of not less than 6000 miles. He will connect the Black Sea with the Baltic by a ship canal about 1000 miles long. He has already officially promulgated the plan of this great work.

Its point of departure is to be at Riga, and its course, so far as possible, that of the Dwina, the Beresina and the Drieper, terminating at Kherson. Its minimum depth is to be 30 feet, its bottom width 100 feet, with a surface breadth of twice as much, while its length is estimated at 1,000 miles. The work will take, it is asserted, five years to complete, and will entail a cost of 200,000,000 rubles. The canal will be furnished with electric lights and at the regulation rate of seven miles an hour day and night, about six days will be required to traverse it. The main object of this gigantic waterway is strategic; the next object is commercial. It will enable the Russian wheat dealers to send their grain to the European markets at much less than the present cost of transporation, and will further increase competition with this country in the wheat markets of Europe.

NOTES AND EXCERPTS.

The New York newspapers take pains to announce to the public that Miss Vanderbilt has given to her fiance, the Duke of Marlborough, a locket with a "tender sentiment" inscribed therein. A full description of the locket is given, and even the "tender sentiment" is quoted as follows: "Accept thou this, my heart, with all my love, though this be small." Evidently the Marlborough-Vanderbilt betrothal is destined to furnish us poor, unenlightened Americans many object lessons as to how those things are done among the smart English set. A commonplace American would think twice before announcing to the public through the medium of the newspapers the love sentiment inscribed on his sweetheart's gift. If we wish to be English we must change our ideas of chivalry.—Exchange.

The most extravagant instance of literary relic worship on record is said to be that of a well known Englishmar who constantly wears, in a small locket attached to a chain around the neck, a portion of the charred skull of Shelley.

It is not generally known that the late match between the Duke of Marlborough and Miss Consuelo Vanderbilt was brought about in a great measure by the former Duchess of Marlborough, now Lady William Beresford. The stepmother took a great fancy to the boy, and when it was a question whether he would be able to get through Cambridge and go to Trinity, it was the then Duchess who advanced the money necessary for him to do it in a way consistent with his position. It was the Duchess, also, who brought the young people together on many occasions. As the late Duke carried very heavy life insurance policies, which he turned over to the Duchess, she has been fully indemnified for the heavy outlay she made upon Blenheim, but the young Duke has never forgotten her kindness, nor has Mrs. Vanderbilt ceased to regard her with the warmest affection.—Philadelphia Times.

Mrs. Diaz will represent her husband personally at the Atlanta Exposition, as the Mexican law forbids the President leaving that country during his term of office.

Two illustrious women who celebrate this year the 75th anniversary of their birth are Florence Nightingale and Jean Ingelow.

It is rather shocking to learn that John Burroughs, the naturalist, who is a great lover of birds, finds himself compelled to shoot orioles that invade his vineyard near Kingston-on-the Hudson. A small crop of orioles, he says, will destroy a ton of grapes.

The vegetarian restaurant which was started in New York last winter and for a few months attracted considerable attention, has been closed, the patronage not being sufficient to pay expenses, says the New York Sun. It made very few converts to vegetarianism, though for a time there were many promising recruits. The novelty of the thing usually wore off in a few days, and the new disciple returned to his fleshly diet with an appetite whetted by his short abstinence. The regular customers of the place were noticeable for their sallow complexions, and most of them had the appearance of being poorly nourished. They could hardly be expected to make converts to their mode of living by posing as living examples of the effect of a diet which excluded all forms of animal food.

A very pregnant piece of news is to the effect that President Faure of France will be escorted to Copenhagen in the spring by a French squadron. He will visit the King and Queen of Denmark and will then go to St. Petersburg. He will attend the coronation ceremonies of Czar Nicholas II at Moscow, returning by sea to France and visiting the Swedish and Dutch sovereigns en route. While in Russia he will be lodged in the Czar's palaces.

ADVERTISEMENTS.

A CHALLENGE

To the Contra Costa Water Company, Oakland:

Some time ago I had occasion to make a microscopical analysis of the water furnished to the city of Oakland by your company, coming from Lakes Temescal and Chabot.

At your instance I am informed this analysis has been questioned and my reputation placed in a doubtful position.

In order that I may prove to your satisfaction and to that of the general public of the city of Oakland, the absolute correctness of my conclusions that the water supplied by your compauy IS UNFIT FOR HUMAN CONSUMPTION, I now make the following proposition:

I will meet any expert appointed by you and proceed to Lakes Temescal and Chabot, where we will procure samples of water from each lake, under the usual precautions taken relative to any analysis under dispute. Having obtained the samples, we will proceed to some proper place in the city of Oakland, fitted up as a laboratory, to be selected by your expert and myself--your expert to provide the necessary material for his investigation, and I will do likewise; both investigations to be conducted simulataneously and in the presence of each other. And daily upon leaving the operating room we will seal it up with the dual seals of the experts and place a watchman in charge, that there may be no opportunity for fraud or chicanery by anybody.

The exponse of these investigations to be mutual, each side to pay their own expert, and any extra expenses to be divided. I will undertake to establish without cavil the absolute correctness of my previous analysis of the waters from Lakes Temescal and Chabot, whereby it was proven without the reason of any doubt to unbiased people that SAID WATERS FROM LAKES TEMESCAL AND CHABOT ARE ABSOLUTELY UNWHOLESOME, UNHEALTHY AND UNFIT FOR HUMAN CONSUMPTION.

In event of your refusing to accept or consider this challenge I shall make a proposition to the authorities of Oakland to name a committee, that I may establish to it the correctness of my previous conclusions regarding the unfitness for human consumption of the water which comes from either Lake Temescal or Chabot.

Respectfully,
THOMAS BOWHILL,

THURSDAY.....OCTOBER 10, 1895

Governor Renfrew, of Oklahoma in his report to the Secretary of the Interior, makes a good showing for that territory. He says that there are about 275,000 people now living in Oklahoma who are distinctively American, thrifty, industrious and enterprising, peaceful and law-abiding. The desperado who occupies so much of the attention of the press, the Governor says, is as much of a curiosity to the Oklahoman as to his Eastern neighbor. The taxable property of the territory is about $39,275,189, an increase of about $20,000,000 during the year. The banking capital is $516,000. The school population is 77,770. There is already a university, normal school and agricultural college.

Mrs. Langtry has made a formal demand on the Union Bank of London for the sum of $200,000, the value of her jewels which she deposited with the bank and which were taken out on a forged order. As the bank was not a bailee for hire and was therefore not obliged to use more than ordinary precaution, can Mrs. Langtry enforce her claim in the courts? But no matter. She will get two hundred thousand dollars' worth of advertising and that will make the account good. Indeed, it is a fair inference that she would prefer that much advertising to all her lost jewels. The loss and the divorce case will keep the woman before the world for some time. There are some jewels, once lost, that are never recovered.

Increase of Nourasthenia.

An Eastern physician who is recognized as a good authority in nervous disease, affirms that neurasthenia in its various forms is rapidly increasing in this country, and especially in cities, and if it is not prevented there will be a great increase of insane hospitals. "The demand for hypnotics is increasing, we are giving more medicines intended to affect the nervous system, and a large trade is done in the wines of cocoa and kola, and the preparations of phosphorus. Many use alcohol to keep up on, and naturally when this fictitious strength is gone they collapse. City women have nervous exhaustion and physical exhaustion because they overdo in the matter of entertaining and being entertained; because they, like their husbands, are expending nervous energy to excess and not giving the nervous system rest and the muscular system exercise."

This medical authority approves of bicycling, calisthenics and gymnastics as good medicine for the nerves. The tendency to outdoor life is becoming stronger every year. The gymnasium is now an appurtenance of every well conducted school. Walking, so much in vogue in England, is finding more favor in this country with young women. The story about an increase of nervous diseases in this country is subject to constant renewal. Neurasthenia is as old as humanity. It probably began with Eve when she went out of Eden, and her daughters ever since have been more or less afflicted in that way. It is one of the most convenient complaints in the world, because, like charity, it can be made to cover a multitude of sins.

Restoration of Old Wayside Inns.

The Baltimore Sun notes that among other changes brought about by the bicycle is the restoration of the wayside inn, which disappeared from this country and England with the stage coaches. "In England it is said that this has already taken place. A newspaper correspondent writes that on the splendid road from Stratford to Coventry, which is an ideal road for cycling, the wayside inns appeal for the patronage of the wheelmen by signs offering them special accommodations. Women, he says, appear on wheels on this road almost as frequently as men, but seldom in the French masquerade of divided skirts or breeches." He adds that a great many American tourists make their holiday journeys through England on wheels, avoiding railway expenses and ambitious hotels, and lodging comfortably at the village inns. This not only saves expense, but gives the tourist an opportunity to learn something about the country and the people, which is impossible when he rushes through on express trains and lives at the great hotels, where most of the people he sees are foreigners like himself."

The stage coach in all the older States maintained the village inn at every considerable place. It was a good country tavern where the wayfarer had the best at moderate prices. If he wanted to stay a week or fortnight he found a most comfortable home. These wayside inns seem to have been better maintained in England than in this country. The bicycle lays a good foundation for the support of the wayside inn by securing good roads. These will increase travel, and that will increase the custom of these inns, so that it is probable many of them will be quite equal to those of half a century ago. The good road and the good inn will have a powerful influence in drawing people to the country and for the increase of rural tastes.

Falsehoods About Hawaii.

Whenever some renegade who has been forced to leave Hawaii can get a hearing in the newspapers he makes short work with that little Republic. The latest story comes from Chicago, and of course finds a place in the Call, as do all stories which are hostile to the present administration of Hawaii. These stories were formerly concocted in San Francisco and were always traced to some one who had been forced to quit the islands. But one of these stories now will hardly buy a glass of whisky. They are still held to be good enough to telegraph over the country.

As to the Japanese in Hawaii, they have made no disturbance, and there is no prospect that they will make any. They went there as laborers, and as long as they can find anything to do they will probably work there peacefully. The sugar planters have been constantly importing foreign laborers. They began with the Chinese. When these had filled their contracts they refused to labor any longer on the plantations, because they could do better elsewhere. The Japanese have adopted to some extent a similar policy. They will work for themselves whenever they get an opportunity. The natives are no longer the source from which laborers can be drawn to any extent. Some of these foreign laborers occasionally indulge in turbulent talk, and there the affair would end if its importance were not magnified by renegades at a distance.

Then there is the old story set afloat again that public revenue is failing because taxes cannot be collected. But the Dole government is not distressed for money. Its financial credit has been good at all times, taxes are paid without any serious default. For a government that has been lied about as much as Hawaii by refugees and royalists, it seems to have wonderful vitality. This staying power of course disappoints all its enemies.

Good and Bad Architecture.

Dr. Cole has done a good work in securing lots for the affiliated colleges in San Francisco and is doing another good work in securing free building granite in Folsom. More is the pity, therefore, that he should advocate a public building fashioned after the State House at Sacramento. That is a tame copy of something like a hundred public buildings that have been erected in the United States. It is the conventional plan which has been used until it is now a back number.

There is probably not a good architect in the State who would recommend the State House as a model for an educational building. Nor is it likely that if another capitol building were to be erected at Sacramento it would be at all like the present one. Classical architecture never tolerated a bulbous dome, that excrescence that is stuck on the roof of so many court houses in this State, and which so often delights the heart of the rural politician. It is the dome and the pillars that make the show, and in modern buildings are a sham.

If a dozen of the best architects in San Francisco were asked to produce the exteriors on paper of what they considered appropriate, it is not probable that one of them would have so much as a suggestion of the exterior of the capitol building. However suitable it may be for the public uses to which it is devoted, it is wholly unsuitable for the exterior of any edifice devoted to public or private education. It would be a great pity if a monstrosity of a public edifice were erected for the affiliated colleges. If that is attempted some long arm should reach out and rake in the plans for a bonfire.

"Paper the House."

Some years ago when a question was raised whether a certain performance would draw an audience in this city, the chief promoter said, "Well, we will paper the house," meaning, of course, that enough free tickets could be sent out to secure an audience. It is an old dodge and it serves for many a sharp turn even now.

There have been a number of "promoters" in the field to make paper railroads go. The man from Chicago dropped down here, looked over the field, and wanted to build a railroad from Oakland to Stockton. He could paper the road, and that was all. If citizens here would lay down a quarter of a million he would proceed to business. Now there had just been a circus in this city, or two of them, which took away about $10,000. Since that time citizens have not been able to raise an equal amount for the Wilmerding school. If another circus would come along and donate the proceeds we might get the school.

Then another man came along who had a magnificent scheme. He had papered a railroad through Montana, Southern Oregon and Northern California right down to Oakland. There would be millions in it. It finally dawned upon the minds of sundry citizens that this was only a modified form of the old dodge of "papering the house." These paper railroads never materialize. When the next man comes along there will be no use for his paper scheme and no necessity for two or three columns of misleading stuff in the newspapers by way of giving his device a good send-off.

That is a singular incident involving the death of Elliot A. Rogers, instructor of chemistry at Harvard University. He had dismissed his class and had turned towards an adjoining room.

"A glass beaker containing some chemical was in his hand, and in the other was a piece of paper, on which, as subsequently appeared, was written: 'It is as it should be.' Before the members of the class had all passed through the door Instructor Rogers uttered a groan and sank to the floor. His students rushed to his side and found him dead.

"The tragedy is a dense mystery. None of the students knew what chemical was in the glass beaker that he held in his hand when he closed the lecture. Nobody knows the significance of the words on the piece of paper which he held in the other hand. His friends scout the idea of suicide, and assert that the vapor arising from the unknown chemical must have affected his heart."

Prof. Rogers had been experimenting with cyanide of potassium and other chemicals. The theory is that the fumes of these affected the action of the heart and caused instant death. The other theory is that he used the most potent purposely for suicide

The cost of college education for women at several of the leading institutions exclusively for the education of the sex is here collated:

At Vassar the charge for tuition in all regular studies, board and washing of a dozen pieces a week is $400 a year. If a student is ill and visits the resident physician the charge is twenty-five cents a visit. When the physician pays the visit the charge is 50 cents. When a student is confined to the infirmary the charge is $1.50 a day for medical attendance, medicine, nurse's services and the carrying of meals to the room. Text books, stationery and the like are extra.

At Smith College the charges to those who live in the college houses are about the same as at Vassar. Four hundred dollars pays for board, lodging and tuition. The student brings her own towels and pays for the materials used in the laboratories. Those who desire, however, may obtain board in private families in Northampton at prices varying from $4 to $9 a week. A student may, therefore, obtain board for a term of thirty-six weeks at about $150. There are also a few scholarships to assist promising pupils.

At Bryn Mawr the charges vary with the accommodations. A student may obtain board, lodging and tuition for $375 or she may spend $600. No supplies are brought from home and the students do not take care of their own rooms.

Radcliffe charges the highest tuition fee. Its students pay $200 a year for regular instruction in addition to special laboratory fees. They board in Cambridge and may spend much or little, as their purses and tastes dictate. There are four scholarships and two prizes offered.

At the Baltimore Woman's College the charges for students who do not board at the college are $125 a year for tuition, and this includes all fees. Those who live in the college pay $375 for tuition, board, laundry work and the services of a professional nurse. At Wellesley the charges are about the same.

At Mills College the charges are about the same as at Wellesley. The curriculum for the college is about that of the Eastern institutions. There are a number of scholarships, but these are confined to the seminary course.

These are the good things that the Emperor of Russia will do if his life is not cut short by the nihilists. He will complete the great trans-Siberian railroad from his capital to the Pacific, a distance of not less than 6000 miles. He will connect the Black Sea with the Baltic by a ship canal about 1000 miles long. He has already officially promulgated the plan of this great work.

Its point of departure is to be at Riga, and its course, so far as possible, that of the Dwina, the Beresina and the Dnieper, terminating at Kherson. Its minimum depth is to be 30 feet, its bottom width 100 feet, with a surface breadth of twice as much, while its length is estimated at 1,000 miles. The work will take, it is asserted, five years to complete, and will entail a cost of 200,000,000 rubles. The canal will be furnished with electric lights and at the regulation rate of seven miles an hour day and night, about six days will be required to traverse it. The main object of this gigantic waterway is strategic; the next object is commercial. It will enable the Russian wheat dealers to send their grain to the European markets at much less than the present cost of transporation, and will further increase competition with this country in the wheat markets of Europe.

NOTES AND EXCERPTS.

The New York newspapers take pains to announce to the public that Miss Vanderbilt has given to her fiance, the Duke of Marlborough, a locket with a "tender sentiment" inscribed therein. A full description of the locket is given, and even the "tender sentiment" is quoted as follows: "Accept thou this, my heart, with all my love, though this be small." Evidently the Marlborough-Vanderbilt betrothal is destined to furnish us poor, unenlightened Americans many object lessons as to how those things are done among the smart English set. A commonplace American would think twice before announcing to the public through the medium of the newspapers the love sentiment inscribed on his sweetheart's gift. If we wish to be English we must change our ideas of chivalry.—Exchange.

The most extravagant instance of literary relic worship on record is said to be that of a well known Englishman who constantly wears, in a small locket attached to a chain around the neck, a portion of the charred skull of Shelley.

It is not generally known that the late match between the Duke of Marlborough and Miss Consuelo Vanderbilt was brought about in a great measure by the former Duchess of Marlborough, now Lady William Beresford. The stepmother took a great fancy to the boy, and when it was a question whether he would be able to get through Cambridge and go to Trinity it was the then Duchess who advanced the money necessary for him to do it in a way consistent with his position. It was the Duchess, also, who brought the young people together on many occasions. As the late Duke carried very heavy life insurance policies, which he turned over to the Duchess, she has been fully indemnified for the heavy outlay she made upon Blenheim, but the young Duke has never forgotten her kindness, nor has Mrs. Vanderbilt ceased to regard her with the warmest affection.—Philadelphia Times.

Mrs. Diaz will represent her husband personally at the Atlanta Exposition, as the Mexican law forbids the President leaving that country during his term of office.

Two illustrious women who celebrate this year the 75th anniversary of their birth are Florence Nightingale and Jean Ingelow.

It is rather shocking to learn that John Burroughs, the naturalist, who is a great lover of birds, finds himself compelled to shoot orioles that invade his vineyard near Kingston-on-the Hudson. A small crop of orioles, he says, will destroy a ton of grapes.

The vegetarian restaurant which was started in New York last winter and for a few months attracted considerable attention, has been closed, the patronage not being sufficient to pay expenses, says the New York Sun. It made very few converts to vegetarianism though for a time there were many promising recruits. The novelty of the thing usually wore off in a few days, and the new disciple returned to his fleshly diet with an appetite whetted by his short abstinence. The regular customers of the place were noticeable for their sallow complexions, and most of them had the appearance of being poorly nourished. They could hardly be expected to make converts to their mode of living by posing as living examples of the effect of a diet which excluded all forms of animal food.

A very pregnant piece of news is to the effect that President Faure of France will be escorted to Copenhagen in the spring by a French squadron. He will visit the King and Queen of Denmark and will then go to St. Petersburg. He will attend the coronation ceremonies of Czar Nicholas II at Moscow returning by sea to France and visiting the Swedish and Dutch sovereigns en route. While in Russia he will be lodged in the Czar's palaces.

ADVERTISEMENTS.

A CHALLENGE

To the Contra Costa Water Company, Oakland:

Some time ago I had occasion to make a microscopical analysis of the water furnished to the city of Oakland by your company, coming from Lakes Temescal and Chabot.

At your instance I am informed this analysis has been questioned and my reputation placed in a doubtful position.

In order that I may prove to your satisfaction and to that of the general public of the city of Oakland, the absolute correctness of my conclusions that the water supplied by your company IS UNFIT FOR HUMAN CONSUMPTION, I now make the following proposition:

I will meet any expert appointed by you and proceed to Lakes Temescal and Chabot, where we will procure samples of water from each lake, under the usual precautions taken relative to any analysis under dispute. Having obtained the samples, we will proceed to some proper place in the city of Oakland, fitted up as a laboratory, to be selected by your expert and myself—your expert to provide the necessary material for his investigation, and I will do likewise; both investigations to be conducted simulataneously and in the presence of each other. And daily upon leaving the operating room we will seal it up with the dual seals of the experts and place a watchman in charge, that there may be no opportunity for fraud or chicanery by anybody.

The expense of these investigations to be mutual, each side to pay their own expert, and any extra expenses to be divided. I will undertake to establish without cavil the absolute correctness of my previous analysis of the waters from Lakes Temescal and Chabot, whereby it was proven without the reason of any doubt to unbiased people that SAID WATERS FROM LAKES TEMESCAL AND CHABOT ARE ABSOLUTELY UNWHOLESOME, UNHEALTHY AND UNFIT FOR HUMAN CONSUMPTION.

In event of your refusing to accept or consider this challenge I shall make a proposition to the authorities of Oakland to name a committee, that I may establish to it the correctness of my previous conclusions regarding the unfitness for human consumption of the water which comes from either Lake Temescal or Chabot.

Respectfully,
THOMAS BOWHILL,

FRATERNAL NEWS

Good Prospects for Organizing a Parlor of Native Daughters.

GENERAL INTEREST ASOUSED.

District Deputies Are to Be Urged to Examine the Field.

GOSSIP OF THE LODGE ROOMS.

Satisfactory Conditions Exist in All the Leading Societies.

The past week in fraternal circles has been noted for the amount of changes in the general laws of several fraternal orders which have come to the front.

It has also been marked by the attention which has been directed to the fact that Oakland has no parlor of Native Daughters.

Native Daughters Aroused.

Nothing that has been published in the fraternal columns of the newspapers of this city of recent date, has attracted so much attention in fraternal circles as the article of a week ago in The Tribune on the fact that there is no parlor of Native Daughters in this city.

The young ladies talked the matter over and investigated what it was necessary to do in order to sustain the reputation for patriotism of the daughters of the State.

Native Sons looked troubled and one of them said: "It's a shame that we have not the ladies enlisted with us. It is our fault though it certainly is most remarkable that Oakland, with all her schools and colleges, her singing and orchestral societies, her lyceums and her interminable list of organizations in which young, intelligent and pretty women are the mainstay, is yet without a parlor of Native Daughters."

Everybody seemed anxious to do something, but what appeared surprising was nobody seemed exactly to know what to do, until the article attracted the attention of the bright and energetic young men of Athens parlor, the baby parlor organization of the N. S. G. W.

This young parlor intends to make social life one of its leading characteristics and its members know that social life without native daughters to make it pleasant, would be simply like a frame without a picture.

The resolutions in question have already appeared in these columns and have been generally discussed and commended. The substance of them has been published all over the State, and as a result, some of the comments are now finding their way to this city. From Amador county comes the information, which is intended expressly for the young ladies of this city, that a new Native Daughters' parlor has just been established there, making five parlors altogether in that county.

Then comes the following which is taken from the Alameda Encinal: "Remarks the Napa Journal: 'Strange as it may seem, there is not a single Parlor of Native Daughters in Oakland, although there are four Parlors of Native Sons. But a number of young ladies is now making efforts to organize one, and with the large amount of material to draw upon it seems impossible for the movement to fail.' Alameda, in this respect, is away ahead of Oakland, her Native Daughters' Parlor being No. 18, established in 1889, and still flourishing; and now there is talk of instituting another parlor. Hurrah for Alameda's daughters!'

This condition of affairs however, it is expected, will soon be remedied, because, before long, the grand officers will want to know what the district deputies are doing in leaving unworked a field which promises to yield such an abundant harvest.

Native Sons.

There are twenty-one parlors N. S. G. W. in San Francisco. All of them, with the exception of six, will have meeting places in the new building of the order in that city.

Order of Eastern Star.

The grand chapter of California will meet in Los Angeles on Tuesday next. On that evening, the delegates will be entertained by the members of the order in that city.

The grand chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, (colored) closed its session in Chico late last week. It was the thirteenth session of the kind held in this State. It drew forth a large attendance of delegates and, in the election of officers, Oakland was remembered by the selection of Mrs. M. E. King as Grand Ruth and Miss Rose A. Sagg as Grand Esther. The next grand chapter will be held in Sacramento.

Masonic.

The Grand Lodge of Free and Accepted Masons of this State is in session in San Francisco. At yesterday's meeting reports of grand officers were read. The election of officers will take place tomorrow.

Degree of Honor.

At the meeting of Ivy Lodge, No. 4, Degree of Honor, A. O. U. W., last Monday evening, the hall was crowded from door to door with the largest number of members that has assembled in the lodge room for some time.

Chief of Honor Mrs. Marks expedited the business meeting in order to give all time to enjoy the literary feast and the banquet provided for them, the occasion being the regular monthly social.

The following committees were chosen: To visit the sick, Sisters Preston, Richmond and Parkinson; special attractions, Sisters Mitchell Bradley and Garrison.

The committee on curtain having procured the long-talked-of curtain, was discharged with thanks.

Brother Wood kindly consented to place the curtain in position as soon as possible.

Brother Isaacs of the dramatic committee stated that the production of the farce entitled "Forbidden Fruits," written by Mrs. Donaldson, which is to be presented next Wednesday evening at Elite hall, by Ivy Lodge Dramatic Corps, will eclipse anything of the kind ever presented by any amateur company in Oakland. After the brother had concluded his remarks he was overwhelmed with demands for tickets for the show.

Sister Donaldson and Brother Ingler also spoke upon the efficiency and remarkable talent displayed by the different members of the dramatic company.

Past Chief of Honor Mrs. Wood chairman of the tableau committee, reported progress.

As it had been announced that the visiting delegation from Oak Leaf Lodge, No. 55, A. O. U. W., was in waiting in the anteroom, the Chief of Honor proceeded to close the lodge.

The social which followed was one of the most enjoyable affairs ever given by Ivy Lodge. The programme was as follows:

Recitation, "The Station Agent's Story," Sister Donaldson, which was given with great pathos, recitation, "Grandma's Beau," Miss Lizzie Geckin, which was so entertainingly rendered, the little Miss had to respond to an encore; song, "Jim had to respond to an encore; song, 'Sweet Alice Ben Bolt,' by District Deputy Grand Chief of Honor Mrs. Cogan, which was rendered with artistic sweetness and was loudly encored, the lady responding with the pretty ditty, "Kiss Papa Now, Goodbye;" recitation, "Mrs. Mulligan's Receipt for Cake Making," Miss Mamie Parkinson, which was the elocutionary gem of the evening; in response to an encore the young lady recited "Maid Marion," reading, "Biddy O'Brien's Toothache," by Lady of Honor Mrs. Oakes which was given with appropriate brogue, eliciting loud laughter; remarks on "Women," by Grand Recorder D. S. Hirshberg, which were very entertaining, considerable laughter being caused by the brother's allusion to Brother Dunton's Trilby feet which he guaranteed were number fourteen. Brother Hall gave a parody on "Marc Anthony's Oration," which was extremely humorous. Past Master Charles Dunton upon being called for made the most humorous speech ever delivered before Ivy Lodge. He retaliated with compound interest upon Brother Hirshberg's witticism at his expense. Eloquent remarks were also made by Past Chief of Honor Mrs. A. A. Wood, Sister Nixon of Silver Star Lodge, Temescal, Sister Richman of Mistletoe Lodge, Alvarado, Brothers Harris, Cogan, Ingler, McAllister, Watkinson and Hale.

Brother Isaacs upon being called to make a speech stated that he was to take an Italian character in the play to be presented next week and he was saving himself for the occasion. In fact he was in training for the event with a hand organ and one of Schellhaas' monkeys.

After the literary portion of the social was concluded, all adjourned to the banquet hall where justice was done to the viands spread for their delectation.

Great praise was accorded Sisters Atkinson, Brown and Parkinson, the committee on entertainment, for the splendid programme presented by them.

After the social was over the general committee on the anniversary celebration met and appointed the several committees required for the affair.

Ancient Order United Workmen.

The proceedings of the late Grand lodge session, which was held in Chicago, have arrived in convenient form and have been distributed among the lodges. The present rituals will be surrendered about the 15th inst, to the grand recorder when the new rituals will be furnished to the various lodges.

Pacific Lodge, No 7, meets this evening at Syndicate Hall, 561 Thirteenth street. Sojourning members of the order are invited to attend.

In the last issue of the Pacific States Watchman, Past Grand Master Workman J. W. Ward of this city presents an able article on "Average Age," which was submitted to the Supreme Lodge relief board by Past Supreme Master Workman Warne Wilson of Detroit, Mich. Brother Ward offers facts and figures and good arguments to show that the fears entertained by Brother Wilson are not apt to be realized as the order shows an average increase in membership of over 10 per cent while its death rate is lower now than it was twenty years ago. The article in The Watchman should be carefully read by every member of the order.

At its last meeting Pacific Lodge No 7, voted to debate the question, "Resolved That it is for the best interests of the A. O. U. W. to admit women to the Order." Past Grand Chief of Honor Mrs. M. J. Stewart has been invited to take the affirmative side of the question and Past Grand Master Workman J. W. Ward has accepted the invitation to present the negative side. The debate will take place at an open meeting to be held sometime next month (probably the first Thursday evening). This is a question of great importance and should be thoroughly understood by every member of the order as it came up at the last session of the Supreme Lodge and was referred to a committee of which D. S. Hirshberg of this city is chairman. It will again come up for consideration at the next session of the Supreme Lodge which will be held at Atlanta, Ga., next June. It is for the purpose of bringing out the arguments to be made on both sides and giving the members of the order in this city a chance to hear them that this meeting will be held by Pacific Lodge and all members of the order, including the Degree of Honor, are invited to be present and take part.

ANNIVERSARY COMMITTEE.

The committee from the several A. O. U. W. lodges, to make arrangements for the formal celebration, of the 27th anniversary of the founding of the order, which will take place on the 28th inst., now meets every Monday night. It formerly met on Wednesday night. The change has been made owing to the fact that the committee has recently been increased by an addition of lady members from Ivy, Silver Star, and Dawn of Hope lodges, Degree of Honor. These ladies are not less enthusiastic than the members of the male lodges in their desire to make the entertainment a grand success.

The proposed entertainment will be given in the First Congregational church. Speeches will be delivered by Robert Ferral and Samuel Shortridge. There will be other literary and musical features. The order has now a membership of 350,000 in the United States, Canada and British Columbia.

Independent Foresters.

The High Court, Independent Order of Foresters is in session in Riverside. It assembled on last Tuesday and the delegates were warmly welcomed by the mayor of the city. There are about 300 delegates in attendance.

Supreme Vice Chief Ranger Aitken of Flint, Michigan, is among the distinguished members of the order present.

Catholic Ladies' Aid Society.

The usual meeting of the C. L. A. S. will take place this evening at W. M. I. hall 1058 Broadway, when all members are requested to be present, as the nomination of officers for the ensuing year will take place.

Good Templars.

Among the officers elected at the late grand lodge of Good Templars were Dr. I. S. Halsey of Oakland as grand treasurer.

Odd Fellows.

Brigadier General J. F. Crossett has issued orders relating to the programme of the competitive drill of Cantons Patriarchs Militant of Stockton, which will take place on the 17th inst. It is expected that four cantons will take part in the drill. There will also be witnessed the ceremony of conferring the decoration of chivalry. This is given because of meritorious service and in this instance, the recipient will be Xavier Mefret.

A decision that has just come to hand from the sovereign grand lodge will be found interesting to local lodges. It establishes the fact that no matter what may be the financial condition of a member at the time of his death, wealthy or penniless, the lodge to which he belongs must pay as a death benefit, the amount named in its by-laws. A member of Yuba lodge in Marysville died. He was a man of means. His lodge refused to pay the death benefit on the grounds that the relatives were not dependent upon the benefit. The grand lodge sustained the subordinate lodge while, upon appeal to the sovereign grand lodge, the lower court of the order was reversed.

Knights of Pythias.

Grand Chancellor Samuels, K. of P., is again on the road making visits to lodges in the southern part of the State. Last Friday evening he called on Golden City lodge, No. 63, of San Francisco, and was hospitably received. The unwritten work was exemplified and addresses were delivered by Mr. Samuels, Grand Keeper of Records Schaller and others.

Foresters of America.

A number of changes have been made in the general laws of the Foresters of America. Among them are the following: A secretary of one court must give an accurate account of the standing of a member of that court when asked so to do by the secretary of another court. A "test" word has been substituted for the general traveling pass word. This test word will be changed annually. Hereafter the supreme secretary must reside in the same city as the supreme chief ranger. In the feature of the membership known as "social membership" only those who are over 50 years of age or who are unable to pass the physical examination required by the rules are eligible. Hereafter honorary membership will not be conferred upon non-members of the order.

All charges against members must be presented within six months after the alleged offense has become known to the complainant. Subordinate courts may advance two weeks' benefit fees on traveling cards. In the event that the courts from which the cards come do not reimburse the contributing court the amount becomes a charge upon the grand court. A system of transfer cards has been adopted by means of which a member of one court may by the payment of a nominal fee, join another court.

Many of these are radical changes and members will do well to acquaint themselves with the new order of things.

The local lodges will receive a circular letter in a few days notifying them of the numbers by which they will hereafter be designated.

Under the new system each court will be numbered in each jurisdiction, according to its age, the oldest court in the State, Robin Hood of San Francisco, being designated Court No. 1, whereas its former number was 5091.

Improved Order Red Men.

The Improved Order of Red Men has shown considerable improvement during the past year, as is evidenced by the figures promulgated at the late grand council. During the past year, 22,610 palefaces were adopted. Tribes paid in $2,009,000 while in relief of members and burial of the dead was expended $508,755. The great council refused to reduce the age limit to 20 years. The proposition to render ineligible to membership people who deal in intoxicating liquors went over under the rules.

The degree of Pocahontas has experienced an increase of 1000 members during the year. It has now a membership of 27,000.

Sons of St. George.

The usual weekly meeting of Albion lodge, No. 206, was held last Wednesday, the 9th inst., at their hall on Thirteenth street, near Broadway. One new member being initiated.

The committee on socials, reported that they, in conjunction with a committee from the Daughters of St. George, had made arrangements for an entertainment and dance, to be held on Wednesday, October 30th. Full particulars will be given in the future.

There are quite a number of members on the sick list at the present time and a warrant was ordered drawn on the trustees to meet the extra expenses incurred thereby. Notwithstanding the temporary drain on the treasury, the funds of the above lodge are in a much better condition than a majority of the lodges in California, there being over $1000 in bank; and the lodge still holds the palm of owning more per capita than any other lodge in California.

Under good and welfare several songs were given by Messrs. Trow, Oakes, Leach, Booth, etc., etc., which brought to a close a very harmonious evening.

$100 Reward $100.

Good Prospects for Organizing a Parlor of Native Daughters.

GENERAL INTEREST ASOUSED.

District Deputies Are to Be Urged to Examine the Field.

GOSSIP OF THE LODGE ROOMS.

Satisfactory Conditions Exist in All the Leading Societies.

The past week in fraternal circles has been noted for the amount of changes in the general laws of several fraternal orders which have come to the front.

It has also been marked by the attention which has been directed to the fact that Oakland has no parlor of Native Daughters.

Native Daughters Aroused.

Nothing that has been published in the fraternal columns of the newspapers of this city of recent date, has attracted so much attention in fraternal circles as the article of a week ago in The Tribune on the fact that there is no parlor of Native Daughters in this city.

The young ladies talked the matter over and investigated what it was necessary to do in order to sustain the reputation for patriotism of the daughters of the State.

Native Sons looked troubled and one of them said: "It's a shame that we have not the ladies enlisted with us. It is our fault, though. It certainly is most remarkable that Oakland, with all her schools and colleges, her singing and orchestral societies, her lyceums and her interminable list of organizations in which young, intelligent and pretty women are the mainstay, is yet without a parlor of Native Daughters."

Brother Ward offers facts and figures and good arguments to show that the fears entertained by Brother Wilson are not apt to be realized as the order shows an average increase in membership of over 10 per cent, while its death rate is lower now than it was twenty years ago. The article in The Watchman should be carefully read by every member of the order.

At its last meeting Pacific Lodge No. 7, voted to debate the question, "Resolved That it is for the best interests of the A. O. U. W. to admit women to the Order." Past Grand Chief of Honor Mrs. M. J. Stewart has been invited to take the affirmative side of the question and Past Grand Master Workman J. W. Ward has accepted the invitation to present the negative side. The debate will take place at an open meeting to be held sometime next month (probably the first Thursday evening). This is a question of great importance and should be thoroughly understood by every member of the order as it came up at the last session of the Supreme Lodge and was referred to a committee of which D. S. Hirshberg of this city is chairman. It will again come up for consideration at the next session of the Supreme Lodge which will be held at Atlanta, Ga., next June. It is for the purpose of bringing out the arguments to be made on both sides and giving the members of the order in this city a chance to hear them that this meeting will be held by Pacific Lodge and all members of the order, including the Degree of Honor, are invited to be present and take part.

ANNIVERSARY COMMITTEE.

The committee from the several A. O. U. W. lodges, to make arrangements for the formal celebration, of the 27th anniversary of the founding of the order, which will take place on the 28th inst., now meets every Monday night. It formerly met on Wednesday night. The change has been made owing to the fact that the committee has recently been increased by an addition of lady members from Ivy, Silver Star, and Dawn of Hope lodges, Degree of Honor. These ladies are not less enthusiastic than the members of the male lodges in their desire to make the entertainment a grand success.

The proposed entertainment will be given in the First Congregational church. Speeches will be delivered by Robert Ferral and Samuel Shortridge. There will be other literary and musical features. The order has now a membership of 350,000 in the United States, Canada and British Columbia.

Independent Foresters.

The High Court, Independent Order of Foresters is in session in Riverside. It assembled on last Tuesday and the delegates were warmly welcomed by the mayor of the city. There are about 200 delegates in attendance.

Supreme Vice Chief Ranger Aitken of Flint, Michigan, is among the distinguished members of the order present.

Catholic Ladies' Aid Society.

The usual meeting of the C. L. A. S. will take place this evening at W. M. I. hall 1058 Broadway, when all members are requested to be present, as the nomination of officers for the ensuing year will take place.

Good Templars.

Among the officers elected at the late grand lodge of Good Templars were Dr. I. S. Halsey of Oakland as grand treasurer.

Odd Fellows.

Brigadier General J. F. Crossett has issued orders relating to the programme of the competitive drill of Cantons Patriarchs Militant of Stockton, which will take place on the 17th inst. It is expected that four cantons will take part in the drill. There will also be witnessed the ceremony of conferring the decoration of chivalry. This is given because of meritorious service and, in this instance, the recipient will be Xavier Mefret.

A decision that his just come to hand from the sovereign grand lodge will be found interesting to local lodges. It establishes the fact that, no matter what may be the financial condition of a member at the time of his death, wealthy or penniless, the lodge to which he belongs must pay, as a death benefit, the amount named in its by-laws. A member of Yuba lodge in Marysville died. He was a man of means. His lodge refused to pay the death benefit on the grounds that the relatives were not dependent upon the benefit. The grand lodge sustained the subordinate lodge while, upon appeal to the soverign grand lodge, the lower court of the order was reversed.

Knights of Pythias.

Grand Chancellor Samuels, K. of P., is again on the road making visits to lodges in the southern part of the State. Last Friday evening he called on Golden City lodge, No. 63, of San Francisco, and was hospitably received. The unwritten work was exemplified and addresses were delivered by Mr. Samuels, Grand Keeper of Records Schaffer and others.

Foresters of America.

A number of changes have been made in the general laws of the Foresters of America. Among them are the following: A secretary of one court must give an accurate account of the standing of a member of that court when asked so to do by the secretary of another court. A "test" word has been substituted for the general traveling pass word. This test word will be changed annually. Hereafter the supreme secretary must reside in the same city as the supreme chief ranger. In the feature of the membership known as "social membership" only those who are over 50 years of age or who are unable to pass the physical examination required by the rules are eligible. Hereafter honorary membership will not be conferred upon non-members of the order.

All charges against members must be presented within six months after the alleged offense has become known to the complainant. Subordinate courts may advance two weeks' benefit fees on traveling cards. In the event that the courts from which the cards come do not reimburse the contributing court, the amount becomes a charge upon the grand court. A system of transfer cards has been adopted by means of which a member of one court may by the payment of a nominal fee, join another court.

Many of these are radical changes and members will do well to acquaint themselves with the new order of things.

The local lodges will receive a circular letter in a few days notifying them of the numbers by which they will hereafter be designated.

Under the new system each court will be numbered in each jurisdiction, according to its age, the oldest court in the State, Robin Hood of San Francisco, being designated Court No. 1, whereas its former number was 5931.

Improved Order Red Men.

The Improved Order of Red Men has shown considerable improvement during the past year, as is evidenced by the figures promulgated at the late grand council. During the past year, 22,616 palefaces were adopted. Tribes paid in $2,000,000 while in relief of members and burial of the dead was expended $508,759. The great council refused to reduce the age limit to 20 years. The proposition to render ineligible to membership people who deal in intoxicating liquors went over under the rules.

The degree of Pocahontas has experienced an increase of 1000 members during the year. It has now a membership of 27,000.

Sons of St. George.

The usual weekly meeting of Albion lodge, No. 206, was held last Wednesday, the 9th inst., at their hall on Thirteenth street, near Broadway. One new member being initiated.

The committee on socials, reported that they, in conjunction with a committee from the Daughters of St. George, had made arrangements for an entertainment and dance, to be held on Wednesday, October 30th. Full particulars will be given in the future.

There are quite a number of members on the sick list at the present time and a warrant was ordered drawn on the trustees to meet the extra expenses incurred thereby. Notwithstanding the temporary drain on the treasury, the funds of the above lodge are in a much better condition than a majority of the lodges in California, there being over $1400 in bank; and the lodge still holds the palm of owning more per capita than any other lodge in California.

Under good and welfare several songs were given by Messrs. Trow, Oakes, Leach, Booth, etc., etc., which brought to a close a very harmonious evening.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

EVENTS AT THE POINT.

Michael Amreal Is Slowly Recovering From His Injuries.

The Ferry El Capitan May Not Go into Commission Again.

WEST OAKLAND, Oct. 9.—Michael Amreal, the 12-year-old boy who was cruelly assaulted by John Frates with a pitchfork at Third and Center streets Monday, is recovering from his injuries and all fears of blood poisoning setting in have disappeared. The prongs of the weapon penetrated deeply into the child's body and at first serious results were feared by the physicians. The cause of the assault was due to a fist fight between young Amreal and one of Frates' boys. Frates' son was said to be getting the worst of the encounter, and the enraged father hurled a pitchfork at Amreal and the sharp tines caught him in the back.

THE SITTING WALTZ

Here is the way they propose to do things up north:

It is proposed to introduce a new feature in the ball room this season. It is the sitting waltz. The only difference to the old style will be you sit instead of dancing. The man's right arm is around the girl's waist, while his left hand holds her right. Her left hand is placed lovingly upon his shoulder, and all you have to do is to listen to the music. Now, that is something like it! It is a nuisance to have to gallop a mile or two to get a little hug or two. A room full of people sitting around on sofas hugging to music is more to our notion. If its originator succeeds in popularizing his "sitting waltz," his name will certainly be emblazoned in letters of gold on the heights of fame.—Nevada City Tribune.

IMPENDING ITS PROGRESS.

Vandercook's Line Somewhat Set Back by the Appeal.

Surveys, However, Will Continue and Everything Put In Shape.

An appeal has been taken to the Supreme court from the decision of the Superior court of this county over the granting of a franchise for an electric railway from this city to Livermore, which was granted some time ago to E. P. Vandercook by the Supervisors.

The appeal is based upon the fact, as alleged, that the lower court should have granted at the instance of the petitioners a writ of mandate compelling the Supervisors to award the franchise to Arthur Thomson.

When the application for a franchise was pending before the Supervisors there were only two bidders, E. P. Vandercook and Arthur Thomson. Vandercook offered for the franchise $25 in cash, a certain percentage of the gross earnings of the road five years after it went into operation, together with a certain number of electric lights along the route and electric power to be used for various purposes at the county infirmary.

The bid of Thomson was for a certain amount of cash and a certain percentage of the gross earnings of the road, which the Supervisors did not consider so advantageous an offer as that of Vandercook.

When Mr. Thomson found that his bid was not in it with Vandercook's he offered a supplemental and verbal bid, which the Supervisors refused to consider on the ground that it had not been presented sealed and in response to the call published in the papers. The Supervisors held that to accept Thomson's latest bid would be to sell the franchise at auction, which they held the law did not authorize.

On the other hand Mr. Thomson contended that he was permitted to offer another bid and that it was the highest bid and none other that the Supervisors should accept.

When the matter was taken to the Superior court the judge decided in favor of the Supervisors.

E. P. Vandercook was seen this morning and seemed to be disappointed over the appeal.

He claimed that the question could not be passed on by the Supreme court for some months, and that the effect of the uncertainty which an appeal necessarily created would be to annoy his company, which had made all due haste to build its line into Livermore and beyond. Meanwhile, however, he said the company would continue in its surveys and the work of securing right of way, so as to be ready to take immediate action when a favorable decision should be handed down by the Supreme court.

When tired and thirsty, for rest, a nice bit of lunch and a cool drink, go to Earl & Martin's wine rooms, 467 10th st., bet. Broadway and Washington.

EVENTS AT THE POINT.

Michael Amreal Is Slowly Recovering From His Injuries.

The Ferry El Capitan May Not Go into Commission Again.

WEST OAKLAND, Oct. 9.—Michael Amreal, the 12-year-old boy who was cruelly assaulted by John Frates with a pitchfork at Third and Center streets Monday, is recovering from his injuries and all fears of blood poisoning setting in have disappeared. The prongs of the weapon penetrated deeply into the child's body and at first serious results were feared by the physicians. The cause of the assault was due to a fist fight between young Amreal and one of Frates' boys. Frates' son was said to be getting the worst of the encounter, and the enraged father hurled a pitchfork at Amreal and the sharp tines caught him in the back.

THE SITTING WALTZ

Here is the way they propose to do things up north:

It is proposed to introduce a new feature in the ball room this season. It is the sitting waltz. The only difference to the old style will be you sit instead of dancing. The man's right arm is around the girl's waist, while his left hand holds her right. Her left hand is placed lovingly upon his shoulder, and all you have to do is to listen to the music. Now, that is something like it! It is a nuisance to have to gallop a mile or two to get a little hug or two. A room full of people sitting around on sofas hugging to music is more to our notion. If its originator succeeds in popularizing his "sitting waltz," his name will certainly be emblazoned in letters of gold on the heights of fame.—Nevada City Tribune.

IMPENDING ITS PROGRESS.

Vandercook's Line Somewhat Set Back by the Appeal.

Surveys, However, Will Continue and Everything Put in Shape.

An appeal has been taken to the Supreme court from the decision of the Superior court of this county over the granting of a franchise for an electric railway from this city to Livermore, which was granted some time ago to E. P. Vandercook by the Supervisors.

The appeal is based upon the fact, as alleged, that the lower court should have granted at the instance of the petitioners a writ of mandate compelling the Supervisors to award the franchise to Arthur Thomson.

When the application for a franchise was pending before the Supervisors there were only two bidders, E. P. Vandercook and Arthur Thomson. Vandercook offered for the franchise $25 in cash, a certain percentage of the gross earnings of the road five years after it went into operation, together with a certain number of electric lights along the route and electric power to be used for various purposes at the county infirmary.

The bid of Thomson was for a certain amount of cash and a certain percentage of the gross earnings of the road which the Supervisors did not consider so advantageous an offer as that of Vandercook.

When Mr Thomson found that his bid was not in it with Vandercook's he offered a supplemental and verbal bid, which the Supervisors refused to consider on the ground that it had not been presented sealed and in response to the call published in the papers. The Supervisors held that to accept Thomson's latest bid would be to sell the franchise at auction, which they held the law did not authorize.

On the other hand Mr. Thomson contended that he was permitted to offer another bid and that it was the highest bid and more other that the Supervisors should accept.

When the matter was taken to the Superior court the judge decided in favor of the Supervisors.

E. P. Vandercook was seen this morning and seemed to be disappointed over the appeal.

He claimed that the question could not be passed on by the Supreme court for some months, and that the effect of the uncertainty which an appeal necessarily created would be to annoy his company, which had made all due haste to build its line into Livermore and beyond. Meanwhile, however, he said the company would continue in its surveys and the work of securing right of way, so as to be ready to take immediate action when a favorable decision should be handed down by the Supreme court.

MINERS IN CONFERENCE.

The Alameda Association Is In First Class Condition.

The Alameda County Miners' Association met in the Council Chamber last night. Vice-President E. H. Benjamin presided. The officers of last year were re-elected as follows: F. Chappallet, president, Edward H. Benjamin, vice-president, and C. B. Rutherford, secretary.

Thomas Jeffreys, W. R. Thomas, Grant J. Taggart, W. C. Ralston and J.J Newsom were appointed a nominating committee to select delegates to the State miners' convention to be held in San Francisco October 14th and 15th at Pioneer hall.

The following were reported favorably upon and were declared elected: P. Miller, A. A. Wood, J. M. Wright, J. Samuel B. Christy, A. T. Merriam, J. Newsom, J. L. Lyon, T.W. Jeffreys, F. U. Phelps, John B. Eldridge, E. C. Rigney, Grant J. Taggart, W. R. Thomas, E. H. Benjamin, Geo. W. Baker, Mack Webber, T. L. Machin, Geo. Goodman, J. L. Mayon and J. L. Brown.

The alternates selected are Du Ray Smith, J. M. Taylor, E. F. Aiken, Geo Uhl, Richard McSorley and C B. Rutherford.

W. P. Miller, J. L. Lyon, F. M. Phelps and John B Eldridge were elected members of the association.

The following resolution was unanimously adopted.

Whereas, the aims and objects of the California Miners' Association are in the direction of the legitimate development of the mineral resources of the State and the retention of the mineral lands for the prospectors and miners for whom they were intended by the government, as opposed to other claimants from whom they were expressly reserved; and

Whereas, the Association, by its firm but conservative course in defending the mineral industry of California has inspired and retains the confidence of the public, irrespective of occupation, which is largely due to the personal standing, influence and actions of the present officers; therefore be it

Resolved, That the Alameda County Miners' Association endorses the course and actions of the executive, legislative and protection of mineral lands committees of the State association during the past year, and its delegates are hereby instructed to urge a renomination of the present efficient officers, especially the president and secretary and members of the standing committees, in order that no change of policy or course of procedure may possibly occur.

OLIVE OLIVER'S SUCCESS.

An Oakland Girl Who Has Made a Hit in the East.

The New York World of last Sunday contained the following:

The theatrical season has brought prominently forward a most promising young actress in Miss Olive Oliver, whose work in support of the Hollands at the Garrick Theater is proof of her superior quality. Miss Oliver was born in Carson City, Nev., but was brought up at Oakland, Cal., where she was graduated from the High School in June, 1888. When but 18 years old she made her debut as Queen Gertrude to the Hamlet of Daniel E. Bandmann, with whom she remained until May, 1890, playing all the heavy roles in his extensive repertoire.

Miss Oliver then played a season with Frederick Warde, and in 1892 she made a hit in "The House on the Marsh." Subsequently she appeared in "Ye Earlie Trouble" and "The Crust of Society." This season she has taken the parts of Zoom in "A Man With a Past," and Senora Lelia Caprices in "A Social Highwayman."

Tall graceful and of uncommon beauty, Miss Oliver is an attractive woman. She is an expert fencer and attributes her health as well as much of her grace and litheness to her skill with the foils. Last winter she taught fencing at the Professional Woman's League.

AMUSEMENTS.

Dixey's Monologue — "The Fire Patrol" at the Oakland.

Henry E. Dixey will appear next Monday evening at the Macdonough Theater in his famous monologue entertainment which has delighted thousands. Dixey's name has been before the theatrical world for years and his popularity is almost unprecedented. He will present many of the most attractive character bits in his repertoire, which is very extensive. His remarkable imitations of well-known personages of the stage and the world in general are among the best. Supporting Mr. Dixey is a vaudeville company of high grade. The sale of seats commences today, and indications all point to a very large demand. Dixey will be here for only one night, and therefore theater goers will have but this opportunity to witness his inimitable entertainment.

THE OAKLAND.

"The Fire Patrol" is playing to splendid business this week at the Oakland theater. The realism of the drama is heightened by the accessories of a mechanical nature and the real horses and wagon used in the play, which is sensational and striking throughout. From the very first the strong dramatic points of the play attract attention, and the thrilling tableaux result in a host of curtain calls.

SEEKING THE SHORTAGE.

Outram's Accounts Are Being Handled by an Expert.

The directors of the Mountain View Cemetery Association met in executive session last night to check over the books of the defaulting secretary. The shortage thus far amounts to about $8600, and this the directors think will be increased about $300 more.

The case is in the hands of the Surety Company, who are out about $4000 by the defalcation. They will undoubtedly prosecute, as all of the directors feel that Outram should be punished.

Will P. Melvin, who has been assistant secretary, was elected to Outram's position and the matter of employing an assistant was left over for a month.

The stuffed calico cats made of print cloth stamped with the picture of a tabby and stuffed with cotton into quite a lifelike counterfeit of the animal, which were a common toy with children a few years ago, have been put to a novel use lately in Lincoln county, Me. The farmers have fastened up the calico cats among the branches of their fruit trees and it is said they most effectually scare away predatory birds. It would seem the idea could be extended into the making of life-like stuffed calico huntsmen for use as scarecrows in cornfields and melon patches.

BATHERS AND PICKLES.

The Ordinance and Judiciary Committee Holds a Session.

Columbia Club Swimmers Not Yet Restricted Regarding Tights.

The swimmers at the Columbia Boat Club will swim the season out in the vest pocket suits if the ordinances regulating swimming is not acted upon before long. Last night it was called up at the meeting of the Ordinance Committee.

"Do you want to press this?" was asked of Towle, the originator of the ordinance.

"Of course I do," he replied. "I understand, however, that the boys want to be heard, and if there is no objection I will pass the matter over until the next meeting."

The other members did not seem to be so very particular, and the boys were given another week to dress as they please while enjoying their Sunday dip.

Towle's opposition to petit bathing suits is apparently waning, but in its place is growing a large and robust aversion to pickle factories. He had two ordinances on the question last night. One made it a misdemeanor to make pickles outside the southwestern portion of the city bounded by Third and Peralta streets. The other made it unlawful to store too many pickles outside the same district.

Mott objected to the ordinances, as he did not want to turn his ward into a pickle factory but Towle said that there was one there now and he thought they could stand more. The committee was getting into a pickle themselves when someone suggested striking out the word Peralta, thereby giving other wards an opportunity to enjoy the odors which float around a pickle establishment. This was satisfactory to all, and with the alteration the ordinance was recommended.

JUMPED THE TRACK.

Two Passengers Injured on the Trestle Glen Line.

A Trestle Glen car jumped the track yesterday afternoon at the curve at Whipple and Chicago avenues. Miss Lizzie Madden, a music teacher living on Twenty-fourth street and New Broadway, was thrown against the inside of the car and received some bruises about the face and head and was rendered senseless by the blow.

Deputy Constable Gilmartin, who was also a passenger, was thrown against the seat and had his knee somewhat injured.

AS OTHERS SEE US.

Robbing in any sense you please to put it is a grave offense; but when it comes to robbing the dead, which Secretary Outram, of the Mountain View Cemetery Association is virtually accused of, language fails to express one's contempt for the perpetrator. Worst of all, this young man, who is but 27 years of age, leaves a wife and two children to mourn his fall from honest manhood.—Alameda Encinal.

By ordinance passed September 21st, Oakland has forbidden the keeping of a nickel-in-the-slot machine. Thus the law cruelly interferes with man's ingenuous methods for capturing the stray five cent pieces.—Vallejo Chronicle.

In San Francisco they are seeking legal means to prevent the high tax levy. In Oakland the Mayor will exercise his veto. In Alameda the taxpayers strenuously protest. But the effort in each case promises to be of little avail. This era of high taxation in a season of unparalleled depression may arouse the property-owning public to a more acute sense of their responsibilities and duties and keep them from going a-fishing on election day, hereafter. Apathy in this respect is really what is the matter, and the remedy is readily applied.—Alameda Argus.

Assessor Dalton hardly needed to deny the newspaper report that he desired and was about to acquire an Alameda journal to champion his views and defend his acts as a public officer. The proposition was not reasonable on its face. Besides, Assessor Dalton seems to be making very creditable headway, with nearly all the newspapers against him and without a journalistic champion.—Alameda Argus.

The following were reported favorably upon and were declared elected: P. Miller, A. A. Wood, J. M. Wright, J. Samuel B. Christy, A. T. Merriam, J. Newsom, J. L. Lyon, T.W. Jeffreys, F. U. Phelps, John B. Eldridge, E. C. Rigney, Grant J. Taggart, W. R. Thomas, E. H. Benjamin, Geo W. Baker, Mack Webber, T. L. Machin, Geo. Goodman, J. L. Mayon and J. L. Brown.

W. P. Miller, J. L. Lyon, F. M. Phelps and John B. Eldridge were elected members of the association.

The following resolution was unanimously adopted:

Whereas, the aims and objects of the California Miners' Association are in the direction of the legitimate development of the mineral resources of the State and the retention of the mineral lands for the prospectors and miners for whom they were intended by the government, as opposed to other claimants from whom they were expressly reserved; and

Whereas, the Association, by its firm but conservative course in defending the mineral industry of California has inspired and retains the confidence of the public, irrespective of occupation, which is largely due to the personal standing, influence and actions of the present officers; therefore be it

Resolved, That the Alameda County Miners' Association endorses the course and actions of the executive, legislative and protection of mineral lands committees of the State association during the past year, and its delegates are hereby instructed to urge a renomination of the present efficient officers, especially the president and secretary and members of the standing committees, in order that no change of policy or course of procedure may possibly occur.

OLIVE OLIVER'S SUCCESS.

An Oakland Girl Who Has Made a Hit in the East.

The New York World of last Sunday contained the following:

The theatrical season has brought prominently forward a most promising young actress in Miss Olive Oliver, whose work in support of the Hollands at the Garrick Theater is proof of her superior quality. Miss Oliver was born in Carson City, Nev., but was brought up at Oakland, Cal., where she was graduated from the High School in June, 1888. When but 18 years old she made her debut as Queen Gertrude to the Hamlet of Daniel E. Bandmann, with whom she remained until May, 1890, playing all the heavy roles in his extensive repertoire.

Miss Oliver then played a season with Frederick Warde, and in 1892 she made a hit in "The House on the Marsh." Subsequently she appeared in "Ye Earlie Trouble" and "The Crust of Society." This season she has taken the parts of Zoora in "A Man With a Past," and Senora Lella Caprices in "A Social Highwayman."

Tall, graceful and of uncommon beauty, Miss Oliver is an attractive woman. She is an expert fencer and attributes her health as well as much of her grace and litheness to her skill with the foils. Last winter she taught fencing at the Professional Woman's League.

Dixey's Monologue — "The Fire Patrol" at the Oakland.

Henry E. Dixey will appear next Monday evening at the Macdonough Theater in his famous monologue entertainment which has delighted thousands. Dixey's name has been before the theatrical world for years and his popularity is almost unprecedented. He will present many of the most attractive character bits in his repertoire, which is very extensive. His remarkable imitations of well-known personages of the stage and the world in general are among the best. Supporting Mr. Dixey is a vaudeville company of high grade. The sale of seats commences today, and indications all point to a very large demand. Dixey will be here for only one night, and therefore theater goers will have but this opportunity to witness his inimitable entertainment.

THE OAKLAND.

"The Fire Patrol" is playing to splendid business this week at the Oakland theater. The realism of the drama is heightened by the accessories of a mechanical nature and the real horses and wagon used in the play, which is sensational and striking throughout. From the very first the strong dramatic points of the play attract attention, and the thrilling tableaux result in a host of curtain calls.

SEEKING THE SHORTAGE.

Outram's Accounts Are Being Handled by an Expert.

The directors of the Mountain View Cemetery Association met in executive session last night to check over the books of the defaulting secretary. The shortage thus far amounts to about $8600, and this the directors think will be increased about $300 more.

The case is in the hands of the Surety Company, who are out about $1000 by the defalcation. They will undoubtedly prosecute, as all of the directors feel that Outram should be punished.

Will P. Melvin, who has been assistant secretary, was elected to Outram's position and the matter of employing an assistant was left over for a month.

The stuffed calico cats made of print cloth stamped with the picture of a tabby and stuffed with cotton into quite a lifelike counterfeit of the animal, which were a common toy with children a few years ago, have been put to a novel use lately in Lincoln county, Me. The farmers have fastened up the calico cats among the branches of their fruit trees and it is said they most effectually scare away predatory birds. It would seem the idea could be extended into the making of life-like stuffed calico huntsmen for use as scarecrows in cornfields and melon patches.

BATHERS AND PICKLES.

The Ordinance and Judiciary Committee Holds a Session.

Columbia Club Swimmers Not Yet Restricted Regarding Tights.

The swimmers at the Columbia Boat Club will swim the season out in the vest pocket suits if the ordinances regulating swimming is not acted upon before long. Last night it was called up at the meeting of the Ordinance Committee.

"Do you want to press this?" was asked of Towle, the originator of the ordinance.

"Of course I do," he replied. "I understand, however, that the boys want to be heard, and if there is no objection I will pass the matter over until the next meeting."

The other members did not seem to be so very particular, and the boys were given another week to dress as they please while enjoying their Sunday dip.

Towle's opposition to petit bathing suits is apparently waning, but in its place is growing a large and robust aversion to pickle factories. He had two ordinances on the question last night. One made it a misdemeanor to make pickles outside the southwestern portion of the city bounded by Third and Peralta streets. The other made it unlawful to store too many pickles outside the same district.

Mott objected to the ordinances, as he did not want to turn his ward into a pickle factory, but Towle said that there was one there now and he thought they could stand more. The committee was getting into a pickle themselves when some one suggested striking out the word Peralta, thereby giving other wards an opportunity to enjoy the odors which float around a pickle establishment. This was satisfactory to all, and with the alteration the ordinance was recommended.

JUMPED THE TRACK.

Two Passengers Injured on the Trestle Glen Line.

A Trestle Glen car jumped the track yesterday afternoon at the curve at Whipple and Chicago avenues. Miss Lizzie Madden, a music teacher living on Twenty-fourth street and New Broadway, was thrown against the inside of the car and received some bruises about the face and head and was rendered senseless by the blow.

Deputy Constable Gilmartin, who was also a passenger, was thrown against the seat and had his knee somewhat injured.

AS OTHERS SEE US.

Robbing in any sense you please to put it is a grave offense, but when it comes to robbing the dead, which Secretary Outram, of the Mountain View Cemetery Association is virtually accused of, language fails to express one's contempt for the perpetrator. Worst of all, this young man, who is but 27 years of age, leaves a wife and two children to mourn his fall from honest manhood.—Alameda Encinal.

By ordinance passed September 21st, Oakland has forbidden the keeping of a nickel-in-the-slot machine. Thus the law cruelly interferes with man's ingenuous methods for capturing the stray five cent pieces.—Vallejo Chronicle.

In San Francisco they are seeking legal means to prevent the high tax levy. In Oakland the Mayor will exercise his veto. In Alameda the taxpayers strenuously protest. But the effort in each case promises to be of little avail. This era of high taxation in a season of unparalleled depression may arouse the property-owning public to a more acute sense of their responsibilities and duties and keep them from going a-fishing on election day hereafter. Apathy in this respect is really what is the matter, and the remedy is readily applied.—Alameda Argus.

Assessor Dalton hardly needed to deny the newspaper report that he desired and was about to acquire an Alameda journal to champion his views and defend his acts as a public officer. The proposition was not reasonable on its face. Besides, Assessor Dalton seems to be making very creditable headway, with nearly all the newspapers against him and without a journalistic champion.—Alameda Argus.

BASSETT GETS VERY RILED.

Brosnahan Throws Down the Gauntlet to Would Be Fighters.

"What is your pleasure, gentlemen?" smilingly said Chairman Mott as he last night rapped on the table to call to order the finance committee of the Council.

Heitmann's ordinance fixing the tax rate at $1 taxation on the $100 valuation was the only thing on the table and the city clerk read it.

"I move," said Dr. Buckland, "that 5 cents of the 14½ cents apportioned to the street light fund be taken from that fund and added to the 3 cents provided for the school fund, thereby reducing the street light fund to 9½ cents and making the school fund 8 cents."

Brosnahan opposed this. "If we have taken into consideration the Mayor's message," he said, "I do not think we will pass the motion. He has carefully gone over the estimates and thinks that 3 cents is enough for the schools. At the same time we have contracted for the lights and it will take all that the present rate will provide to pay the bill. If, however, we can show him that 9½ cents will be sufficient I am sure he will be willing to sign an ordinance fixing the rate at 95 cents, but I do not think it advisable to change his figures without first consulting him, as he may refuse to sign it, and our time will have been lost."

Towle seconded Buckland's motion. In doing so he said that he thought the people whom he represented would rather see fewer lights and have the schools keep open for the full school year.

"It is very foolish," said Bassett, "for us to try to change this ordinance. The Mayor has figured out just what the cost of maintaining the schools will be and what the street lighting will amount to. We do not know what he will do with the ordinance if it contains the proposed amendment, but we do know what he will do if it goes to him as it is."

"I am not the Mayor's lackey," said Towle, "and when it comes to the point that I can't conscientiously carry out my own ideas in this Council I am ready to resign."

"Nobody said anything about conscientiously carrying out ideas," said Bassett, "and when I said—"

Dr. Buckland here interrupted Bassett by calling for the question, and "Old Pard" was mad. "I don't propose to be choked off when I'm talking by you, Buckland, or any one else," he said as he jumped angrily to his feet. "I've been jumped on long enough. I have the right to be heard in this matter and I will be heard. I am not a lackey to the Mayor and the man who says so," and he rolled his eyes from Towle to Mott, "is a d— liar."

"Stop that," shouted Mott as he knocked on the desk for order. "We will have none of that talk here."

"I'll stop when I get good and ready," continued Bassett. "I won't be shut off by you or any of your kind. After making the remarks you did last night in the Council you are a pretty one to call me to order. I have said that I think the Mayor will veto the ordinance if we change it and I continue to say that I do not think it best to do anything until we see him at least."

Brosnahan rose as a pacifier. "We are making ourselves the laughing stock of the entire city by these actions," he said, "and I for one think it is time they were stopped. I am no fighter, but if a man gets in on me I'm coming back. Mr. Basset was perfectly in order when the question was called. He has a right to be heard and a right to be treated as a gentleman. The calling for the question on him at that time was ungentlemanly and wrong. You are not treating him fairly. I myself prefer to see these little differences settled quietly, but if there is any fighting to be done you just look for me right up in the front row. I believe he was right in his remarks about the Mayor's vetoing the ordinance, and for that reason I for one shall oppose any change."

No one seemed to have anything more to say and Buckland's motion was put. Brosnahan and Bassett voted no, but they were outbalanced by the ayes of Towle Buckland and Mott.

No further changes were proposed and the matter was left with the recommendation to the Council that if the ordinance is passed to print this change be made.

FOR WORKING WOMEN.

A Philanthropical Club Is Started by Mrs. Cheek.

Through the efforts of Mrs. M. A. Cheek a club for working girls has been organized in Oakland. On Tuesday evening about fifteen young women employed in various offices and dry goods stores in this city, assembled at Mrs. Cheek's residence, 672 Eighteenth street, in response to her invitation and the club was permanently organized. Its aim is for the mutual improvement of its members, who will be exclusively young women who are dependent upon their own exertions for their maintenance. It is modelled after clubs in Chicago and Boston which have proved to be of great benefit to working girls and women.

Meetings will be held on the second and fourth Tuesdays of each month, at the residence of Mrs. Cheek, each one of which will be devoted to some special form of entertainment. Current news topics followed by discussion, will occupy one evening, and a lecture upon hygiene by a prominent physician, a musical evening, etc., have been planned.

Mrs. Cheek, the founder of the new society, is the widow of the late Dr. Marion Cheek, one of the chief councillors of State in the kingdom of Siam. She has for many years devoted herself to the cause of philanthropy and is particularly well adapted to this line of work.

The club was virtually started last year when Mrs. Cheek invited working girls to her home one evening each week to spend a few pleasant hours, but it has now been placed on a sound basis and will probably prove a source of much good to its members.

DAVIE IS WAVERING.

He Thinks Dr. Buckland's Idea Botter Than His Own.

A Possibility Now That the Mayor May Not Press the Dollar Limit.

"I begin now to think I have made a mistake in regard to the dollar tax levy," said Mayor Davie this morning. "It is rather a humiliating admission to make at this late day, but I am not so pig-headed as not to be able to change my opinion when convinced that I have made a mistake."

There was quite a good-sized crowd of City Hall habitues within the sound of the Mayor's voice, and the effect was interesting. Bassett feared to speak, in case he had misunderstood His Honor. Heitmann said something—so did Brosnahan. Mr. Watkinson, who has only ridden a wheel for three days, was passing the front of the city hall at the time, and he fell off.

"I thought I had made those estimates in my proposed levy very carefully, but now it appears that I did not. Dr. Buckland, I must confess, has been able to go me one better and pick a flaw in what I considered was perfection itself. Of course, understand me, I am perfectly willing to hear and consider all suggestions. I worked long and earnestly on that dollar levy, but I am now convinced that it can be improved upon."

Mr. Bassett was fearful that his chief might need some attention and that if he said more the four would go down with him, so the senior member at large proposed an adjournment to the Mayor's office.

Once inside the room behind the door with "Walk in" on it, Bassett opened the conversation. "Now, look here, Davie, we cannot go back on our proposition at this time. We have been sincere in the matter and have followed every department thoroughly to see just what can be done and our limit of one dollar can do everything properly, but of course there will not be any left with which our friends can build their political fences. We have gone on record as the dollar crowd. We have been sworn at, cursed and talked about by those little fellows in a manner that would have brought forth retaliation from any men that were not of such a Christian patient nature as we are. Davie, we have been martyrs for that dollar limit. We might have eventually to say like poor old Wolseley, "All my glory in that one woman—dollar, I mean—we have lost forever," but never mind that, Davie, let us make a bold stand, let us preserve our manhood in the future as we have done in the past. Davie, if you now decide to recommend that $1.18——"

"What!" roared Davie, "who said a word about $1.18?"

"Haven't you just said that——"

"I said that Buckland had convinced me that my rate needed some doctoring. At last night's meeting did not he say that five cents could be taken from the street light fund and added to the school fund? What does that mean except that he is prepared to run the street lighting at five cents cheaper than I have proposed. I will not permit him to add it to the school fund, so a rate of 95 cents will be sufficient. Now, if somebody proposes to cut five cents off the fire fund and add it to the general fund, then a rate of 90 cents will do, for I have allowed ample for the general fund, and so on, and so on."

"Davie, you're a great man; no wonder we make those pinheads squirm," and the senior member at large, as he walked out, was more convinced than ever that his chief knew what he was doing.

"Bassett didn't quite understand," said the Mayor, "but the facts are simply these. If the Council can reduce any of the funds, then I am right with them, but if they attempt to increase my figures, then beware of the veto."

The Council will meet tonight and the dollar ordinance will be discussed.

IN KINDLY HANDS.

Superintendent Bank of the Ione School Looks After His Charges.

A meeting of uncommon character was held in the offices of the Humane Society last night. Among the many who attended there were feelings of sorrow tinged with satisfaction and though there was an occasional tear dropped, there were also many smiles.

The audience was composed of the parents and relatives of the boys now at the Ione School of Industry in Southern California. E. Carl Bank, superintendent of the home, was present and the audience had come in response to personal invitations.

After giving a short address on the work going on at the school Mr. Bank showed the parents some of the work that was being done by their boys. Many of those present had not seen their children for months and the sight of something worked by the hands of those of whom great things are expected in the future was very acceptable. Mr. Bank also exhibited several photographs of the children, in groups and at their work. All wear a neat military uniform and every effort is made to instil into the youthful minds the true principles of manhood.

After his address each parent had a short personal interview with Mr. Bank in an ante-room. They were invited to ask all the information desired respecting the particular inmates of the home in whom they were interested and the answers of Mr. Bank showed that he makes a personal and individual study of each boy committed to his care. Mr. Banks stated that whenever possible he likes to meet the parents of his pupils, so that he can more fully understand the particular method to be pursued in each case. All those present thanked Mr. Bank for his kindly interest and expressed the opinion that their boys were in good hands.

Street Superintendent Miller Laments the New Levy.

"With that dollar tax, which I now consider a certainty, staring us in the face, I intend to commence practicing economy, if it can be so called, at once," said the superintendent of streets this morning.

"Streets full of holes, sewers in constant need of repair, men continually asking for the privilege of earning a few dollars, and a possibility, nay a certainty of a fund one-half of what I asked for, what is a man to do? Eighth street bridge is falling into the estuary, the Twelfth street dam ditto, and when I think of the effect on the coming winter on some streets in East and West Oakland I positively feel faint.

"We shall have to lay off the street sprinklers and street laborers for a great part of the year and when the money in the street fund is expended, we can sit in the office and discuss politics. The street fund, of all others, should be liberal, as a big storm is likely to cause thousands of dollars damages to sewers that must be repaired instantly. I asked for $150,000, the auditor cut me to $107,000, and the Mayor's dollar limit will give me about $60,000."

John Mills, the husband she left behind, came here six months ago.

When the report spread through town that Eva and John Mills had been married Angel's hopes were shattered.

He met Eva's brother on the way to the Duncan home.

They were overtaken by the bride and groom in a carriage.

Twelfth Street Dam Declared in a Very Bad Condition.

The Twelfth street dam is in a much worse condition than is generally supposed. Superintendent Miller went to the dam yesterday with a force of carpenters and uncovered a portion of it for the purpose of making an inspection.

"We found it several times worse than we anticipated," said Mr. Miller this morning. "In fact that dam is unsafe. There will have to be an appropriation made for it very soon or there will be serious trouble. We can repair it so that it will last a long time but as much as $12,000 could be judiciously expended on that dam and then it would not be any better than it should be. A couple of thousands can be made to go a long way, but it will not repair that dam. Few people have any idea of the rotten condition it is in. It has never been fully repaired since it was built, but it cannot go much longer."

"We found it several times worse than we anticipated," said Mr. Miller this morning. "In fact that dam is unsafe. There will have to be an appropriation made for it very soon or there will be serious trouble. We can repair it so that it will last a long time but as much as $12,000 could be judiciously expended on that dam and the fix it would not be any better than it should be. A couple of thousands can be made to go a long way, but it will not repair that dam. Few people have any idea of the rotten condition it is in. It has never been fully repaired since it was built, but it cannot go much longer."
